Significant Step: President

U. S. Moscow Agree To Consular Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today an historic consular treaty with the Soviet Union and termed the event "a significant step" in building understanding between the American and Soviet peoples.

First Treaty for Two

The treaty, announced simultaneously in Washington and Moscow, will provide for the opening of consular offices in the two countries. It is the first treaty ever negotiated between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Johnson, citing the advantages which he expects this country to receive as a result of the agreement, said that when the treaty takes effect "Americans detained in the Soviet Union for any reasons will be assured of access without delay to American consular officials."

George Reedy, White House press secretary, was asked whether this would apply to any Americans who might be arrested on espionage charges.

"The statement says 'for any reasons,'" Reedy replied.

Senate Must Ratify

Johnson said the agreement, which must be ratified by the Senate before it can take effect, will be signed in Moscow on June 1.

Foy Kohler, U.S. ambassador in Moscow, will sign for the United States. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is expected to sign for Russia.

In announcing the completion of lengthy negotiations on the agreement, Johnson hailed the treaty as "a significant step in our continuing efforts to increase contacts and understanding between the American people and the peoples of the Soviet Union."

In the same vein, Johnson concluded his statement with these words:

"It is my hope that this treaty—the first bilateral treaty between the United States and the Soviet Union—will be a step forward in developing understanding between our two countries—which is so important in the continuing struggle for peace."

Potential Benefits

Johnson, in citing improved consular services to be made possible in both countries as a result of the treaty, said Americans visiting the Soviet Union either as tourists or for business reasons "will have available to them a greater degree of consular protection than ever before."

Johnson listed these other potential benefits:

"American businessmen and shipping companies will be able to call on U.S. consular services to assist in representing their interests. And the mechanics

Savings to Start Today for 107,000 In C-H Rate Cut

Lower electric rates for Mid-Hudson Valley families were put into effect today by Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation. The rate reduction, the third in the past four years initiated by Central Hudson for its residence customers, will amount to about four per cent on the cost of electric service for the typical family.

The new rate schedule will result in savings to customers of about $600,000 in the next 12 months, according to Central Hudson President Lelan F. Sillin Jr. He noted that the utility had reduced electric rates for residence customers in July 1960, and again in December 1962. The total effect of the three rate reductions, he explained, will result in savings to Mid-Hudson

Sen. Bush Is Honored By Builders

Hudson Valley Home Builders Association honored State Senator E. Ogden Bush of DeLancey as its choice for "Legislator of the Year" at the legislative dinner held Tuesday night at Governor Clinton Hotel.

The Home Builders Association each year at its May meeting, follows the practice of honoring an area legislator for his activities in behalf of the builders in the State Legislature. The session serves also to discuss the legislative problems considered vital to the builders of the area.

Plaque Presented

The Legislator of the Year plaque was presented to Sen. Bush by Malvern H. Cunningham of Kingston, past president of the association, and treasurer of the State Home Builders Association.

Sen Bush, visibly moved by the presentation, said in a brief acceptance speech, that he would rather act than talk on legislation. Sen. Bush represents the 34th Senatorial District comprising Ulster, Greene, Sullivan and Delaware Counties. He is in his eigth year in the State Senate, and was first elected to it in 1956. In the Tuesday primaries he will again seek the Republican nomination to run for re-election.

Cunningham presided at the meeting in place of Samuel Hankin of Poughkeepsie, president, who is at Vassar Hospital recovering from a heart seizure. A card signed by all those present, nearly 100, will be sent to Hankin.

W. Dale Schwartzmiller, regional manager of the State Department of Commerce office at Kingston addressed the group on the assets and liabilities of the Hudson Valley.

Lists Area Assets

Schwartzmiller listed among the area's assets, its proximity to the New York metropolitan area, important highways, the Thruway and Route 17 Quickway; the Hudson River, which he said can accommodate ocean-going vessels of 32 feet draft as far north as Hudson. He said dredging is going on now which will increase this to Albany.

In the liability column, Swartzmiller placed the need of low-priced housing; a good east-west highway, a Thruway on the east side of the Hudson; improved water and sewage facilities; need of skilled and semi-skilled workers; technical and vocational schools, and improved financial services for large projects.

Swartzmiller stressed the importance of 31 existing businesses which have expanded operations in the area and 18 new businesses established.

LBJ Helps Dems Raise $1 Million

Would Like Job Four More Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats gaily chorused "Once in Love with Lyndon" as they poured an estimated million dollars into the party treasury Tuesday night and heard President Johnson stop just short of declaring what everyone knows: that he plans to be around for four more years.

Republicans were singing another tune.

They charged that career government employes had been pressured into taking part in the $100-a-ticket Democratic frolic.

The festivities were part of fund-raising efforts expected to net more than $3 million this week for the 1964 Democratic presidential campaign. A re-run of the whole show is scheduled Thursday night in New York.

6,000 Attend

Some 6,000 turned out for the star-filled "Salute to Johnson" show at the District of Columbia Armory, with 750 persons on hand for the earlier $1,000-a-plate dinner with the President.

No figures were available, but the festivities probably contributed at least the $1 million predicted in advance.

But Johnson, with tongue firmly in cheek, insisted it was not a political shindig.

"This show is open to anyone who wants to contribute $100 to the Democratic campaign," he said.

His Prediction

On the serious side, Johnson told the crowd, "This is a significant moment. You are gathering as one Democratic administration draws to a close—and as we prepare for another four years of Democratic leadership."

Departing from his prepared text, the President, who never officially has said he will be a candidate next fall, added:

"I hope that you are all going to be with me for these years of achievement that are yet to come."

Bright Promises

Johnson spent much of his speech pointing with pride to past accomplishments of Democratic presidents, and promising great things for the future.

But as an incumbent, he did

Referee Mourns Soccer Tragedy, Blamed by Some

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—The referee at the disastrous soccer game in Peru is mourning at home with his wife and two daughters for a week.

"Then I want to see my priest," said Angel Eduardo Pazos. "I want to be sure the fault wasn't mine, like some Lima newspapers are saying. It has been so terrible.

Will Remain Referee

"But I will remain a referee," added Pazos, 38, a metal worker who officiates at soccer games in his spare time.

Argentina's team was leading Peru's 1-0 in the pre-Olympic game in Lima Sunday when Pazos disallowed a Peruvian score because a Peruvian player had committed a foul. A spectator jumped onto the field and ran toward Pazos.

Police dragged the man off, but other fans poured onto the field and Pazos called off the game. Rioting began.

"The police had to use tear gas because the water hoses didn't work," Pazos said.

A frenzied push for the exit gates began, but four of the seven at the north end of the stadium were locked. Body upon body was crushed against the barriers. Those who fainted or stumbled were trampled. There were 328 dead and hundreds more injured — the sports world's greatest tragedy.

Three of Dead Policemen

Peruvian authorities disclosed Tuesday that three of the dead were policemen killed by the mob. Rioters strangled a sergeant with his own necktie. An officer who tried to save him was thrown from the stadium

Rusk Will Lead U.S. at Nehru Rites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk made emergency preparations to lead a high-level U.S. delegation today to the funeral of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India.

Roused Before Daybreak

Roused before daybreak to receive notice of the death of the Indian leader, Rusk arranged to fly out of Andrews Air Force Base, Md. for New Delhi. Word of Nehru's death also was relayed to President Johnson in the early hours.

Other members of Rusk's party were Assistant Secretary of State Phillips Talbot, in charge of Far Eastern and Southeast Asian affairs, and U.S. Ambassador Chester Bowles, who has been at home for consultations.

Chavan Going Along

India's defense minister, Y. B. Chavan, who had been visiting the United States and negotiating for arms aid, was invited to accompany the party.

Chavan, who has been mentioned in some quarters as a possible successor to Nehru, was notified of the prime minister's death in Colorado Springs Colo., where he was visiting the U.S. Air Force Academy. Until the trip with Rusk was set up, he had planned to leave at once for New York and fly home from there.

Troopers Arrest Fulton Doctor, 2 On Abort Charges

FULTON, N. Y. (AP) — A physician and two other men were arrested Tuesday night and arraigned today on charges of illegal abortion in what State Police called a widespread conspiracy in central New York.

Covered Wide Area

Several witnesses, unidentified, also were taken into custody, police said. They said the ring had operated in Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Binghamton, Rome and surrounding areas.

State and local police arrested Dr. Harry Alpert, 52 of Fulton, Victor Gorea, 42, of Fulton, and Frank Morreale was arrested in Utica ,the others in Fulton.

Judge Donald Comstock of Fulton City Court set bail at $1,000 for each, and all but Morreale produced bail quickly.

Morreale was held in Oswego County Jail.

Court hearings will be held later.

Probe Still Underway

Police did not say how many persons were involved. They said the investigation, begun 2½ months ago, still was underway.

Abortion prices ranged from $500 upward, they said.

State Police Lt. Supervisor W. B. Surdan is coordinating the investigation, which has involved use of cameras to make identifications.

Two Syracuse policewomen helped make interviews.

Held Tight Reins Since Succeeding Gandhi in '47; Cremation Thursday

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, the aristocratic statesman who led India in the paths of neutralism and socialism since it became independent in 1947, died today after suffering his second stroke in less than five months. He was 74.

Senior Cabinet Member

Home Minister G. L. Nanda, a senior Cabinet member who has a reputation for getting things done, was sworn in as acting prime minister.

Nanda was sworn in by President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan. An elderly philosopher renowned in world academic circles, Radhakrishnan was charged under the constitution to take over the government on the death of the prime minister. But Nanda was quickly chosen to handle the administrative details.

Nehru's death was attributed to a heart attack and shock.

"The prime minister is no more," Steel Minister C. Subramaniam told the sobbing Parliament. "Life is out. The light is out."

Was Partially Paralyzed

Nehru was stricken at 6:25 a.m. as he arose at his usual hour. He died at 2 p.m. — 4:30 a.m. EDT, seven hours and 35 minutes later. A stroke on Jan. 7 had partially paralyzed his left side but he had recovered somewhat and in recent weeks had resumed his seat in Parliament.

His only child, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, was with him when he died. A large team of doctors was in attendance. The U.S. Embassy offered its medical staff and equipment, but an embassy spokesman said the Indian government did not request assistance.

Nehru's two sisters, Mrs. Vijayalakshmi Pandit and Mrs. Krishna Hutheesingh, left Bombay by special plane for New Delhi.

Mrs. Pandit is governor of Maharashtra State.

Successor Big Question

Nehru's death urgently raised a question that has plagued India for years — his successor. The strong-willed prime minister held the reins of power firmly and adamantly refused to designate a successor.

A leading candidate has been Lal Bahadur Shastri, 59, a mild-mannered, 5-foot-2 veteran of the ruling All-India Congress party and a close friend of Nehru. After Nehru's first stroke, he summoned Shastri, made him a Cabinet minister without portfolio and put him in charge.

Shastri Elbowed Aside

But when Nehru began recovering, Shastri was elbowed aside and his political stock dropped.

Two other political figures generally regarded as possible successors are Home Minister G. L. Nanda and Finance Minister T. T. Krishnamachari.

The Indian constitution provides for the president, normally a ceremonial official, to take over the government on the death of the prime minister.

The president is Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, an elderly philosopher renowned in world academic circles and a highly respected figure in India.

A state funeral and cremation will be held quickly, in accordance with Indian custom. The Defense Ministry said the funeral procession would start in New Delhi Thursday morning.

Officials announced Nehru's body would lie in state in his residence and the doors would be open all night to let people file by him.

Will Be Cremated

Thursday morning, the body will be "taken out in procession," as Indians say, through the streets of the capital to the burning ground.

Nehru will be cremated at a

Feels He Has Vote Pattern Key

Rockefeller Confident Of California Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller apparently believes he has welded a responsibility key that will unlock the doors to victory in California's vital Republican presidential primary next Tuesday.

The New York governor has tossed overboard the underdog role he played expertly in winning the May 15 Oregon primary. In that contest he damaged beyond practical repair the potential candidacy of U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Sees Handy Victory

Rockefeller now is reported highly confident he can handily defeat Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in next week's voting and thus blight the Arizona conservative's burgeoning drive for the 655 convention votes needed for the presidential nomination.

Rockefeller's public prediction that if he wins California's 86 votes in Tuesday's balloting he will have 400 convention votes on the first ballot is privately chalked up in his own camp as a booboo.

Even if he can field all of New York's 92 votes—of which there is some doubt—Oregon's 18 and California's 86 would give him just 196. He probably would go over the 200 mark but would still be a distant second to Goldwater on the first countdown at the San Francisco meeting.

Bolsters Faith

But his victory in Oregon and his confidence that he can win in California have restored the governor's obviously faltering faith—which he never conceded publicly—that he could win the nomination for himself.

Nobody around him was willing to admit it aloud, but until Oregon came along and California began to look good, the Rockefeller operation was regarded by the political pros as little more than a desperate effort to stop Goldwater.

Backers Optimistic

The pros are not ready quite yet to go along, but Rockefeller's people are talking optimistically of getting the nomination for their candidate. They are bearing down on the point that the governor really believes he can beat President Johnson in November. They are suggesting that Goldwater and some other potential nominees have no such faith in their prowess.

Rockefeller told a Young Republican audience in the swank Beverly Hilton Hotel Tuesday night that the issue in his head-on battle with Goldwater is "whether the Republican party

Memorial Slate Bringing Holiday Weekend to Many

For some Kingston area residents, Memorial Day will mean a three-day, long weekend holiday, while for some others it will be at least two days in a row.

Mayor John J. Schwenk said city hall will be closed on Friday to give municipal employes the long weekend. City court and the public safety agencies, of course, will maintain regular working schedules. All police personnel have been assigned to the Memorial Day parade for Saturday.

Mayor Schwenk meanwhile joined with other area public officials in urging display of the flag and participation in the Memorial observances on that day.

County offices, including the motor vehicle bureau will remain open on Friday but will be closed on Saturday as usual.

To Collect Refuse

Charles J. Cole, superintendent of the city Department of Public Works, said that refuse will be collected on schedule on Friday and the municipal dump would remain open during legal hours. He said the BPW will suspend all other public functions on Friday through Monday.

Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk said the post office will be open and mail deliveries will be made on Friday, but Saturday will be observed as a legal holiday for all employes.

John P. Schueler, public relations manager at the Kingston plant of IBM, said that both the Kingston and Poughkeepsie plants will close after the regular work day on Thursday and will

Governor Urges Remembrance of Brave Saturday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller has urged New York State residents to observe Memorial Day in tribute to "all brave souls who have fallen in our wars for freedom."

Rockefeller commented Tuesday in a proclamation formally designating Saturday as a holiday.

He urged that holiday activity include display of the national and state flags, patriotic services and decoration of the graves of fallen American heroes.

In a separate statement, State Police Superintendent Arthur Cornelius Jr. urged that all drivers exercise additional caution on the highways over the weekend.

He said additional troopers would be on duty to enforce traffic laws.

Dear Abby . . .

Fact — and Fiction!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This is for the mother who read her 16-year-old daughter's diary and was "worried sick." I, too, was 16 when my mother read my diary (20 years ago). It read like this: "After choir practice we all went to Margaret's house and as usual her mother was out. We were popping corn when Margaret's brother came in with some friends. 'R.M.' sure is the love of my life. When Margaret's mother came home, 'R.M.' was showing us how the coach gives rubdowns. I'm sure she thought the worst! Next week after choir we will go to Betty's as her folks will be out of town. Oh, boy! Here's hoping 'R.M.' will be there."

Some of the above was true, but the part about "R.M." was all wishful thinking. I had a terrific crush on him and he didn't know I was alive. I filled my diary with one imaginary love affair after another. Of course my mother would never believe that it was all made up. I'm sure that many teen-agers do this today. My own little girl (13) is now entering the thrilling age of secrets, and I am glad I have a secret to help guide me. Sincerely,

AUTHOR OF A TEEN-AGE DIARY

DEAR ABBY: I seldom disagree with you, but when you say that it is "unforgivable" for a mother to read her daughter's diary, I can't go along with that. It is the DUTY of parents to keep a close eye on their children until they are able to assume full responsibility for their actions. If a mother can learn something that will be helpful in guiding her daughter by reading her diary, or letters, or listening in on telephone conversations, I say more power to her! The "loss of privacy" is not nearly as serious to 15- or 16-year-olds as the trouble they could get into when they get away with things they shouldn't. It doesn't do any good to hear the confessions after a girl is in trouble when the trouble is evident.

ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW

DEAR ABBY: I, too, have read my 16-year-old daughter's diary for more than five years, and I expect to tell her only when she is lying awake waiting for her teen-ager to come in. By reading it, I have come to understand the intense need for love and patience at 16. It has helped me to foresee trouble before it dvelops, and to offer wise guidance. It has taught me to listen instead of preach. It has helped me to set limits before they are breached. It has also given me growing confidence in my daughter's ability to make the right decisions. I believe I have an obligation to God to return this child to Him as a fulfilled, useful person, not as an apology. And I know that I will be forgiven for using "unforgivable" means to do so when the times comes.

A MOM WHO CARES

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a 16-year-old boy, and while he doesn't keep a diary, I did come across an unfinished letter he had writen to a boy cousin. I was shocked and heartsick at some of the stuff he said he had done. Since one incident had to do with school, I got in touch with his football coach and a helpful school counselor, and had a talk with them. It turned out that my son hadn't done any of these things! He was just tired of being a "good kid" and wanted to appear more daring and spirited. Perhaps our entertainment today makes crime and violence appear so glamorous and exciting that our young people feel almost ashamed if they don't get into some sort of trouble. Parents shouldn't feel hurt if their children don't share all their thoughts and dreams with them. I know I didn't, and I had wonderful parents. This might help the mother who was "Worried Sick" because of the escapades she read in her daughter's diary. They were probably pure fiction, too.

Bus Fare Is Going Up In Middletown City

ALBANY, N .Y. (AP) — The Public Service Commission today authorized Mid-City Transit Corp., to raise its one-way adult fare from 15 to 20 cents in Middletown. The change is to take effect June 1.

The company operates buses on four routes in Middletown.

The current fares have been in effect since July 1, 1960. The commission action does not involve any change in the $1 price for eight-trip student tickets.

The company said the change would provide about $7,700 in additional revenue. This is needed, the company said, to cover an operating loss of more than $4,000 for the fiscal year ended last March 31.

STAR OF THE NILE

Nikita Khrushchev has breezed through Egypt like President Johnson took Atlanta.

According to reports, not since Antony barged up the Nile to meet Cleo have the Egyptians given a foreign visitor such an enthusiastic welcome.

Small wonder, since Russian loans to Egypt, currently totaling $1.3 billion, are making possible the all-important Aswan High Dam, upon which the economic future of Egypt depends.

Add to this Khrushchev's vocal backing of President Nasser's grandoise pan-Arab, anti-Israel ambitions, and the success of the visit was assured.

Western, particularly U. S., prestige is at low ebb along the Nile. It was not helped any by the vote of a House committee the other day not to give any more money toward rescuing the ancient Abu Simbel temples, which would be submerged by the dam.

It could be argued that the United States is being penny-wise and ruble-foolish again, as we were when we fudged out of the Aswan project.

All is not black, however. We have learned through sad experience that money does not buy friends. Some of those we have helped the most seem to resent it the most.

Premier Khrushchev may someday find that out, if he ever makes the mistake of reminding the Egyptians how much they owe to him.

ANTI-BOXING REASONS

Those who would like to see professional boxing outlawed or placed under strict federal control ofter bear down heavily on the idea that boxers — even the best of them, whose fights may bring in millions of dollars — seldom have much to show for it after the last bell has sounded. To a considerable extent this is true, but it is among the weaker reasons for being opposed to the so-called manly art.

Prize fighters are often victimized by promoters, managers and hangers-on of one sort or another attracted to the honey pot. Often, too, they handle their winnings poorly, and wind up with not much left after a few years of high life in the spotlight. This is not surprising. Men who fight for a living are not generally known for native intelligence or a high level of education. They don't usually make the most of their financial opportunities, and that is a pity.

But there are at least two far more persuasive arguments against prize fighting. One is that it tends to brutalize the men who fight, often injures them in mind and body, and sometimes kills them. The other is that it brutalizes the public. There are good reasons for opposition to professional boxing. These suffice.

The fact is that money fighting is a savage business that smacks more of the jungle and gladiatorial combat than of civilized sport. It is the only so-called sport in which the intent of the participants is to hurt and cripple and knock out the opponent. Whether or not the fighters are able to put aside a nest egg for old ages is a relatively unimportant side issue.

ATTACK ON PATENT LAG

Since his appointment in March, Commissioner of Patents Edward J. Brenner has had a chance to size up the problems that confront the Patent Office. They loom big and tough. Though he is sallying forth against them like St. George against the dragon, it is evident that the dragon will not be conquered soon.

As Brenner sees it, there are three major and rather closely inter-related problems. One is that as inventions and disclosures become increasingly complex it is harder and harder to digest them and search out possible conflicts with existing patents. A second is the 20 per cent annual turnover in the staff of experts. And then there is the fact, perhaps most important of all, that the number of patent applications is on the rise and there is a current backlog of some 215,000.

Brenner is attacking the problems intelligently. He hopes to cut down on turnover in personnel by raising salaries and improving conditions. Secondly, he is moving to simplify procedures to speed up patent searches, partly though automation. This is a sound approach. It will not pay off in a hury, but over the long haul the present average processing time of three years or more should be significantly cut.

'These Days'

LBJ AND THE INSTINCT FOR "COMBOS"

Lyndon Johnson has the skilled prizefighter's ability to put together what is known as a "combo"—or combination of feints and blows. Thus, instead of moving directly to staunch our loss of gold to overseas nations by insisting that Congress pass a law that would put a tax on the purchase of foreign securities, he has done his best to follow domestic economic policies that make U. S. securities more attractive than those of France or Great Britain. The result is that money, instead of going abroad, stays at home. And nobody has interfered with free market principles.

A similar "combo" was put together by the White House when the railroad strike was settled. When railroad management gave in to some union demands, with LBJ blessing the agreement, charges were made that once again our government had unfairly intervened on labor's side. What was not immediately noticed was that the railroad settlement did not touch the previous arbitration agreement on featherbedding, which has now been finally validated by the Supreme Court. Having won a minor victory in the White House a few days before the Supreme Court gave the green light to the railroads to cut out unnecessary featherbedding jobs, the unions were not in a position to complain about cuts the railroads are now making.

In one recent episode, however, Johnson's instinct for the right "combo" has failed to function. In trying to divert naval construction and repair work from expensive Navy shipyards to more efficient private yards, Secretary of Defense McNamara is on perfectly economic ground. All true free enterprisers must take the McNamara side in this effort to cut whatever padding there is in naval construction and bad repair bills. But there is, as naval yard employees in both Boston and New York have made plain in their aroused attacks on the McNamara proposition, a great danger that if President Johnson can't find the right "combo" in shifting naval work it could go badly for him at the polls in certain big seaport cities.

The other day it was announced that a private yard in Virginia was to get aircraft carrier construction work that could be done at the Brooklyn Navy Yard in New York State. The reaction in New York City was instantaneous: complaints went from local navy yard workers to Senator Kenneth Keating, a Republican, that the Johnson Administration was showing arrant favoritism to the Newport Company's Virginia yard just because it was in LBJ's beloved southland.

This charge of regional bias probably has no basis in fact. As Edwin M. Hood, president of the Shipbuilders Council of America, suggests, the Newport Company probably got the carrier award because it was able to make a case for itself on the basis of comparative costs. Yet it was unfortunate that Newport News, Va., is such a long way from Brooklyn. If a shift in work from public to private yards merely means that the same workers will be carrying their lunch boxes to different destinations, the Pentagon should try to reassign its naval construction and repair jobs so that any charge of regional favoritism will fall on its face.

A Johnson-type "combo" in shifting work from public to private facilities without unduly disrupting regional employment patterns would be to give what is taken away from the Brooklyn Navy yard to the private Todd yards in Brooklyn and Hoboken, N. J. Or, in the New England region, the privately owned Electric Boat division yards of General Dynamics would, in a Johnson-type shift, get work that might otherwise go to more expensive public facilities in Portsmouth, N. H. By keeping regional employment at traditional levels, the political argument against favoring the more economic private yards would thereby be robbed of at least some of its force. And the humanitarian argument against compelling men to move long distances to find work at their specialty would be stilled.

Currently, so my spies tell me, naval shipyard employees are contributing some hefty sums of money to finance a propaganda campaign to keep their yards open. Wouldn't it be better for them to start a drive to cut costs in the public yards? After all, the best way to keep business is to do it better than the other fellow. A Johnson "combo" here would be to give the navy yards a stated period of time in which to get their costs down before new contracts are finally awarded on a different pattern.

The DOCTOR SAYS

Bladder Inflammation Is Complication of Infection

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If you have cystitis or inflammation of the bladder, the passage of urine is frequent—even though the amount passed at any one time may be scanty—and it is also painful.

Cystitis may occur as a complication of an acute infection such as influenza, scarlet fever, septic sore throat or the common cold. The guilty bacteria or virus may get into your bladder through the blood stream or may travel up the urethra from the outside.

One reader complains of intestitial cystitis. This is especially hard to treat. With this type there is inflammation of the deeper as well as of outside layers of the bladder.

In some victims in addition to symptoms referable to the bladder there may be nausea and vomiting. Prompt and effective treatment is necessary to prevent the involvement of the kidneys—a much more serious matter.

Treatment includes forcing fluids to flush out the bladder and to dilute the acidity of the urine. Drugs and a low-protein diet are given to further alkalinize the urine. When the germ is identified, the sufonamide or antibiotic most effective can be given. When such treatment is prescribed it must be continued for at least two weeks even though the disease appears to be cured sooner—otherwise there is danger of a recurrence.

Urinary antiseptic drugs are sometimes combined with antispasmodics and pain relievers with good results. A new urinary antiseptic, nalidixic acid, has been hailed as a boon because it is effective against the Proteus germ. This organism has become resistant to most of the older antibiotics. Since it is not an antibiotic it is hoped that it will not stimulate these germs to become drug-resistant.

Q—About two years ago I began taking Butazolidin for cervical arthritis and it has helped me. What harm can come from prolonged use of this drug?

A—Phenylbutazone (Butazolidin) is widely prescribed for some types of arthritis. In some persons it causes nausea, waterlogging and a skin eruption. Because it may cause diseases of the blood cells, anyone who is taking it should have periodic blood counts. If this is done the drug can be used for prolonged periods.

Washington News

BY RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

SANTA MONICA — (NEA) — Here in the factories working on the manned trip to the moon, a new kind of potential technological unemployment is developing—a kind of technological obsolescence of the educated.

We hear a lot these days about the effects of automation on men and women who have had little schooling. But in the Apollo-Saturn factories I've visited on this trip to Louisiana and California, it's not only the undereducated who are being hit.

Management is finding that a good many of its college graduate engineers, scientists and managers—including men with advanced degrees—aren't able to keep up with the fast-changing intricate technical problems that moon and space exploration present.

Says one top manager of a plant doing development and production work for the Apollo-Saturn man-to-the-moon project: "We're finding that if a man has been out of college 10 years, he's behind the times—unless he's spent his nights at school studying to keep up with the new concepts. He often can't keep up with the man just out of college."

Says another manager: "We've put our space systems division several miles away from our older plant. We want our sharp young space engineers off by themselves where they won't be held back by the less-advanced ideas of our older engineers.

"Our problem is finding men who aren't so tied to past ways of doing things they can't come up with new ideas."

ROCKETDYNE DIVISION of North American Aviation, like a number of other companies, has told its engineers, managers, technicians and all other employes that if they will seriously go back to school in the evenings, the company will pay part of the cost. If a worker successfully completes work for a degree in this evening training, the company will pay all tuition costs.

The company is picking a group of its brighter young engineer-manager types who have proved their ambition by successfully studying evenings. It's offering to pay them a salary to go to school in the daytime.

I talked to Wallace Fore, Rocketdyne vice president in charge of manufacturing and facilities. Though he had a degree in chemistry, he's' been studying nights and has recently won his master's degree in operations management.

SO IMPORTANT DO THE SPACE ROCKET companies consider this academic-research stimulation that they tend to make certain their new development and manufacturing plants are built near colleges.

Douglas Aircraft Company's Missile and Space Division has recently built the first stage of its new space-rocket development facility in Huntington Beach, Calif., near the California Institute of Technology and close by the projected site of a major new college being established by the University of California.

Douglas is also planning to set up a basic research laboratory on the grounds of the Huntington plant. The Douglas people think this will spur research, help bring in new ideas and stimulate their engineers.

Scope of Supreme Court In Ruling on Counties

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court of the United States has just handed down a decision which transcends in importance its ruling of May, 1954, ordering public schools to be desegregated.

This time the Supreme Court goes further. It undertakes of a Virginia county how it shall appropriate the taxpayers' money. It tells the board of supervisors, which is the legislative body of the county under the constitution of the State of Virginia, that a Federal court order can be issued commanding the county board to levy certain taxes and spend certain funds for purposes specified by the court.

No such sweeping decision has ever come from the Supreme Court in the history of the United States. The theory of the Federal Constitution has always been that the executive, legislative, and judicial powers are separate, and that the right of the people to govern themselves and to elect a legislative body to decide how tax money shall be spent cannot be interfered with or impaired by any order of a court.

The Supreme Court, in this instance, admitted that a state "has a wide discretion in deciding whether laws shall operate statewide or shall operate only in certain counties, the Legislature 'having in mind the needs and desires of each.'" But the opinion went on to say that the Supreme Court of the United States may decide for itself what objectives the board of supervisors may have had in mind and veto such legislation if it doesn't conform to the court's conception of how the county's money shall be spent.

The Supreme Court was explicit in its command as it ruled that the Federal court may, if necessary, "require the supervisors to exercise the power that is theirs to levy taxes to raise funds adequate to reopen, operate, and maintain without racial discrimination the public school system in Prince Edward County like that operated in other counties in Virginia.

So, while conceding that a state may give counties local autonomy, the Supreme Court now reserves for itself the right to censor such actions and issue court decrees compelling legislatures to vote certain taxes. This has heretofore always been believed to be discretionary with the legislative body.

If the principle established by the high court is accepted, it could mean that the Federal judiciary may undertake to tell Congress how it shall spend tax money, and particularly to order the national legislature, as well as the state legislatures, to spend the money in ways which the court itself would decide.

Again and again, spokesmen for various states have argued that other states got more appropriations or more assistance from the Federal government, and that this constituted a form of discrimination. The Supreme Court of the United States now can rule not only on such questions but can claim that the citizens are not being given "the equal protection of the laws" when one state or one part of a state is favored over another by Federal or state appropriations.

Even more senational is the Supreme Court's ruling that a county, and perhaps even a state, must operate its educational system in accordance with the dictates of the judiciary. The Legislature of the State of Virginia, for instance passed laws in 1959 and 1960, providing grants of tuition to parents of "every child, regardless of race," so as to finance the attendance of such a child at any "nonsectarian private school or a public school outside his locality." All localities were also authorized to provide their own grants on a similar nondiscriminatory basis.

The people of Prince Edward County in Virginia, where the dispute arose over the closing of the public schools, offered to set up private schools for colored children as well as private schools for white children. But the Negro organizations declined the offer, preferring to depend upon a court battle by which they sought a compulsory opening of the public schools.

Thus a county in the State of Virginia is prevented by the highest court in the land from treating children of all races equally in permitting them to go to private schools of their own choosing or to attend public schools in other counties or localities.

The day cannot be far distant when private schools throughout the country may be subjected to the same judicial supervision on the ground that, while they might not have the financial support, these schools nevertheless operate under a state license or must obtain educational accreditation from state authorities. Private schools could some day be classified—in the words of the latest Supreme Court decision—as "beneficiaries of county and state support."

Most surprising of all, however, is the concept expressed by the Supreme Court that it may at will substitute its own decrees for the judgment usually rendered by a state or county legislative body elected by the people. An oligarchy of nine men, appointed for life, could virtually control the income and outgo of the budgets and, in effect, force the spending of public funds for purposes not approved by the people's representatives.

It is Robert Moses and Richard Nixon and Herbert Hoover and Nick the Greek. It is actors and teachers and neon lights at high noon. It is whispering beggars and loud messiahs and drunken poets mumbling quatrains.

It is screaming ambulances and children at play. It is a few trees and a lot of rats. Also, windowless - skyscrapers, diamond bracelets and steel handcuffs. It is smoky factories and suburban gardens, red lights and gasoline fumes.

It is success and failure, dead dreams and dreams being born. It is fresh milk and marijuana, garbage trucks and Rolls-Royces.

New York is computers and confidence men, ocean liners and rusty tramps. It is faceless faces and a smile of recognition; a dog sniffing along a curb and a wolf in a silk suit. It is pushing and shoving and bad manners and a helping hand. It is helicopters and sight-seeing boats and motorcycles and a kiss on a park bench.

It is a home for the aged and a cell for the young. It is Dixieland jazz in a cellar and Handel's Messiah in a cathedral. It is courts and broken marriages and June brides in May. It is delinquents and stern judges and the Salvation Army kitchen. It is public schools and integration and public quarrels and zip guns and switchblade knives and crucifixes, and mazzuzahs on a door. It is strange accents and hurdy-gurdys and fruit peddlers and chow mein.

It is beautiful and repelling; a hoyden, a harridan, a lover, a tormentor. It beckons, whistles, grins, promises and betrays. It has one-way traffic and no-way traffic. It is a city of psychiatrists and suckers, braggarts and complainers, students, scholars and morons, a place where the dawn is the pinkest and the nights are the brightest. It is a metropolis where dogs make friends quicker than people; a place of politicians, pamphlets, pickets and pick-pockets.

In it reposes the Waldorf-Astoria and the Skyline Motel, Grant's Tomb and Potter's Field, a Lincoln Center and a Washington Square, the strong and the weak, the good and the evil; gentlemen courtly and gentlemen cowardly; Holland gin and Holy Water; blessings, curses, free advice, warnings, invitations and assaults.

It is a city of second class fights in Madison Square Garden and first class fights in a neighborhood tavern; Gracie Mansion and Bowery flop houses; young executives and old receptionists; geniuses and jerks; pretty Rockettes and raw-boned rubes.

It is glass and steel and brick and sand and blood and hearts. It is the greatest and the most tragic: New York City. . .

Geologic Study Of Area Made by Paltz Student

New Paltz undergraduate, Morris Salkind of Chapel Street, Kingston presented a scientific paper at the Easter Colleges Science Conference in Jersey City recently.

Part of the study concerns itself with drawing the first geologic map of rocks underlying the city of Kingston.

Salkind, a senior at the State University College in New Paltz, who is majoring in geology presented a paper in structural geology entitled "Field Study of Paleozoic Strata of the Lower Rondout Valley near Kingston, N. Y. This scientific paper sums up the results of two independent studies accomplished consecutively this year under the general supervision of Professor G. R. Heyl of the Division of Science and Mathematics.

The research of Mr. Salkind is a distinct forward contribution to knowledge of the deep structure of the Appalachian Mountains of eastern North America, as this mountain system developed during Paleozoic time more than 200 million years ago. A more detailed knowledge of this mountain belt and its structure aids appreciably in understanding of the mode of occurrence of valuable mineral deposits in the region. The Rondout district is a particularly critical area in the investigation of Appalachian structure, and in the past has been studied by Prof. W. M. Davis of Harvard and Prof. Gilbert Van Ingen of Princeton.

In the dedication of the new Coykendall Science Building at New Paltz, this paper and the map of the Kingston area were both chosen to be placed in a container within the cornerstone to be opened in the future.

Mr. Salkind is continuing his geologic research in Ulster County, and as he uncovers further information he plans to expand the project, using the results as a thesis for the master's degree.

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that the Emmy Awards and the inter-network guerrilla warfare is over, there is time to consider what may be the start of something big for viewers.

The National Association of Broadcasters has made the first tentative step toward the reduction—or at least control of—those long minutes between the end of one program and the beginning of the next.

This period—sometimes 10 or 11 minutes—usually is crammed with bits and pieces, often highly profitable, that the industry calls "clutter."

Our hero rides off into the sunset several minutes before the official end of the show. Then we are treated to a scene designed to lure us to next week's episode, followed by a long, long listing of the cast, producer, director, associate producer, assistant director, cameraman, assistant cameraman, and everybody even remotely connected with the program.

Then come the final commercials, immediately followed by two or three station-break sales pitches and the inevitable station identification. Then comes theme music and the living-room viewer sees a teaser scene from the oncoming show designed to keep him from switching the dial.

Viewers have grumbled about clutter for years, just as they have been complaining for years about loud commercials. Nothing much happened, however, until some of the advertising agencies which buy television time also started to complain about "excessive non-program interruptions."

They thought all the between shows action watered down the effectiveness of the commercials.

Anyway, the NAB's television code review board decided to study the situation — and also the loud commercials situation.

Tried to Avoid Dogs

While attempting to avoid a pack of four dogs on the Ulster Landing Road shortly after noon Monday, Gerald Clearwater of 771 Albany Avenue lost control of his car and went over an embankment and struck a pole. He was uninjured. At the time he was driving south around a curve when he observed the dogs on the highway. The scene was approximately a half mile from Route 32. Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes of the Lake Katrine substation investigated.

Female cones of the bristlecone pine are purple and have sharply bristled scales, giving the species its common name.

Troop Carrier Reserves of Area Undertake Airlift

Many area reserve members of the 904th Troop Carrier Group (CALSU) of Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh are participating in an airlift which will transport about 140 Arctic-trained infantrymen in a special Alaskan exercise during the week.

Nine C-119 Flying Boxcars have been assigned to the mission known as Silver Fox III.

The Army role in "Silver Fox III" calls for the 4th Battalion, 9th Infantry to track down and destroy an "aggressor guerilla" band. This band of "guerillas' consists of other elements of the 9th Infantry and scouts from the Alaska National Guard. The exercises action is taking place in the hills and swampy valleys northeast of Nome where the snow is still four to five feet deep and the temperature hovers from near freezing to several degrees below.

The job ot the Mid-Hudson reserve airlift unit is to provide the airlift support necessary to get the Army units into the maneuver area and maintain an aerial supply route. Because surface transportation is almost non-existent through most of the vastness of Alaska, especially the northern half, airlift is the only means to move men or material in military operations.

Crew-members from the Hudson Valley region who took part in the nine-plane mission included: Pilots — Major Ralph Kluefpfel, Maplewood Blvd., Suffern; Major John C. Kerns, Saugerties; Capt. John Sabey, 7 Vincent Road, Poughkeepsie; Capt. James A. Palmer, Maple Road, Valley Cottage; Capt. John E. Tompkins, 9 Edgewood Drive, Saugerties; Major David Aiken, Dwaarkill; Capt. George Schumacher, 15 Orchard Street, Stony Point; Major John J. Stumpf, Salem Drive, Stony Point; Capt. Gerald C. Miller, 160 N. Main Street, New City; and Capt. John W. Irwin, 18 Orchard Drive, Wappingers Falls.

A3C, John J. Messenger, Cornwall-on-Hudson; and SSgt. George M. Darcy, Gardiner, were airborne radio operators on the "Boxcars."

The elements of the 904th Troop Carrier Group, which include the 336th Troop Carrier Squadon and a composite mission group known as CALSU (Combat Airlift Support Unit) will wind up this year's Alaska mission Wednesday and depart from Elmendorf AFB for the return trip to Stewart AFB Thursday.

The Alaska mission units plus an additional 350 members of the 904th Group including the 904th Material Squadron, the 904th Combat Support Sq., and the 904th Tactical Dispensary (medical unit) who are presently in encampment at Clinton County AFB, Ohio, will return to Stewart AFB on Saturday. This will mark the completion of the group's 1964 annual active duty training tour.

Many Still Without Physicians

Opinions Differ On Shortage of Doctors in U.S.

EDITOR'S NOTE—In parts of the United States, many communities are without a doctor to take care of their growing medical needs. This condition exists despite the fact that the nation's medical schools have increased their output of doctors. The following article, first of two, explores the reasons for this seeming contradiction.

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — American medical schools are winning a tough struggle to produce bumper crops of new doctors each year, but that doesn't mean everyone will find it easy to get a doctor to come to his home at night to find out what's causing junior's stomach ache.

Supply Grows Faster

Although the nation's supply of doctors has grown faster than the population explosion since the start of this decade, many rural and small town areas are without a physician. And more and more medical school graduates after years of struggle to become physicians, are going into the selective, higher paying specialties.

Opinions differ on whether there is an actual doctor shortage in the United States.

A resounding "yes" comes from small town patients who have to drive to a larger city to find a doctor, from city residents who spend hours waiting their turn in a busy doctor's office, and from suburban residents who have trouble locating a general practitioner.

But Dr. Hugh Hussey, director of the American Medical Association division of scientific activities and former dean of the Georgetown University School of Medicine, Washington, gives a "qualified no" to the question.

Favorable Ratio Gains

He said the physician-population ratio, which measures the number of physicians available for each 100,000 persons, is more favorable today than 10 years ago. He said this greater physician supply has been and will be able to meet increasing demands for medical care stemming from general prosperity and expanded sickness insurance programs.

But he added that he could not give an unqualified "no" because of his conviction that "we could use more physicians right now—in education and research to take advantage of rapidly developing new knowledge — and in practice to relieve the modern physician's problem of chronic overwork."

Norman Davis, director of the program for community medical assistance of the Sears, Roebuck Foundation, believes many small communities are hard hit by a doctor shortage and he blames the trend toward specialization in medicine.

Davis, who specializes in assisting small communities to prepare for and attract physicians, said the AMA and medicine in general have done a good job in boosting the output from the nation's medical schools.

87 Approved Schools

"But it doesn't do a lot of good if 78 per cent of each year's graduating class specialize," he added. "Maybe the ratio of doctors is increasing, but what good does it serve if it doesn't meet the needs of the community?"

In 1950 there were 80 approved medical schools in the United States. Today there are 87, with 11 additional universities having construction commitments or planning to build medical schools.

Today there are 141.7 physicians for every 100,000 persons in the United States and Dr. Hussey said the rise has been constant in recent years.

Just Didn't Happen

The generally rosy physician supply situation existing today didn't just happen.

A jolt came after America entered the space race. Costs of financing a medical education had soared and many top medical prospects in high schools and colleges went into glamor scientific fields requiring fewer years of study.

Intensive medical recruitment and financial assistance programs sprang up nationally and in the various states to cope with the problem.

The AMA and many constituent medical societies offered scholarships and loan funds to medical students. In the last two years, the AMA has made nearly 14,000 loans totaling some $16 million.

Several medical schools have begun experimental programs to consolidate and correlate courses so that the years of formal study can be reduced.

The American Academy of General Practice established a project to visit student groups and interest them in becoming generalists.

Even before the advent of the space age, local medical societies inaugurated programs to attract graduates of medical colleges in their states.

A medical society in Alabama offers student gifts of a maximum of $400 a year for four years with the provision that each recipient practice in Jefferson County, Ala., for each year of the grant.

The Illinois State Medical Society and the Illinois Agricultural Association offer student loans up to $5,000 with the provision that graduates from any U.S. or Canadian medical school continue general practice in an Illinois small community for five years.

The Nebraska Medical Foundation, Inc., offers loans to Nebraska Medical School students with assurances that the debt will be reduced if the graduate practices in a Nebraska rural area.

Free scholarships ranging up to $2,000 are being offered in Nevada and Ohio.

The low point in medical school applications came in 1961-62, but the trend has been upward since then.

Looking ahead to 1975, the AMA council on medical education and hospitals says it is impossible to make exact predictions of the number of graduates needed by then. But based on current birth rate trends, the commission said a goal of 10,500 that year appears as "a reasonable, tentative objective to be increased or diminished as events in the next few years may warrant." There were 7,264 graduates in 1962-63.

East and West Were Happy

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The words, "He was right, dead right, as he drove along. But he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong," are inscribed on a motorist's tombstone.

They might well serve as an epitah for today's North.

South's bidding was horrible and his play at four diamonds doubled was just about as bad. When the smoke cleared away, East and West were chalking up 1,400 points on their side of the ledger.

Thus, in assessing the blame for the tragedy, I have to charge South. North had to pay off with South and North could easily have averted most or possibly all of the loss.

North must have played with South before. He must have known that South liked to keep bidding. Hence, when South's first rebid was two hearts, North might well have passed right then and there. South might even have made that two heart contract.

However, North did bid two spades, whereupon South carried on to two no-trump. Now, North surely should have passed. True, his hand appeared worthless at no-trump, but two no-trump had not been doubled and South was a man who liked to keep on bidding. It was up to North to give up while still in a reasonably healthy condition.

It took the three spade bid to set the stage for South's final and rather ridiculous four diamond call. Obviously, he shouldn't have made that call, but he did.

She's got two more cases of Schweppes Bitter Lemon stashed away in the trunk.

Is it cricket to hoard new Schweppes BITTER LEMON?

COMMANDER WHITEHEAD

You are looking at a very practical young lady.

Last year, during the Schweppes Bitter Lemon drought, even her friend Commander Whitehead could spare her only a six-pack. This year, she isn't taking chances. She's hoarding cases of Schweppes Bitter Lemon.

Bitter Lemon is the newest triumph of the House of Schweppes. It was an immediate sensation in England. In America, connoisseurs are drinking it as if there were no tomorrow.

Schweppes Bitter Lemon is a great mixer. You'll get a remarkably good drink when you mix it with gin, vodka, bourbon, rum—you name it.

Schweppes Bitter Lemon is also the first adult soft drink. It has a tart, lemony taste. So sophisticated that it's the only soft drink children don't like. All the more for you.

The extraordinary demand for new Schweppes Bitter Lemon goes on and on. So rush to your store now and buy up a lion's share.

Caution: To get the real thing—make sure the label reads "Schweppes Bitter Lemon."

Convenient way to buy Schweppes: In no deposit, no return bottles. So compact!

Schweppes inimitable flavor is protected, naturally, by glass.

Prince Edward County Holds Fast

School Integration Order Not Expected to Make Change

FARMVILLE, Va. (AP)—Few white and Negro students are expected to share the same classrooms next fall in Prince Edward County despite a U.S. Supreme Court order that public schools be reopened on an integrated basis.

While reaction to Monday's historic ruling from county and state officials was scant, opinions were privately voiced that the net result would be a public school system attended almost entirely by Negroes and boycotted by white students who would continue to study at private, segregated schools.

In delivering the court's main opinion, Justice Hugo L. Black said "the time for mere 'deliberate speed' has run out, and that phrase can no longer justify denying these Prince Edward County school children their constitutional rights to an education equal to that afforded by the public schools in other parts of Virginia."

The case, which has journeyed through a maze of state and federal court decisions since its inception in 1951, was sent back to the Richmond U.S. District Court which was empowered to order the county's schools reopened.

Gov. Albertis S. Harrison Jr. discussed the decision with members of the state attorney general's staff and later told newsmen he could say very little because the case still awaits settlement of specific points in U.S. District Court.

Harrison termed the ruling "manifestly a far-reaching decision" in that it marks the first time a court has committed itself to order a legislative body to levy taxes.

This was in reference to wording in the decision that the district court is empowered to require the Prince Edward County Board of Supervisors to levy the necessary taxes to finance a public school system.

It was the refusal of the supervisors in the face of court-ordered integration to levy such taxes in 1959—and every year since — that resulted in the southside Virginia county becoming the only locality in the nation without public schools.

During the past five years the white children have attended county's approximately 1,250 private schools hastily set up in reaction to the court's integration order. About 1,600 Negro children went largely without formal schooling until last September when—at the urging of the late President John F. Kennedy—an experimental one-year educational program known as the Prince Edward Free School Foundation was established with private funds.

Nautically speaking, lagan is ship cargo which is sunk with definite intention of being recovered later, a buoy usually marking its location.

Donald G. Robins National Aide-de-Camp

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Joseph J. Lombardo, Brooklyn, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, has announced the appointment of Donald G. Robins, 135 Elmendorf Street, Kingston, as national Aide-de-Camp, Recruiting Class, VFW.

In making the announcement of the appointment, Commander Lombardo said: "It is an honor for me to extend this appointment to Robins. He has earned this appointment through his own hard work. In many ways an aide-de-camp recruiting class is the most important appointment within our organization. It is because of the efforts of men such as Robins that the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States is a growing organization. Were it not for our membership strength we could not carry on our many youth and community service projects nor could we continue to alert our nation to the dangers of Communism. I want to publicly commend Robins for the tremendous job he has done for our organization."

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—American steelmasters, convering on New York today for their annual meeting, are comparing notes on the fast change-over to new techniques now under way. Some of the smaller companies are claiming credit for leading the move to catch up with steelmakers abroad.

Changes Coming Fast

Beyond that, delegates to the American Iron & Steel Institute meeting are being told to "anticipate major changes in metallurgical education and laboratory research" with whole new industries to "emerge out of the new scientific developments."

The here-and-now changes are coming fast, if belatedly. Continuous casting units are the latest, touted as saving from $3 to $12 a ton by skipping steps in the older process. This trend follows closely on the switch to oxygen furnaces, which can cut $2 to $8 a ton from costs of production from the standard open hearths.

Continuous casting was first used in the European Common Market, Japan and Russia. Recently it was taken up here by some small steel companies. And now many of the biggest concerns are building or planning to build continuous casting units. These bypass the ingot mold, stripping, soaking pit, and blooming mill, to convert molten metal into semifinished steel in one operation.

Unit in Two Years

U.S. Steel will have a unit in operation in about two years at Gary, Ind. National Steel will have one at Weirton, W.Va., and and Armco Steel at Butler, Pa. Bethlehem's pilot model will soon be in operation. Republic is building oxygen furnace plants which could accommodate continuous casting units later. McLouth is experimenting with the process.

But some small companies have units already in operation: Roanoke Steel, Roblin Steel, Connors Steel division of H. K. Porter.

The reason seems to be that this is one innovation which the small firm, as well as the large, can afford.

Charge Atheist, Son Lured Daughter Away

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The parents of a 17-year-old girl have charged Madalyn Murray, Baltimore atheist, and her son William, 18, with causing their daughter to abandon her Jewish faith and to leave home.

In a petition filed in a criminal court, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Abramovitz said their daughter, Susan, has been living with the Murrays against their wishes and refuses to come home.

The Abramovitz's contend that Mrs. Murray has encouraged Susan to become an atheist and the girl now wants her parents to refrain from urging her to follow any religious faith, including Judaism.

Mrs. Murray, who is known for her successful suit in having the Supreme Court ban required prayers and Bible readings in public schools, declined comment.

Will Trot to Fair

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Fifty hardy Springfield College athletes plan to trot 150 miles to the World's Fair next week, but they'll have to detour Connecticut.

Connecticut State Police Commissioner Leo Mulcahy said he told the students they may not run along Connecticut's highways. Mulcahy cited the danger to the runners and to motorists.

The runners now plan to run along Route 23 in Massachusetts and cross over to Route 9 in New York State.

Leavitt Appeals For Big Turnout On Primary Day

POUGHKEEPSIE — Kent Leavitt, chairman of the 28th Congressional District's Republicans for Goldwater Committee, made a last minute appeal today for all enrolled Republicans to go to the polls and vote in next Tuesday's primary election.

"Our committee has worked hard to give voters their right of choice as to whom they should send to the Republican National Convention in San Francisco," Leavitt said. "That voters wanted this choice as to who should represent them, and not Rockefeller, has been apparent in the support accorded me and Lewis Hall as delegates, and Alice O. Lafko and Archie Lebrecht as alternates.

"Without the efforts of our five-county committee there would be no primary," he continued. "And by the same token the Albany machine-picked candidates for delegates would not now, at this late date, be seeking to gracefully shed any obligations or commitments made before we demanded and obtained the right of choice at next Tuesday's primary election.

"We ask and hope that every enrolled Republican will show up at their regular voting place to have their 'say' as to which slate of delegates and alternates that will represent them," Leavitt said in conclusion.

Harris to Oppose Wilkinson in Run For Senate Post

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma Democrats ris, a 33-year-old attorney, as Tuesday night tapped Fred Harris, a 33-year-old attorney, as their man to tackle the pride of the Republicans — ex - football coach Bud Wilkinson — for the U.S. Senate.

Harris swamped incumbent Sen. J. Howard Edmondson, whose meteoric rise in politics was cut short by sudden and overwhelming defeat.

Even more surprising was the victory of under-aged Jed Johnson over 6th District Rep. Victor Wickersham, and 18-year veteran of the lower chamber. The minimum age for a congressman is 25—and Johnson won't be that old until December.

Harris received 270,928 votes to 172,785 for Edmondson with all but a handful of the state's 3,044 precincts still out.

Johnson, who just barely won a run off spot against Wickersham after the May 5 primary, had 42,185 votes to 40,973 for Wickersham with all precincts reported.

Chief Collapses, Dies

Fight Off Lynch Mob After Negro Slays Bartender

NEW YORK (AP) — "Lynch him. Kill him," shouted a mob of whites outside a bar where a Negro was being questioned about the holdup murder of a white bartender.

The victim was the third white man attacked by Negroes near the western edge of Harlem in five days.

Admits Shooting

Police had to call in reinforcements Tuesday night to push through the mob to a patrol car with the Negro. They said early today that the man, Alonzo Cook, 20, of Harlem, had admitted the shooting.

He was booked on a charge of homicide.

Police said the bartender, Gerald Esmond, 55, was talking to a lone customer when the gunman entered and said, "Give me your money."

"Are you kidding?" Esmond asked, and was shot twice. The gunman grabbed $40 from the cash register and fled, pursued by the customer.

Police arrested Cook after they found him in bushes in a church yard.

Esmond, married and the father of one, was well-known in the Vinegar Hill section of Manhattan's upper West Side, a predominantly white neighborhood. A crowd gathered at the bar at 3299 Broadway and the noisiest rattled and pounded on the door, shouting for a lynching.

Last Friday night, L. Carroll Adams, 56, a professor of physical education at Columbia University, was attacked and robbed of $70 by about 20 teenage Negroes.

Showdown Seems Certain in June On Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders are scrambling for the votes needed to apply cloture now that a showdown over the civil rights bill appears certain next month.

A revised bill — compromised to attract the undecided but retaining the basic provisions of the version which cleared the House Feb. 10—was finally introduced in the Senate Tuesday after weeks of tinkering.

The bipartisan leaders immediately voiced varying degrees of confidence that it will clear the Senate in June. Assistant Democratic leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota said he hopes the House then will agree to the Senate version in time for President Johnson to sign the bill into law by July 4.

First, however, the rights forces must get two-thirds of the senators present and voting to approve an end to debate, which is in its 65th day today.

Boards Approve Hercules, Have Acquisition Plan

Henry A. Touron, president of Hercules Powder Company, and John H. Lux, president of Haveg Industries, Inc., announced today approval by the board of directors of both companies of a plan for the acquisition of Haveg Industries by Hercules Powder Company, subject to the approval of the stockholders of Haveg Industries, Inc.

The proposed acquisition calls for the issuance of a new series of Hercules Powder Cumulative Class A stock at the rate of 2 shares for each 5 shares of Haveg common. The new Hercules A stock is to be entitled to cumulative dividends of $1.65 per annum and, like the currently outstanding Cumulative Class A stock, will have no par value. It is to rank pari passu with the outstanding $2 convertible series and will itself be convertible into three shares of Hercules Powder Common during the first year, into three and one-eighth shares during the second and third years, and into three and three-eights shares from the fourth through the sixth year. The issue is to be non-callable during the six years of convertibility, becoming callable at $150 per share thereafter.

Thouron said that it is planned to continue the operations of Haveg Industries and its subsidiaries with its present management and personnel and in Haveg's present plant facilities. Dr. Lux said the ability of Haveg Industries rapidly to develop and exploit its plastics technology will be enhanced and assured by effective utilization of the combined financial and technical resources.

Both Hercules and Haveg have their headquarters in Wilmington, Del.

The common stocks of both companies are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Haveg Industries has 1,024,772 Common, and Hercules Powder Company, in addition to 18,293,450 Common presently has 141,164 Cumulatve Class A and 87,488 Preferred shares outstanding. Both companies are incorporated in Delaware and were established in 1929 and 1912, respectively.

The negotiations leading to the acquisition were assisted by American Securities Corporation, Investment Bankers, and Nye & Whitehead, members N.Y.S.E.

Folsom Hopeful Of Move to Check Hospital Costs

NEW YORK (AP) — Marion B. Folsom, chairman of Gov. Rockefeller's Committee on Hospital Costs, says it needs cooperation from hospital authorities and the general public to accomplish its aims.

He also said Tuesday the committee hopes to draw up "hard - hitting" recommendations to control soaring hospital costs.

Folsom, who was secretary of health, education and welfare under former President Eisenhower, told newsmen he has no "high hopes" that hospital costs can be reduced. "The main thing is we have to try to control them," he said.

The seven-member committee held its organization meeting at Rockefeller's Manhattan office.

The committee was set up last Sunday as a result of the controversy over rate increases granted to the Blue Cross Hospitalization Insurance Plan.

December 25th was established as the date for Christmas by order of Bishop Liberius of Rome in 354 A. D.

Telegraphers Told To Qualify Action

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A federal judge has ordered the Union of Railroad Telegraphers to explain today why the union should not be restrained from striking the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad.

The railroad filed a brief with Judge John O. Henderson of Federal Court explaining that the strike by the telegraphers, planned for midnight Thursday, would halt the system's "entire transportation activities."

There are 18,000 employes of Erie-Lackawanna in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Erie Lackawanna has asked the court for a restraining order on grounds that the labor dispute involved is on the docket of the National Mediation Board.

The union claims four employes were fired in Ohio without proper notice.

The Federal Court here issued a restraining order Jan. 24, after the telegraphers notified the company of walkout plans. The order expired Jan. 28 and the union withdrew its strike notice.

At the peak of the harvest season, 3,000 trucks and cars roll along the Aleppo-Raqqah Road in Syria, daily.

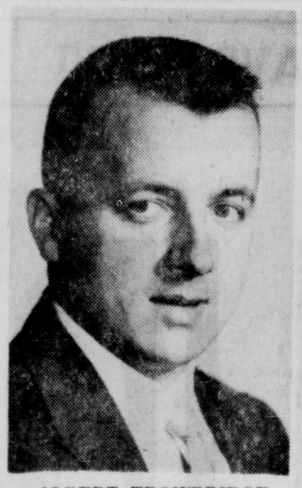
Elected Senator By Jaycee Group

During the weekend of May 22 and 23, the New York State Jaycees conducted their annual state convention in Rochester. At the convention, Albert Trowbridge was elected a senator in Junior Chamber International.

His appointment as senator is a lifetime tenure and is an exclusive organization within the Jaycees structure. The Jaycees are over 40 years old and Trowbridge is the 4,071st Jaycee to be elected to the senatorship since its inception.

Trowbridge is the third senator to be appointed from the Kingston local. Robert Stedge and Ernest Rowe also hold the honor as senators in J.C.I. To become a senator in J.C.I., the candidate must be recommended by his local, approved by the state organization. The state organization submits the candidate to national, and it is on this level that the candidate is refused or accepted.



ALBERT TROWBRIDGE

Trowbridge is married and has two daughters. He served as the president of the Kingston Jaycees 1961 and 1962. He joined the organization in 1957. He is employed by William Rylance & Sons.

Veterans Request Proper Memorial Day Observance

A plea for all businesses in Ulster County to observe Memorial Day, 1964 in a proper manner was voiced today by Sid Lane, chairman of the Kingston Veterans Association. Lane noted that in the past some establishments have been open for business and have advertised special sales and he feels that Memorial Day is a solemn occasion to honor those who have made the supreme sacrifice for our Country.

He asked for a re-birth of old-fashioned patriotism—flags flying at half-staff all over the area until noon and then raised full staff for the balance of the day.

All who are able should participate in the local parade and the service which will be held at Academy Green immediately preceding the parade, Lane said.

"Please make this a day of solemn observance and remembrance—a thanks to those who have gone but are not forgotten," he asked.

General Electric Is Closing Ithaca Center

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — The General Electric Co., citing what it terms a decline in aerospace defense contracts, says it will close its advanced electronics center here.

Harry F. Mayer, general manager, said Tuesday he expected the shutdown to take about a year. Mayer said the center's activities would be combined with the company's electronics laboratory in Syracuse.

The Ithaca center, established in 1951, employs about 245 persons. Most of them are engineers or technical workers. Most of the key personnel will be offered positions at other GE facilities, Mayer said.

Only an expert botanist or skilled person can tell which of the 38,000 known species of mushroom are safe for eating.

CHEVELLE by Chevrolet
How to make your vacation fly by... and like it!

A Chevelle makes driving so easy, you'll wonder where the miles went! And what's wrong with that?

Chevelle is the new one from Chevrolet. It's a good foot shorter than the big cars yet doesn't give away any points in styling and performance.

Once you get into this prize package, you'll wonder what we left out to make up for its shorter size. Our guess is you'll find nothing lacking. It has luxurious interiors with yards of soft vinyls and fabrics.

Even a short spin will satisfy you with Chevelle's ride and handling. There's a wide choice in engines so you can pick your power for economy or high performance.

If it weren't so practical, Chevelle simply wouldn't be a Chevrolet. That's why we were careful to include those carefree features that save time and money. Self-adjusting brakes, for instance. The battery-saving Delcotron generator. A long-life aluminized muffler. Flush-and-dry rocker panels.

With Trade 'N' Travel Time going on right now, you couldn't pick a better time to buy one. See your Chevrolet dealer. He's expecting you. Then, hit the road!

Onteora Board Accepts Two Pupils From Hunter District

The Onteora Board of Education has indicated a willingness to accept two children residing in the Town of Hunter section of the Silver Hollow Road.

The affirmative board action climaxes several months of negotiations between the Onteora and Hunter-Tannersville boards of education.

The Onteora board said it would accept the students on the following tuition basis: $323 for kindergarten, $661 for grades 1 through 6 and $1068 for grades 7 through 12. The tuition formula is computed on the basis of data provided in "School Business Management News" published by the State Education Department in June 1962.

The board action requires the Hunter district to carry all the responsibilities for tuition payments, transportation and the possibility of caring for any other families which might move into the same general location. Arrangements for transportation would be provided by the Hunter-Tannersville district to the Onteora bus stop at the general store in Willow.

Last December the H-T district requested Onteora to accept several students living in a rather inaccessible area on the Silver Hollow Road in the Town of Hunter. At that time the OCS board indicated to the Hunter district it was not interested in such an arrangement.

Many Developments

Since then several developments have occurred in this case. Superintendent George R. Sullivan told the Onteora board at its May meeting.

A Mr. Berghauer and a Mr. Horn appealed to the Commissioner of Education requesting transportation for their children to the schools in the Hunter-Tannersville district. Because of the remoteness of the area, the commissioner denied their appeal. However, he suggested that the District Superintendent of the 1st supervisory district in Ulster County and the District Superintendent of the 2nd supervisory district in Greene County and the boards of education of the two central districts meet in an effort to seek a solution to "prevent long range impediment to the education of the children therein."

Commissioner Allen also indicated that if the superintendents refused to take action, that a further appeal by the parents might be acceptable. This decision was rendered on March 24, 1964. Since that time, the Berghauer family has moved out and at the present time three Horn children remain, two in elementary and one pre-school child.

On May 15 the superintendents of three contiguous districts, Messrs. Lester Roosa, Sullivan and Hitchcock met to review the various possibilities. The trio drove to the Horn household which is at the end of the passable portion of the Silver Hollow Road which originates at the general store in Willow. The distance from Willow is 4.7 miles. The road for the last two miles to the home is accessible in the wintertime only by jeep with chains on four wheels.

Several Alternates

Several alternate sclutions to the problem were possible:

1) Both districts could do nothing and wait for an additional petition to the Commissioner of Education.

2) The Hunter-Tannersville district can continue to pay transportation costs to the parents and they will drive the 17½ miles through Willow, Mt. Tremper, etc., to Lanesville where they would get the Hunter bus and then the children would ride another 15 miles to the Tannersville school.

3) Accept the students on the tuition basis and with the other stipulations.

4) Have the district superintendents realign the school district boundaries so that all the properties from the Greene County line on Silver Hollow Road to the Horn residence would become part of the Onteora district.

After considering all the possibilities, the Onteora board chose to accept the students on a tuition basis and transportation stipulation. Trustee Herbert Epstein moved the resolution and it was seconded by Trustee Arthur P. Knight and passed unanimously.

Dr. Sullivan said the OCS proposal would be conveyed to the H-T district by Superintendent Hitchcock. A decision by H-T is being awaited.

Plan 15 Houses In Ohayo Hills Development

Details about a new housing development in Woodstock, to be known as Ohayo Hills were described by the builder, Mike Earnest of Zena, at a public hearing on a plans approval application conducted by the Woodstock Planning Board at Town Hall.

Chairman Benjamin L. Webster, Malcolm Rose and Carolyn Wilson represented the planning board. A group of local property owners were present to ask questions.

The project will include 15 houses in the $20,000 to $30,000 price range on a 22½-acre section off Old Wagon Road and on the easterly side of Ohayo Mountain Road.

Questions Asked

Fritz Werner, Woodstock artist who owns a 9½-acre plot near the proposed development asked several questions about water supply, sewage and drainage and possible fire hazards.

Earnest said water tests indicated a steady supply of 22 gallons per minute at 160 feet. The drainage plans have received the tentative approval of the Ulster County Board of Health. Disposal field and septic tanks will be adequate, he said. He also said there would be a 30-foot clearing between the projects and the adjoining woods to minimize fire hazards. The roads servicing the project would be built according to town specifications, with good access, Earnest said.

Also present were persons representing the Judson Smith estate and Walace Jerominek.

Since a quorum of the planning board was not present, the application and public statements were taken under advisement for a later decision by the full board.

Voter Eligibility Explained by Board

The Onteora Board of Education has issued the following notice with respect to voter eligibility for the June 16 re-vote on the $2,696,435 school budget:

Only those voters who signed the new registration books at the annual election on May 6 are registered for the June 16 special district meeting. All others planning to vote on June 16 must register on Saturday, June 6, or on Thursday, June 11 at their regular polling places.

Lists of registered voters eligible to vote on June 16 are posted in the area post offices and in several stores. Additional lists are available in each school office.

Winner of Gold Crown to Appear At World's Fair

MISS ROSE SACCOMAN

A Kingston girl who operates a hairstyling studio in Poughkeepsie, will participate as Gold Crown winner in a special Hairdressers Day at the Clairol Pavilion Carousel at 2 p. m. June 8 at the World's Fair. She is Miss Rose Saccoman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Saccoman, of 66 Roosevelt Avenue, and operator of the Powder Puff at 105 Cannon Street, Poughkeepsie. Her hairdressing "team" was selected to exhibit the artistry of hairstyling and haircoloring, thus enabling the local entry to be winners of the Gold Crown competition and participate in the historic universal event.

Decision Help Up About Authority Of Board Member

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state education commissioner has reserved decision on a request that he issue a policy statement describing what authority, if any, an individual school board member holds over school district employes.

The request was placed before Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. Tuesday and a decision is not expected for several weeks.

Two Year Dispute

Allen has been asked to say whether a single member can order school district workers to furnish records, information and school board sitting in a formal session.

The request for a formal statement by Allen stems from a specific case involving a two-year dispute. A member of the Hicksville School Board is on one side, and the board majority and school officials are on the other.

William Bruno, the minortiy member, asked Allen yesterday to support his contention that the district superintendent, Donald F. Abt, must furnish records and information "forthrightly and promptly" upon Bruno's demand.

Claim Harrassment

The board majority and Abt complained that Bruno had waged a long campaign of harrassment against the school system and said that his demands had hampered the proper administration of Hicksville's schools.

Bruno contended through his council, Harry H. Goebel, that a school board member was entitled to secure "all the information that is readily available" and that school officials owed cooperation to the minority of the school board as well as to the majority.

Savings to Start

Valley families of about $1,300,000 a year.

"This year's reduction," Sillin stated, "is possible because of the company's continuing success in controlling and reducing operating expenses, improving efficiencies, and the recently enacted reduction of corporate federal income taxes."

About 107,000 of the company's residence customers will benefit from the rate change, with all customers using more than 132 kilowatt-hours in a two-month billing receiving some reduction. To encourage greater use of electric service, the rates for usage over 360 kilowatt-hours in a two-month period will be reduced to 1.75 cents per kilowatt-hour as compared with the previous rate of 1.9 cents for usage over 380-kilowatt-hours To make it even more economical for customers to use electricity for total househeating, the rate for this service is reduced from 1.9 cents to 1.5 cents per kilowatt-hour.

The typical Central Hudson residence customer's two-month bill last year was $20.60 for 644 kilowatt-hours. Under the new rates the amount would be reduced to $19.68, a saving of 92 cents.

Although the reduction will start showing up in bills received by customers late next week, for most customers the full effect of the lower rates will not be reflected until an entire two-month period has been completed in bills received beginning at the end of July.

Commenting on the rate of change, Sillin said: "We are very pleased that during a period of generally rising prices for most products and services, Central Hudson has been able to continue reducing the price of electric service. In fact, under the new rates the cost of electricity for the average Mid-Hudson Valley family will be lower than it was 10 years ago.

The utility filed the new rates with the New York State Public Service Commission late in March and received the Commission's approval for the change early this month.

Rockefeller

is going to move forward in the mainstream of public life or whether it will pull off into a small eddy, pulled there by a small minority in the party."

Rockefeller got polite but not exactly enthusiastic applause when he said that Goldwater—"my competitor or whatever you call him"—does not stand within the framework of Republican responsibility as defined by (former) President Eisenhower."

Congress Is in Disagreement On Presidency Succession

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is still wrestling with the long-standing national confusion about presidential succession and disability, and the end is not in sight.

Through the years solutions have been offered by the bushel. Congress acted on some, passing laws and changing them. Lyndon B. Johnson's succession to the presidency, leaving the vice presidency vacant, revived the dilemma.

Two former presidents, Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman, and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon have agreed something should be done but not exactly on how. There has been wide disagreement in Congress.

Earlier this year Truman and Nixon suggested the Electoral College elect a new vice president to fill a vacancy in that office. Eisenhower this week had a different idea.

He suggested the president be empowered to name a vice president if there isn't one, provided the man he picks is approved by both houses of Congress.

Proposal by Bar Assn.

The American Bar Association had already recommended that procedure be followed through a constitutional amendment. A Senate subcommittee, working on the problem for months, feels the same way.

It was expected to suggest, perhaps today, that this be done. But a constitutional amendment needs approval by two-thirds of both houses of Congress and by three-fourths of the states.

The trouble here is at the start, for while the Senate may approve one plan the House may prefer another. But that is only part of the problem. The other is the question of presidential disability.

How does a vice president take over if a president is disabled, or how does he take over if a president is disabled but doesn't know it or won't or can't admit it?

Eisenhower and Nixon and after them Presidents John F. Kennedy and Johnson had an understanding; there was no law covering this. Now Johnson has a similar agreement with the man next in line to succeed him because there is no vice president, House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.

Different Views

Truman had said that once a vice president takes office, because of a president's disability, the president would not be entitled to resume his office if and when he recovered.

But Eisenhower said he had no fear that a vice president would refuse to surrender the presidency — once a stricken president was able to resume it — because he said, "I think he couldn't possibly get away with it."

Nixon said the arrangements worked out by Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson in case of their disability — letters to the men next in line to succeed them — lack the force of law and would be inadequate if a dispute arose.

Under a law passed in 1947 if the president dies, and there is no vice president, next in line to succeed is the House speaker, right now, McCormack, and then the Senate's president pro tempore, right now, Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz.

Recommendation

The Senate subcommittee is expected to recommend a constitutional amendment covering both the succession to the presidency, explained above, and the problem of disability this way:

When a president says in writing he's too disabled to carry out his job, the vice president would become acting president until the president declared his disability ended.

If the president didn't make his disability known, the vice president with approval by a majority of the Cabinet could declare the president disabled and assume the powers and duties but not the office of president.

If the president disputed this act of his vice president and Cabinet, Congress would have to decide by a two-thirds vote of both houses for the vice president to continue as acting president. Otherwise, the president would resume his powers and duties.

Florida Primary Result No Spark For Goldwater

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A delegate slate pledged to Sen. Barry Goldwater was turned down by Republicans, and a governor sworn to erect barriers against civil rights was nominated by Democrats in Tuesday's Florida primary.

Goldwater's chances of Florida support at the national convention were not erased. But they were weakened by election of a slate headed by a man who made no bones about current disenchantment with the Arizona conservative.

Hollywood News and Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This is the summer of "My Fair Lady" and one of the liveliest of the Eliza Doolittles will be pert Jane Powell.

The Lerner-Loewe masterpiece has been released for stock this year. Hence, a large number of summer musical theaters will be offering "MFL" to cash in on its immense popularity—and to beat the movie version, due in October.

Come August, Jane Powell will make her debut as Eliza and also inaugurate the latest addition to a growing California industry; the musical theater-in-the round.

It started with last summer's startling success of Melodyland, near Disneyland. Now Concerts Inc., is putting on a season of musicals at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium; the Melodyland people are building a theater in San Carlos, south of San Francisco; and the San Fernando Valley will have the Valley Music Theater. Jane will play Eliza in the latter two.

Joins Library System

Mrs. Oskar Ehrenhaft of the Montgomery Village Library secured the application for membership in the Ramapo Catskill Library System which will bring the total of system libraries to 45 this week. Mrs. Clarence Burnett is president. With the Montgomery application, all libraries in Orange and Rockland will be part of the area library network. Of the 46 libraries in the area, which includes Orange, Rockland, Sullivan and part of Ulster County only one has not yet secured or applied for the services of the Ramapo Catskill Library System.

"These theaters and those in the East have become a boon to us performers," she remarked over a club sandwich the other day. "We could work only in the summer and live the rest of the year on the earnings, if we wanted to."

Close to Home

Trouble is, twice-divorced Jane has three growing children to care for, and they grow restive when she's gone, especially in the summer. So she tries to arrange engagements close to home or in places the kids can go along.

The harvest for a week's trilling on the four-sided stage? It can be anywhere from $10,000 to $20,000. Jane holds the gross record at Melodyland and perhaps in summer musicals anywhere: $87,000 a week in "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," last year's favorite on the summer circuit.

FROSTLESS
REFRIGERATOR - FREEZER

Frost can't form with the wonderful Frostless Refrigerator-Freezers —neither in the big zero-degree freezer, nor in the refrigerator section. And the new refrigerator-freezers give you much more usable space inside with no increase in overall size.

You can forget about food and ice trays that stick or cubes that have to be battered apart . . . your FROSTLESS keeps frost out and cubes so cold they can't stick together.

You can really stock up on sale items, knowing that when you want to use them they'll be as fresh as the day you bought them and you won't have to chop them out of the freezer, not with a FROSTLESS!

You can cook and freeze an entire meal against the day when unexpected guests drop by, and the whole tasty menu will pop out of the freezer as easily (and free from ice) as when you put it in!

You can have the peace of mind that comes from knowing you have a supermarket right in your kitchen, full of frozen delights that you can bring out for any culinary emergency. (And without the slightest trace of icing up, thanks to your FROSTLESS!)

BRIDE FAILS TO WRITE THANK-YOU NOTES

Q—My son was married two months ago and as yet his bride has not sent out thank-you notes. When I spoke to her about it, she said it wasn't necessary because she gave out favors at the reception that had "thank you" printed across them. I think those who sent wedding presents deserve a little more than this and I am very embarrassed over her failure to write notes. Am I right in feeling that she should write notes?

A—You are absolutely right. An impersonal "thank you" printed across a favor is not sufficient thanks for a wedding present and even though it is now late, she should write notes to those who sent her gifts.

Announcing Son's Marriage

Q—The company for which my son works has an office in Switzerland and he was sent there for two years on a special assignment. We received a letter from him saying that he had married a girl there. Would it be proper for us to send announcements to our friends and relatives living here notifying them of our son's marriage, and if so, how should they be worded?

A—In this situation, it will be proper for you to send announcements to friends and relatives here. They would be worded as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith
announce the marriage of
Miss Marie Muller
to their son
Henry Smith
Thursday, the seventh of May
Bern, Switzerland

Passing Serving Dishes at Table

Q—When serving dishes of food are passed around the table from one to another, in which direction are they passed, to the right or left?

A — They are passed to the right.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

How Can I Live With Her?

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: If I had not met my husband, my mother would have succeeded in wrecking my life. She brought me up to hate men. She and my father split up when I was 5. For years after, all she ever talked about was how he had never loved us and what rats men are. Now she is getting on in years and wants to come and live with my husband and me. Her letters are one long complaint about her aches and pains and how lonely she is . . .

Answer: It's certainly interesting to know that she tried to make you hate men. But hating men isn't your problem right now, is it? Your problem is: Do I or don't I invite my aging mother to live with me?

It is always interesting to know how our parents confused us as children. But the knowledge only becomes useful when we can see how the confusion is still in control of us —right now, this very minute. So I am suggesting that the knowledge you may now need to resolve your problem is the knowledge that you fear the prospect of living with your mother, not because she tried to make you hate men but because she tried to make you experience everything she experienced.

You remember how as a child she tried to make you feel her anguish as a lonely and deserted wife. You are terribly afraid that if she comes to live with you, she will try to make you feel all the aches and pains which belong to her as an aging woman. You wonder how close to the edge of her death she will try to drag you.

That's the real fear, isn't it?

There's no sense in my telling you that it is unreasonable; that as a person belonging to a different generation from your mother's you can't possibly undertake to feel her aches and pains with her any more than as a little girl, you could feel what she felt as an unloved woman.

Reason is never enough to clarify the kind of confusion we develop as the result of childhood association with parents who have insisted that we try to experience all their grownup feelings with them.

Parents of little boys and girls who demand sympathy for their grownup feelings from them invariably invite rejection in their old age. As the children cannot experience their grownup feelings, they have no sympathy to give. Like you, they retain the memory of agonized helplessness imposed by the parents.

When the passing years bring the time that should entitle their aging parents to their help they are compelled to refuse it, feeling themselves to be as helpless and inadequate as they felt as overburdened little boys and girls.

Wendy Prepares For 1964 Summer Camping Program

Camp Wendy, the established camp of the Ulster County Girl Scouts, is being prepared for 244 Ulster County girls who have registered for two weeks of fun, living in the out of doors, and learning new camping skills.

Camp Wendy serves girls between the ages of 7½ and 17. At camp, each girl has the opportunity to plan and carry out the program she most enjoys as well as making new friends and learning to get along with others. High standards of health and safety are constantly maintained.

Many of the staff from past years are returning to camp. Mrs. William Groft, camp director, and Miss Joan VanKeuren, program director have been busy writing and distributing a complete manual to all staff. This manual includes a program plan so that campers can plan to participate in progressively more difficult activities as they increase their skills.

Miss Cynthia Pierce, waterfront director, is returning for the second season. Janet Boos and Jean Koeppe, students at the State University at New Paltz are returning to camp as unit leaders. Miss Boos has been a unit assistant at Camp Wendy for two years and Miss Koeppe who was a unit assistant in 1963, has also been a Brownie leader in New Paltz.

Local staff members include Kathleen Smalldon, Pamela Schomer, and Mary Bott, all of whom have been Wendy campers in past years. Mrs. Hazel Castle from Lake Katrine, an experienced pediatric nurse and assistant Brownie leader, will be the health supervisor for one encampment.

Mrs. Pearl Smith from Marlboro, and Miss Frances Lynch from Wallkill will again provide meals in the dining hall and Howard Gladstone from Newburgh will keep things in good repair.

A canoe trip to Lake George is being planned for older campers. To qualify for this trip, a girl must be 14 years old, have passed her Red Cross Junior Life Saving and have had some camping experience. These campers will spend a week at Wendy practicing their skills and preparing their equipment before embarking on a five-day canoe trip.

Wider opportunities are also available for older girls who want to make new friends in a camp setting. A patrol of Wendy campers will be hostesses to patrols from Camp Wakoda, the Newburgh Girl Scout camp, and from Camp Sacajawea, the Dutchess County Girl Scout camp. These girls will set up their own campsite and plan their own program which will include a trip to historic and interesting sites in Ulster County.

Camp Wendy is almost filled and there are waiting lists for some of the age groups and sessions. However, there are still some openings and registrations are being received daily at the Girl Scout office, 1 VanBuren Street, Kingston.

We the Women

Homemaker's Credo

Ruth Millett
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

For the woman with children who has a husband willing and able to earn a living for his family there is nothing more important than—

- Creating the kind of home that is a haven for every member of the family, and where each one's friends are welcome.
- Being at home, herself when the children return from school.
- By example and discipline —not by preaching—to teach her children to become trustworthy, dependable, responsible human beings.
- Always having time to listen to any member of the family who wants to confide in her.
- Conserving her time and energy for the really important things she owes her family, instead of frittering both away on outside "busy work."
- In trying to be a good mother, never let up in her desire to be a real companion to her husband.
- Finding time each week for doing some of the things she really wants to do so that she never feels like an unappreciated martyr.
- Insiting that the children do their share of the household chores so that she doesn't become a resentful drudge.
- Developing hobbies, skills or intellectual interests that will keep her from feeling lost when her children are finally grown and gone from home.
- Finding time to make and enjoy friendships, and for being a good neighbor.

$100,000 Loss Is Reported in Area Resort Fire

Flames raced through the 72-room new addition at the Homowack Lodge at Spring Glen early today, buf volunteer fire fighters from Ellenville and Summitville saved the main building.

Deputy Fire Chief George Damm reportedly suffered a broken thumb while assisting at the scene of the fire that raged out of control more than two hours. Ellenville State Police reported the loss was estimated at $100,000.

The fire was discovered shortly before midnight and it was after 2 a. m. when fire officials declared the fire under control. State Trooper Linus Rautenstrauch, who went to the scene with Trooper James Kelly of the Ellenville sub-station, said the three-story wing that was destroyed, was about 200 feet long and was under construction to accommodate additional guests at the resort.

Fire Chief William McCombes of Ellenville, was in charge of fire fighters at the scene. Troopers said the origin of the fire was not immediately determined, but it was believed the blaze had been smoldering for some time before it was discovered.

Monticello Raceway to Commence 7th Season Thursday

Greco Stable Has Success Saint, 5 Other Pacers

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Harness racing returns to the Catskill Mountain area Thursday night after an eight-month absence as Monticello Raceway ushers in its seventh season of racing under the lights.

Though it hasn't a pacer listed for the opening night program, the Greco Bros. Stable of Glasco figures to win more than its share of the purse money being distributed by the Sullivan County track.

Owned by Frank, Tom, Joe and John Greco, the stable has six crack horses ready to start the season, including Success Saint, the "bread and butter" horse during the past two years.

Success Saint, a 5-year old horse, has won $29,000 in its lifetime with $14,075 of the earnings coming last season. The horse has won in 2:03.3 and figures to do that well this time around.

Lucille Brewer, a 9-year old mare and the first horse ever owned by the Grecos, is hurt at present but should be ready for racing within several weeks. "Lucy" has banked $2,700 this year and $14,000 in her lifetime. She has posted a 2:05.3 winning effort.

In addition to the two veterans, the Grecos are hoping that Don Brewster and Success Lane, a pair of 3-year old geldings; Tommy Greene, a 3-year old colt and Success Adios, a 4-year old horse, will be able to help pay the feed bill. The latter is co-owned by Vincent E. Ferraro of Glasco.

Wayne Burris, who handled the Greco stable last season, will be joined this year by Ralph Ayou, an outstanding driver at the Mighty M three years ago. Ayou, the father-in-law of Burris, left the harness racing business for three years before returning to give Burris a helping hand.

A Top Twosome

Since Burris is recognized as one of the top trainers at the track and since Ayou is an outstanding driver, these two figure to form a solid partnership. Burris will be at other tracks with some of the younger horses from his growing stable so Ayou will be doing a lot of driving at Monticello.

Fred Ohl of Woodstock is another area resident who has put his horses under the Burris-Ayou wings. Included are General Byrd, a 9-year-old gelding and Lib Genessee, a 6-year-old mare.

General Byrd was formerly owned by the Greco Bros. and has a 2:06 lifetime mark. He was on the injury list last season but progressed rapidly.

Though the area stables are not included in the opening night card, there is a field of eight crack pacers for the $3,500 "Inaugural" pace at one-mile.

Starbound Favored

Three Canadian-owned sidewheelers will match strides with five of their State-side counterparts in the feature dash. One of the trio—Starbound—has been installed as the 3 to 1 morning line choice. Roger Turcotte will drive Starbound, who has a 2:04.1 victory this spring.

The other two northern invaders are Roy Abbe, 8-1, from the three slot with Herve Filion at the reins; and Sir Winston Pick, a 6-1 shot from the sixth post with Roger White in the sulky.

Oddmakers have listed Bobby Camper's Glenville as the 4-1 second favorite from the outside seventh hole. Camper, who will miss the first two weeks of racing due to a broken ankle, hasn't named a driver yet. Glenville captured his last two starts at Yonkers.

Completing the field will be Senator Con, 8-1, from the rail with Carl Ernst driving; Pocomoonshine, 8-1, Art Thorne; Guy Adios, 5-1, George Sziklai and Busy Dares, 6-1, Sam Caton.

Expect Record Crowd

If given a break in the weather, track officials are optimistic that the 1963 inaugural attendance of 8,497 and the handle of $419,527 will be broken. The prediction is for a crowd of about 9,000 and a $450,000 handle.

Monticello will offer 103 racing programs this summer, four of them matinees. The Saturday afternoon-evening twinbills are penciled in for July 4 and 18, August 1 and September 5.

Nine races will be offered nightly, including the popular twin double. Post time is 9 o'clock. By the time the season closes in September, chances are good that the all-time attendance mark of 635,000 and the handle record of $38 million will be broken.

Action is Taken By Jordan After Disputed Decision

Rondout Valley nipped Onteora, 1-0, in a UCAL contest yesterday at Stone Ridge but the contest was protested by Paul Jordan, coach of the Indians, after an unusual play in the sixth inning.

With the Ganders leading by one run, George Loveless of the visitors flied to center with one out. The ball was dropped and Loveless wound up on third base.

Linden Frasier then lofted a fly to Tom Tegeler in left. Loveless left third base too soon. Tegeler's throw sailed over the backstop and into an area designated as a "dead ball area."

At this point the two coaches disagreed on what happened. Coach Hal Ross of Rondout said that Loveless went back to third, retagged the base and came home before a new ball was put in play. He then ordered his pitcher to throw to third after he received the new ball from the plate umpire.

This was done, according to Ross, and the runner was then called out for leaving too soon.

Jordan agrees to the point of Loveless leaving third too early. The Onteora coach said the umpire told the runner he was awarded home because of the overthrow going in the "dead ball area."

The coach further claims that at that point, Loveless, who had gone back to third because he left too soon, walked off the base and touched home. Thereupon, a throw was made to the base and the umpire called the runner out.

Not Made Aware

"My player or myself weren't made aware of the change in the umpire's call," Jordan said. That is the basis for his protest.

The official protest will be sent to Jack Gardner of Wallkill, president of the league. The executive committee will then take appropriate action.

Until action is taken, the game goes into the books as a 1-0 win for the Ganders with Bill Botsakos beating Linden Frasier.

Rondout scored in the first inning with Gary Ostrander's single driving in Gordie Bell.

Nanda Rules as Acting Indian Prime

spot near that where Gandhi was cremated in 1948. A memorial to Gandhi was completed there last year.

If the usual custom is followed, Nehru's ashes will be strewn in the nation's holy rivers, probably at Allahabad, his birthplace, at the confluence of the Ganges, the Jumna and the mythological underground Saraswati River.

In London, Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas - Home said he would fly to India this afternoon for the funeral. Buckingham Palace said Queen Elizabeth II would be represented by Earl Mountbatten, who was India's last viceroy and first governor general and a close friend of Nehru's.

Home Secretary V. Viswanathan said Nehru's physicians attributed his death to "heart attack and shock."

Born an Aristocrat

Nehru was born an aristocrat —a Kashmiri Brahmin, or the highest of the high among Hindus. But Gandhi's persuasion and his own compassion for his oppressed countrymen under British rule drove Nehru and his whole family into the independence movement. It meant years in British jails for him and his father, the wealthy lawyer Motilal Nehru, and others in the family.

The boy raised in the lap of luxury — indoor and outdoor swimming pools at home, ponies to ride, and a British education —often disagreed with the mystic and visionary Mahandas Gandhi but bowed to Gandhi's will to attain the goal of independence, reached in mid-August 1947.

By then Gandhi's mission was over for all practical purposes and Nehru undertook the perhaps even more arduous task of trying to make a democracy of as curious a crazy quilt pattern of ex-colonial areas, princedoms and satrapies as the world has known — present population about 470 million.

As an elder statesman Gandhi lasted less than six months—until his assassination Jan. 30, 1948 — and Nehru then became sole leader.

Careful, Perilous Course

He believed neither capitalism nor socialism alone would work for India, and he instituted a form of state socialism for heavy industry and utilities, accepting foreign aid where he could get it for these and sponsoring private works where possible.

Nehru steered a careful but perilous course in world politics and won denunciations from both sides of the cold war as well as praise and cooperation from the nonaligned, or neutral, nations.

Much of the West's dissatisfaction with Nehru resulted from the way his foreign policy was dealt out at the United Nations and elsewhere by his venomous roving defense minister, V. K. Krishna Menon. Menon, a leftist anti-Westerner, fell from grace through lack of preparedness for the Chinese invasion of India in 1962.

Menon was the high riding defense minister a year earlier when India invaded and seized the Portuguese west coast enclaves of Goa, Damao and Diu after failing to persuade the Portuguese they should leave the subcontinent as the British and French had done. For this exploit Nehru was widely criticized as being inconsistent with his preachments but he claimed India had no alternative in regard to foreign rule.

A great test of Nehru's neutralism came in the fall of 1962 when Communist China unleashed a powerful attack along the Himalayan border and moved into long-disputed frontier areas.

As the Chinese drove back his poorly equipped army, Nehru assumed near-dictatorial powers, pledged a fight "until final victory is achieved," and turned to the West and to Russia for weapons.

Avoided Clear-Cut Stand

The United States immediately organized an airlift of arms, and it seemed that India, however reluctantly, would be forced to move away from nonalignment.

A bitter dispute then raging between Moscow and Peking over what the Chinese considered a soft Soviet approach toward the West made it easier for Nehru to avoid taking a clear-cut stand, however. He remained on friendly terms with Moscow and, while fighting the border war, continued to maintain diplomatic relations with Peking and to support its bid for U.N. membership. The Chinese abruptly ended their drive after a few weeks fighting and ordered a cease-fire and troop pullback.

Full-Scale War Averted

Pakistan, the Moslem nation born of the 1947 independence and the British-drawn partition of the subcontinent, was Nehru's greatest single continuing political problem until the 1962 Chinese invasion. But full-scale war between India and Pakistan was averted. Their closest, and continuing, confrontation of arms is in Kashmir, the last prize in the independence grab bag, where their armies are separated by a U.N. truce line.

Nehru had been in waning health for more than two years. In March 1962 he was struck by prostate trouble, his first serious illness after advancing into old age with unusual bounce and vigor. He recovered, but in the ensuing months his appearance aged rapidly.

The 1962 Chinese invasion acted as a restorative, and he responded with his old vigor. But after the one-month undeclared war ended, his energy began to ebb again.

Nehru's performance became very uneven. Some visitors found him lucid and energetic. But he dozed off on other visitors and occasionally at public functions. Sometimes he walked erect. More often he hobbled along, head bent.

A stroke on Jan. 7 partially paralyzed his left side. He improved slowly, and in recent weeks had resumed some government activities, including appearances in Parliament.

RVCS Board Honors Teachers; Presents Awards

The Rondout Valley Central School Board of Education honored its teachers at a Teacher Recognition Day Dinner in the high school cafeteria Monday. This is an annual event which is provided for the staff in recognition of their contributions to education and to the educational welfare of the boys and girls of the district.

At each of these meetings, certificates are awarded to those teachers who have completed multiples of five years of service to education—whether it be in local schools or in other schools, both private and public. This year, certificates were awarded to the following persons:

Five years, Mrs. Mildred Ahlberg, Mrs. Alva Bareika, Ralph Berkey, Mrs. Patricia Berlanga, Lee Herrington, Nicholas Hondrocostas, John Maguire, Eugene Schley, Mrs. Emily Stokes, Ernest Lundy.

Ten years, Mrs. Selma Cramer, Robert Robertaccio John H. Thornton, Miss Elizabeth Royce, Mrs. Carolyn Warren.

Fifteen Years: Mrs. Barbara Lottridge, Dixon McGrath, Mrs. Marian Traver, Mrs. Dorothy Kelder, Mrs. Marion Hasbrouck.

Twenty-Two years (retiring): Mrs. Frances Sherman, 25 years: Mrs. Lucy Embree, Mrs. Helen Larsen.

Forty Years, Mrs. Mildred Miller. Actually Mrs. Miller had completed her 45th year during the last year but the certificate was not awarded at that time.

As the main speaker of the evening, Dean Charles Noble of Hendricks Chapel of Syracuse University spoke on the topic I Can Dream, Can't I. Dean Noble is a very well known speaker having given the first commencement adress in the new high school auditorium.

J. Richard Sheil, president of the board of education presided at the dinner and program.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices deteriorated gradually early this afternoon with electronic issues leading the way. The trading pace was slightly faster than the last two sessions when activity was near the slowest of the year.

Most changes were fractional although a few key issues included in the popular averages gave up a point or so. Farm implement and rubber issues were generally lower by small fractions.

Most Wall Streeters expected little more than the gradual slide of prices that has been under way for the last two sessions. They figured there will be no major change until after the holiday weekend. The market is closed Friday for Memorial Day.

"Fifteen minutes before the game was to end, the gates to the stadium were open," he said. "Then they were closed. This doesn't make sense."

Crying as he talked, Pazos said, "I was correct in my call. There was no mistake. I called the game by the rules."

Man Is Cleared On Manslaughter, Facing Another

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (AP)—A 48 - year - old man has been cleared of a second-degree manslaughter charge on a medical examiners statement that the man he allegedly struck had died of natural causes.

But Edward H. Coleman of Niagara Falls was ordered held for the grand jury on a second-degree assault complaint after the manslaughter charge was dismissed by Judge Ruth D. Vogel of Tonawanda City Court.

Coleman was accused of striking John Papp, 53, of Tonawanda, during an argument May 14. Papp died in a hospital two days later.

An Erie County medical examiner said Papp died of natural causes, explaining that a massive cerebral hemorrhage stemming from hypertension caused the death.

Two Caught at Market

Police continued their investigation today in the case of two boys caught about 10 p. m. at the A & P supermarket on Hurley Avenue. They said the youths, both 14, were apprehended when they ran to the rear of the store after a window was broken. Police were notified by a caller who wished to remain anonymous. Patrolmen Charles Diers and Gerald Tierney, Detective Leonard Ellsworth and Sgt Garvin Fisher investigated.

Democrats refused to let Williams' resolution come to a vote but it remained on the calendar.

Traffic Mishap Correction

In a traffic accident report published in The Freeman on Monday, it was reported that a vehicle driven south on Grand Street by Mrs. Jeannette Nagele, 24, of 164 Tremper Avenue, collided with one driven east on Smith Avenue by Irene Compton, 64, of 4 North Oakwood Terrace, New Paltz. The account should have indicated that the Nagele car was traveling east on Smith when it was struck by the Compton vehicle, which was traveling south on Grand.

Widow Lives Alone, Ponders Buying Annuity

Q) "My husband has been dead since Dec. 1961 and I am childless. I have $27,285 in the savings bank. Right now, I am living at a hotel where I spend about $200 a month for room and meals. I live on my $77 social security check and withdrawals from savings. I am 73 years old and wonder if I should continue as I am or put $25,000 into a trust fund or annuity." R. C.

A) I sympathize with you very sincerely on the loss of your husband.

My figures indicate that you can continue withdrawing $1,800 per year from savings—taking interest accurals into considerations—for well over 20 years.

You might feel safer, however, if you had a $25,000 straight life annuity, which would guarantee you payments for as long as you live, perhaps as high as $175 per month.

A trust fund would not meet your problem.

Q) "Please recommend an investment of $20,000 in municipal bonds, preferably those that are exempt from income tax in New York State where I plan to live. Can I purchase less than $5,000 in any particular issue?" W. B.

A) Replying to your last question, first the answer is yes, but I don't advise it. An odd lot of 2 or 3 bonds can be sold, but because tax-exempts are purchased mostly by big buyers, you might have to accept a considerable discount in price, if you had to sell.

Federal tax-exempts that enjoy equal status in New York state include issues of Puerto Rico; the Virgin Islands; Washington, D. C.; and all New York State, Municipal or Special Revenue bonds.

For you I recommend New York City 3's of 6/1/1980 at 98¼; New York State Thruway revenue 3.60's of 1996/72 on a 3.38 basis; City of Buffalo 2's of 5/1/1972 on a 3.10 basis and Nassau County 2.40's of 5/15/1973 to yield 3.30 per cent.

Dutchess Reports 3rd Serious Fire In as Many Days

A third serious fire in three days in the Poughkeepsie area early today destroyed a large two-story frame building in the Town of LaGrange.

Three LaGrangeville fire companies in command of Chief Harold Krom were dispatched to the Ben Glick & Co. property on Red Oaks Mill and Titusville Roads at about 11:45 p. m. after fire was discovered in a barn that had been converted into a storage building by the owners.

Chief Krom said when firemen arrived at the scene they found flames shooting through the roof and the interior of the structure was involved in fire. A fire company was summoned from nearby Red Oaks Mill to assist in battling the fire which destroyed the building and caused unestimated damage to a large stock of used refrigerators, washing machines and air conditioners that were stored in the structure.

Flying embers carried by a brisk wind ignited the roofs of nearby homes and other buildings, but the fire that resulted was quickly extinguished by volunteer fire fighters, who remained at the scene until after 6 a. m.

The origin of the fire was not immediately determined and the owners could give no dollar estimate of damage to the large stock of electrical appliances

Sunday night, a two-alarm fire caused extensive damage to the library room and roof of the Mt. Carmel Catholic Church rectory in Mt. Carmel Square despite efforts of Poughkeepsie city firemen.

Monday night, Arlington's four fire companies fought a two-alarm fire that destroyed two new apartment buildings and damaged a third new structure off Van Wagner Road and Marple Road Extension in the Town of Poughkeepsie.

Cyclist Injured

An eight - year - old bicyclist was injured in a car-bike collision about 4:25 p. m. Tuesday on South Manor Avenue. Police said Kurt Glaser, of 173 Elmendorf Street, was taken to Benedictine Hospital where he was treated for left leg abrasions. They said a bike the youth was riding south on South Manor Avenue was in collision with a car driven north on the same street by O. C. Hardin, 40, of 67 Hasbrouck Avenue. Patrolman Lewis Keater investigated.

Lauds Sen. Bush As Outstanding Albany Legislator

State Senator Ernest I. Hatfield (R-35th District) today issued a statement complimenting State Senator E. Ogden Bush, (R-34th District) as "an outstanding legislator, highly thought of by all his associates in Albany" and said, "his good sound judgment is well recognized."

Senator Hatfield, who is soon to retire after 22 years in office, said in a prepared statement:

"As State Senator for 22 years and closely associated with Senator Bush, having shared the same office with him in the Capitol, I sincerely hope that the people in his district appreciate his services, hard work and deep interest he has always displayed and his support for sound legislation for all the people of the State of New York, and will support him in the Primary Election Tuesday and at the polls in November.

"I have observed Senator Bush and his staff working in this office consistently and diligently on his correspondence to his constituents and on legislation that was before the Senate. Dr. Bush is now serving as chairman of the important Senate Conservation Committee. He is also a member of the Committee on Affairs of the City of New York, Banks Finance and Public Health and his constituents cannot sacrifice his seniority as it is too important for their welfare.

"Dr. Bush is an outstanding legislator, highly thought of by all his associates in Albany, and his good sound judgment is well recognized.

"He should be returned to office without any question or doubt."

Burhans Challenges Bush On Home Builders' Award

Criticism came today from the Lloyd A. Newcombe camp regarding a citation to Senator E. Ogden Bush whom he is opposing in the June 2 primary for Republican designation to run in November for the state senate post now held by Bush.

Bush, a DeLancey resident, who has been in the Senate eight years, was given a plaque Tuesday by the Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley naming him Legislator of the Year.

Nelson Burhans, chairman of the Ulster County Citizens for Newcombe challenged Bush to tell why he accepted the award, claiming that he had introduced only two bills pertaining to the home building industry.

Bush introduced 85 bills during the last session of the legislature, 62 per cent of which were passed by the legislature.

Burhans commented, "I have examined the incumbent's record and find only two bills that could be remotely related to the home building industry. Senate Intro No. 110 which would require the industrial commissioner to charge a fee of not more than $100 instead of $10 for the examination of plans for construction of factories and Senate Intro. No. 1694 which would allow the issuance of a real estate license to any corporate officer who has served for at least 10 consecutive years in a real estate firm with a 10-million dollar volume for each of the 10 years.

"Both of these bills never received serious consideration and in fact, both died in committee. There were no other bills dealing with real estate or the home building industry.

"It is unfortunate that this type of subterfuge can be fostered on the public. In my opinion, this is an obvious attempt by a few friends to cover up his lackluster legislation record and create a few misleading headlines. If I am being unfair, I challenge the incumbent of his spokesmen to point out one other piece of real estate or home-building legislation introduced by him."

May Vote Again June 9

Ellenville Defeats School Budget Second Time Tuesday

A proposed $1,903,330 budget for 1964-65 was defeated Tuesday night for a second time by voters in the Ellenville Central School District, and indications are that a new budget may be re-submitted to the taxpayers on June 9.

The proposed budget was defeated by a vote of 548-412. A total of 963 voters had registered. Two votes were voided and one was blank.

On May 5 Ellenville taxpayers defeated the budget by a vote of 241-212, and since that time the proposed expenditures for the school district had developed into a heated controversial subject, which resulted in the unusually large turnout of voters last night.

It was reported that the spirited meeting opened in a heated dispute after a motion was made to unseat Ben Miller, former Board of Education member, who will start a new term on July 1, as chairman of the meeting. A voice vote upheld Miller's decision to remain in the chair. It was reported he had said he had considered relinquishing the chairmanship because he had advocated defeat of the proposed budget, but later decided to preside.

At the time the budget was first defeated early last month, Ellenville Central School District was among 18 districts in the state to reject proposed school budgets. Included in the 18 districts were the Highland and Onteora Central School districts.

Highland school district voters on June 12 will have another opportunity to vote on the proposed $1,439,000 budget for the next school year, while Onteora's Board of Education will submit a revised budget to the voters on June 16. The voters of that district recently rejected a $2,696,435 budget.

LBJ Helps Dems Raise $1 Million

Would Like Job Four More Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats gaily chorused "Once in Love with Lyndon" as they poured an estimated million dollars into the party treasury Tuesday night and heard President Johnson stop just short of declaring what everyone knows: that he plans to be around for four more years.

Republicans were singing another tune.

They charged that career government employes had been pressured into taking part in the $100-a-ticket Democratic frolic.

The festivities were part of fund-raising efforts expected to net more than $3 million this week for the 1964 Democratic presidential campaign. A re-run of the whole show is scheduled Thursday night in New York.

6,000 Attend

Some 6,000 turned out for the star-filled "Salute to Johnson" show at the District of Columbia Armory, with 750 persons on hand for the earlier $1,000-a-plate dinner with the President.

No figures were available, but the festivities probably contributed at least the $1 million predicted in advance.

But Johnson, with tongue firmly in cheek, insisted it was not a political shindig.

"This show is open to anyone who wants to contribute $100 to the Democratic campaign," he said.

His Prediction

On the serious side, Johnson told the crowd, "This is a significant moment. You are gathering as one Democratic administration draws to a close—and as we prepare for another four years of Democratic leadership."

Departing from his prepared text, the President, who never officially has said he will be a candidate next fall, added:

"I hope that you are all going to be with me for these years of achievement that are yet to come."

Bright Promises

Johnson spent much of his speech pointing with pride to past accomplishments of Democratic presidents, and promising great things for the future.

But as an incumbent, he did

Rusk Will Lead U.S. at Nehru Rites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk made emergency preparations to lead a high-level U.S. delegation today to the funeral of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India.

Roused Before Daybreak

Roused before daybreak to receive notice of the death of the Indian leader, Rusk arranged to fly out of Andrews Air Force Base, Md. for New Delhi. Word of Nehru's death also was relayed to President Johnson in the early hours.

Other members of Rusk's party were Assistant Secretary of State Phillips Talbot, in charge of Far Eastern and Southeast Asian affairs, and U.S. Ambassador Chester Bowles, who has been at home for consultations.

Chavan Going Along

India's defense minister, Y. B. Chavan, who had been visiting the United States and negotiating for arms aid, was invited to accompany the party.

Chavan, who has been mentioned in some quarters as a possible successor to Nehru, was notified of the prime minister's death in Colorado Springs Colo., where he was visiting the U.S. Air Force Academy. Until the trip with Rusk was set up, he had planned to leave at once for New York and fly home from there.

Second Stroke Halts 17-Year Nehru Reign

Held Tight Reins Since Succeeding Gandhi in '47; Cremation Thursday

NEW DELHI, India (AP)— Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, the aristocratic statesman who led India in the paths of neutralism and socialism since it became independent in 1947, died today after suffering his second stroke in less than five months. He was 74.

Senior Cabinet Member

Home Minister G. L. Nanda, a senior Cabinet member who has a reputation for getting things done, was sworn in as acting prime minister.

Nanda was sworn in by President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan. An elderly philosopher renowned in world academic circles, Radhakrishnan was charged under the constitution to take over the government on the death of the prime minister. But Nanda was quickly chosen to handle the administrative details.

Nehru's death was attributed to a heart attack and shock.

"The prime minister is no more," Steel Minister C. Subramaniam told the sobbing Parliament. "Life is out. The light is out."

Was Partially Paralyzed

Nehru was stricken at 6:25 a.m. as he arose at his usual hour. He died at 2 p.m. — 4:30 a.m. EDT, seven hours and 35 minutes later. A stroke on Jan. 7 had partially paralyzed his left side but he had recovered somewhat and in recent weeks had resumed his seat in Parliament.

His only child, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, was with him when he died. A large team of doctors was in attendance. The U.S. Embassy offered its medical staff and equipment, but an embassy spokesman said the Indian government did not request assistance.

Nehru's two sisters, Mrs. Vijayalakshmi Pandit and Mrs. Krishna Hutheesingh, left Bombay by special plane for New Delhi.

Mrs. Pandit is governor of Maharashtra State.

Successor Big Question

Nehru's death urgently raised a question that has plagued India for years — his successor. The strong-willed prime minister held the reins of power firmly and adamantly refused to designate a successor.

A leading candidate has been Lal Bahadur Shastri, 59, a mild-mannered, 5-foot-2 veteran of the ruling All-India Congress party and a close friend of Nehru. After Nehru's first stroke, he summoned Shastri, made him a Cabinet minister without portfolio and put him in charge.

Shastri Elbowed Aside

But when Nehru began recovering, Shastri was elbowed aside and his political stock dropped.

Two other political figures generally regarded as possible successors are Home Minister G. L. Nanda and Finance Minister T. T. Krishnamachari.

The Indian constitution provides for the president, normally a ceremonial official, to take over the government on the death of the prime minister.

The president is Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, an elderly philosopher renowned in world academic circles and a highly respected figure in India.

A state funeral and cremation will be held quickly, in accordance with Indian custom. The Defense Ministry said the funeral procession would start in New Delhi Thursday morning.

Officials announced Nehru's body would lie in state in his residence and the doors would be open all night to let people file by him.

Will Be Cremated

Thursday morning, the body will be "taken out in procession," as Indians say, through the streets of the capital to the burning ground.

Nehru will be cremated at a

Significant Step: President

U. S. Moscow Agree To Consular Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today an historic consular treaty with the Soviet Union and termed the event "a significant step" in building understanding between the American and Soviet peoples.

First Treaty for Two

The treaty, announced simultaneously in Washington and Moscow, will provide for the opening of consular offices in the two countries. It is the first treaty ever negotiated between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Johnson, citing the advantages which he expects this country to receive as a result of the agreement, said that when the treaty takes effect "Americans detained in the Soviet Union for any reasons will be assured of access without delay to American consular officials."

George Reedy, White House press secretary, was asked whether this would apply to any Americans who might be arrested on espionage charges.

"The statement says 'for any reasons,'" Reedy replied.

Senate Must Ratify

Johnson said the agreement, which must be ratified by the Senate before it can take effect, will be signed in Moscow on June 1.

Foy Kohler, U.S. ambassador in Moscow, will sign for the United States. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is expected to sign for Russia.

In announcing the completion of lengthy negotiations on the agreement, Johnson hailed the treaty as "a significant step in our continuing efforts to increase contacts and understanding between the American people and the peoples of the Soviet Union."

In the same vein, Johnson concluded his statement with these words:

"It is my hope that this treaty—the first bilateral treaty between the United States and the Soviet Union—will be a step forward in developing understanding between our two countries—which is so important in the continuing struggle for peace."

Potential Benefits

Johnson, in citing improved consular services to be made possible in both countries as a result of the treaty, said Americans visiting the Soviet Union either as tourists or for business reasons "will have available to them a greater degree of consular protection than ever before."

Johnson listed these other potential benefits:

"American businessmen and shipping companies will be able to call on U.S. consular services to assist in representing their interests. And the mechanics

Savings to Start Today for 107,000 In C-H Rate Cut

Lower electric rates for Mid-Hudson Valley families were put into effect today by Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation. The rate reduction, the third in the past four years initiated by Central Hudson for its residence customers, will amount to about four per cent on the cost of electric service for the typical family.

The new rate schedule will result in savings to customers of about $600,000 in the next 12 months, according to Central Hudson President Lelan F. Sillin Jr. He noted that the utility had reduced electric rates for residence customers in July 1960, and again in December 1962. The total effect of the three rate reductions, he explained, will result in savings to Mid-Hudson

Hudson Valley Home Builders Association honored State Senator E. Ogden Bush of DeLancey as its choice for "Legislator of the Year" at the legislative dinner held Tuesday night at Governor Clinton Hotel.

The Home Builders Association each year at its May meeting, follows the practice of honoring an area legislator for his activities in behalf of the builders in the State Legislature. The session serves also to discuss the legislative problems considered vital to the builders of the area.

Plaque Presented

The Legislator of the Year plaque was presented to Sen. Bush by Malvern H. Cunningham of Kingston, past president of the association, and treasurer of the State Home Builders Association.

Sen Bush, visibly moved by the presentation, said in a brief acceptance speech, that he would rather act than talk on legislation. Sen. Bush represents the 34th Senatorial District comprising Ulster, Greene, Sullivan and Delaware Counties. He is in his eigth year in the State Senate, and was first elected to it in 1956. In the Tuesday primaries he will again seek the Republican nomination to run for re-election.

Cunningham presided at the meeting in place of Samuel Hankin of Poughkeepsie, president, who is at Vassar Hospital recovering from a heart seizure. A card signed by all those present, nearly 100, will be sent to Hankin.

W. Dale Schwartzmiller, regional manager of the State Department of Commerce office at Kingston addressed the group on the assets and liabilities of the Hudson Valley.

Lists Area Assets

Schwartzmiller listed among the area's assets, its proximity to the New York metropolitan area, important highways, the Thruway and Route 17 Quickway; the Hudson River, which he said can accommodate ocean-going vessels of 32 feet draft as far north as Hudson. He said dredging is going on now which will increase this to Albany.

In the liability column, Swartzmiller placed the need of low-priced housing; a good east-west highway, a Thruway on the east side of the Hudson; improved water and sewage facilities; need of skilled and semi-skilled workers; technical and vocational schools, and improved financial services for large projects.

Swartzmiller stressed the importance of 31 existing businesses which have expanded operations in the area and 18 new businesses established.

Referee Mourns Soccer Tragedy, Blamed by Some

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—The referee at the disastrous soccer game in Peru is mourning at home with his wife and two daughters for a week.

"Then I want to see my priest," said Angel Eduardo Pazos. "I want to be sure the fault wasn't mine, like some Lima newspapers are saying. It has been so terrible.

Will Remain Referee

"But I will remain a referee," added Pazos, 38, a metal worker who officiates at soccer games in his spare time.

Argentina's team was leading Peru's 1-0 in the pre-Olympic game in Lima Sunday when Pazos disallowed a Peruvian score because a Peruvian player had committed a foul. A spectator jumped onto the field and ran toward Pazos.

Police dragged the man off, but other fans poured onto the field and Pazos called off the game. Rioting began.

"The police had to use tear gas because the water hoses didn't work," Pazos said.

A frenzied push for the exit gates began, but four of the seven at the north end of the stadium were locked. Body upon body was crushed against the barriers. Those who fainted or stumbled were trampled. There were 328 dead and hundreds more injured — the sports world's greatest tragedy.

Three of Dead Policemen

Peruvian authorities disclosed Tuesday that three of the dead were policemen killed by the mob. Rioters strangled a sergeant with his own necktie. An officer who tried to save him was thrown from the stadium

Troopers Arrest Fulton Doctor, 2 On Abort Charges

FULTON, N. Y. (AP) — A physician and two other men were arrested Tuesday night and arraigned today on charges of illegal abortion in what State Police called a widespread conspiracy in central New York.

Covered Wide Area

Several witnesses, unidentified, also were taken into custody, police said. They said the ring had operated in Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Binghamton, Rome and surrounding areas.

State and local police arrested Dr. Harry Alpert, 52 of Fulton, Victor Gorea, 42, of Fulton, and Frank Morreale was arrested in Utica ,the others in Fulton.

Judge Donald Comstock of Fulton City Court set bail at $1,000 for each, and all but Morreale produced bail quickly.

Morreale was held in Oswego County Jail.

Court hearings will be held later.

Probe Still Underway

Police did not say how many persons were involved. They said the investigation, begun 2½ months ago, still was underway.

Abortion prices ranged from $500 upward, they said.

State Police Lt. Supervisor W. B. Surdan is coordinating the investigation, which has involved use of cameras to make identifications.

Two Syracuse policewomen helped make interviews.

Feels He Has Vote Pattern Key

Rockefeller Confident Of California Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller apparently believes he has welded a responsibility key that will unlock the doors to victory in California's vital Republican presidential primary next Tuesday.

The New York governor has tossed overboard the underdog role he played expertly in winning the May 15 Oregon primary. In that contest he damaged beyond practical repair the potential candidacy of U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Sees Handy Victory

Rockefeller now is reported highly confident he can handily defeat Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in next week's voting and thus blight the Arizona conservative's burgeoning drive for the 655 convention votes needed for the presidential nomination.

Rockefeller's public prediction that if he wins California's 86 votes in Tuesday's balloting he will have 400 convention votes on the first ballot is privately chalked up in his own camp as a booboo.

Even if he can field all of New York's 92 votes—of which there is some doubt—Oregon's 18 and California's 86 would give him just 196. He probably would go over the 200 mark but would still be a distant second to Goldwater on the first countdown at the San Francisco meeting.

Bolsters Faith

But his victory in Oregon and his confidence that he can win in California have restored the governor's obviously faltering faith—which he never conceded publicly—that he could win the nomination for himself.

Nobody around him was willing to admit it aloud, but until Oregon came along and California began to look good, the Rockefeller operation was regarded by the political pros as little more than a desperate effort to stop Goldwater.

Backers Optimistic

The pros are not ready quite yet to go along, but Rockefeller's people are talking optimistically of getting the nomination for their candidate. They are bearing down on the point that the governor really believes he can beat President Johnson in November. They are suggesting that Goldwater and some other potential nominees have no such faith in their prowess.

Rockefeller told a Young Republican audience in the swank Beverly Hilton Hotel Tuesday night that the issue in his head-on battle with Goldwater is "whether the Republican party

Memorial Slate Bringing Holiday Weekend to Many

For some Kingston area residents, Memorial Day will mean a three-day, long weekend holiday, while for some others it will be at least two days in a row.

Mayor John J. Schwenk said city hall will be closed on Friday to give municipal employes the long weekend. City court and the public safety agencies, of course, will maintain regular working schedules. All police personnel have been assigned to the Memorial Day parade for Saturday.

Mayor Schwenk meanwhile joined with other area public officials in urging display of the flag and participation in the Memorial observances on that day.

County offices, including the motor vehicle bureau will remain open on Friday but will be closed on Saturday as usual.

To Collect Refuse

Charles J. Cole, superintendent of the city Department of Public Works, said that refuse will be collected on schedule on Friday and the municipal dump would remain open during legal hours. He said the BPW will suspend all other public functions on Friday through Monday.

Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk said the post office will be open and mail deliveries will be made on Friday, but Saturday will be observed as a legal holiday for all employes.

John P. Schueler, public relations manager at the Kingston plant of IBM, said that both the Kingston and Poughkeepsie plants will close after the regular work day on Thursday and will

Governor Urges Remembrance of Brave Saturday

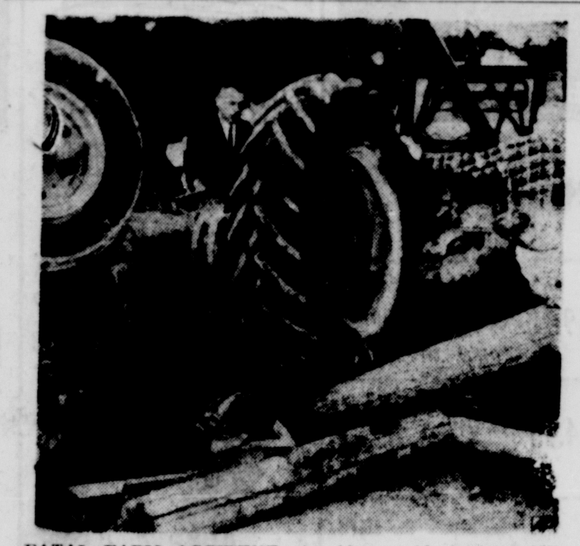
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller has urged New York State residents to observe Memorial Day in tribute to "all brave souls who have fallen in our wars for freedom."

Rockefeller commented Tuesday in a proclamation formally designating Saturday as a holiday.

He urged that holiday activity include display of the national and state flags, patriotic services and decoration of the graves of fallen American heroes.

In a separate statement, State Police Superintendent Arthur Cornelius Jr. urged that all drivers exercise additional caution on the highways over the weekend.

He said additional troopers would be on duty to enforce traffic laws.



FATAL FARM ACCIDENT—An 11-year-old Appleton, Wis., girl, Angeline Van Schyndel, was fatally injured when the tractor they were riding overturned near their farm home. Her brother, Gary, 14, also was injured in the mishap. He, who had been driving the tractor, still is pinned under the machine. Authorities and volunteers spent about 30 minutes to free the children. Freehold PM Named Masons District Deputy Herman E. Story of Freehold has been appointed state Masonic District Deputy Grand Master of Greene-Ulster District, it was announced this morning by the newly elected Grand Master of the 300,000 Masons of New York State, Supreme Court Justice Clarence J. Henry of Rochester. He succeeds C. Freeman Lasher of Saugerties, and will serve for one year.

Story is a member and past master of Kedemah Lodge 693 in Ellenville, and held almost every office in the lodge, served several years as trustee and at present is chaplain of the Lodge. He is lodge chairman for the World's Fair ticket sales.

Active in civic and community affairs, Story has been president of the Freehold Volunteer Fire Company, secretary-treasurer of the Freehold Cemetery Association, and secretary of the Freehold Village Improvement Society. He is a member of the Freehold Congregational Christian Church, and was chairman of the board of trustees for 11 years. He is the Postmaster in Freehold.

Story will be the ambassador of the Grand Master of New York State Masons, and will be responsible for the 14 Lodges in Greene and Ulster Counties, with a membership of more than 3,400 Masons.

Van Deusen Is Appointed

Also appointed, as a Grand Steward, is Fred L. Van Deusen, who is a member of Rondout Lodge No. 343, in Kingston.

The new District Deputy Grand Master is responsible to the State Grand Master, Judge Clarence J. Henry of Rochester, who heads the 300,000 Masons throughout the state.

The district deputy is in charge of the activities of the lodges in his district, which include area meetings, 100th anniversary celebrations, and bestowing citations and emblems on Masons who have been in the fraternity for 50 years.

The District Deputy Grand Master is responsible for the annual Masonic Brotherhood Fund Campaign. More than $600,000 was raised this year and will be used for the maintenance of the newly erected Isaac R. Stewart Hospital Wing at Utica, the Medical Research Laboratory at Utica, and the promotion of Brotherhood everywhere.

Summer Events Listed

He will interest himself in the eighth annual Empire State Masonic cruise to the Caribbean which will leave New York Saturday, January 5, 1965, for two weeks on the "Empress of Canada," and is open to Masons, their families and all their friends.

More than 300,000 tickets to the World's Fair have been purchased by New York State Masons to assist in building the Masonic Center, on the corner of the Avenue of the Americas and Avenue of Europe at the Fair. In this center are illustrated the history of Masonry from the earliest times and the good it is doing today. The Center shows how Masonry and education developed side by side in the United States; also how Masons assisted the country's business development. Not only Masons but all visitors are finding the Masonic Center a fascinating place, and already more than 50,000 persons have signed the register.

The newly appointed District Deputy Grand Master, committee members and many other Masons and their families from this area, will make the annual St. John's Day Pilgrimage to Utica, Saturday and Sunday, June 20 and 21, when the Deputies and Staff Officers will be ceremonially invested by the newly elected State Grand Master, Judge Clarence J. Henry, of Rochester, Justice of the Supreme Court of New York State.

Dear Abby . . .

Fact — and Fiction!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This is for the mother who read her 16-year-old daughter's diary and was "worried sick." I, too, was 16 when my mother read my diary (20 years ago). It read like this: "After choir practice we all went to Margaret's house and as usual her mother was out. We were popping corn when Margaret's brother came in with some friends. 'R.M.' sure is the love of my life. When Margaret's mother came home, 'R.M.' was showing us how the coach gives rubdowns. I'm sure she thought the worst! Next week after choir we will go to Betty's as her folks will be out of town. Oh, boy! Here's hoping 'R.M.' will be there."

Some of the above was true, but the part about "R.M." was all wishful thinking. I had a terrific crush on him and he didn't know I was alive. I filled my diary with one imaginary love affair after another. Of course my mother would never believe that it was all made up. I'm sure that many teen-agers do this today. My own little girl (13) is now entering the thrilling age of secrets, and I am glad I have a secret to help guide me. Sincerely,

AUTHOR OF A TEEN-AGE DIARY

DEAR ABBY: I seldom disagree with you, but when you say that it is "unforgivable" for a mother to read her daughter's diary, I can't go along with that. It is the DUTY of parents to keep a close eye on their children until they are able to assume full responsibility for their actions. If a mother can learn something that will be helpful in guiding her daughter by reading her diary, or letters, or listening in on telephone conversations, I say more power to her! The "loss of privacy" is not nearly as serious to 15- or 16-year-olds as the trouble they could get into when they get away with things they shouldn't. It doesn't do any good to hear the confessions after a girl is in trouble when the trouble is evident.

ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW

DEAR ABBY: I, too, have read my 16-year-old daughter's diary for more than five years, and I expect to tell her only when she is lying awake waiting for her teen-ager to come in. By reading it, I have come to understand the intense need for love and patience at 16. It has helped me to foresee trouble before it dvelops, and to offer wise guidance. It has taught me to listen instead of preach. It has helped me to set limits before they are breached. It has also given me growing confidence in my daughter's ability to make the right decisions. I believe I have an obligation to God to return this child to Him as a fulfilled, useful person, not as an apology. And I know that I will be forgiven for using "unforgivable" means to do so when the times comes.

A MOM WHO CARES

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a 16-year-old boy, and while he doesn't keep a diary, I did come across an unfinished letter he had writen to a boy cousin. I was shocked and heartsick at some of the stuff he said he had done. Since one incident had to do with school, I got in touch with his football coach and a helpful school counselor, and had a talk with them. It turned out that my son hadn't done any of these things! He was just tired of being a "good kid" and wanted to appear more daring and spirited. Perhaps our entertainment today makes crime and violence appear so glamorous and exciting that our young people feel almost ashamed if they don't get into some sort of trouble. Parents shouldn't feel hurt if their children don't share all their thoughts and dreams with them. I know I didn't, and I had wonderful parents. This might help the mother who was "Worried Sick" because of the escapades she read in her daughter's diary. They were probably pure fiction, too.

Bus Fare Is Going Up In Middletown City

ALBANY, N .Y. (AP) — The Public Service Commission today authorized Mid-City Transit Corp., to raise its one-way adult fare from 15 to 20 cents in Middletown. The change is to take effect June 1.

The company operates buses on four routes in Middletown.

The current fares have been in effect since July 1, 1960. The commission action does not involve any change in the $1 price for eight-trip student tickets.

The company said the change would provide about $7,700 in additional revenue. This is needed, the company said, to cover an operating loss of more than $4,000 for the fiscal year ended last March 31.

STAR OF THE NILE

Nikita Khrushchev has breezed through Egypt like President Johnson took Atlanta.

According to reports, not since Antony barged up the Nile to meet Cleo have the Egyptians given a foreign visitor such an enthusiastic welcome.

Small wonder, since Russian loans to Egypt, currently totaling $1.3 billion, are making possible the all-important Aswan High Dam, upon which the economic future of Egypt depends.

Add to this Khrushchev's vocal backing of President Nasser's grandoise pan-Arab, anti-Israel ambitions, and the success of the visit was assured.

Western, particularly U. S., prestige is at low ebb along the Nile. It was not helped any by the vote of a House committee the other day not to give any more money toward rescuing the ancient Abu Simbel temples, which would be submerged by the dam.

It could be argued that the United States is being penny-wise and ruble-foolish again, as we were when we fudged out of the Aswan project.

All is not black, however. We have learned through sad experience that money does not buy friends. Some of those we have helped the most seem to resent it the most.

Premier Khrushchev may someday find that out, if he ever makes the mistake of reminding the Egyptians how much they owe to him.

ANTI-BOXING REASONS

Those who would like to see professional boxing outlawed or placed under strict federal control ofter bear down heavily on the idea that boxers — even the best of them, whose fights may bring in millions of dollars — seldom have much to show for it after the last bell has sounded. To a considerable extent this is true, but it is among the weaker reasons for being opposed to the so-called manly art.

Prize fighters are often victimized by promoters, managers and hangers-on of one sort or another attracted to the honey pot. Often, too, they handle their winnings poorly, and wind up with not much left after a few years of high life in the spotlight. This is not surprising. Men who fight for a living are not generally known for native intelligence or a high level of education. They don't usually make the most of their financial opportunities, and that is a pity.

But there are at least two far more persuasive arguments against prize fighting. One is that it tends to brutalize the men who fight, often injures them in mind and body, and sometimes kills them. The other is that it brutalizes the public. There are good reasons for opposition to professional boxing. These suffice.

The fact is that money fighting is a savage business that smacks more of the jungle and gladiatorial combat than of civilized sport. It is the only so-called sport in which the intent of the participants is to hurt and cripple and knock out the opponent. Whether or not the fighters are able to put aside a nest egg for old ages is a relatively unimportant side issue.

ATTACK ON PATENT LAG

Since his appointment in March, Commissioner of Patents Edward J. Brenner has had a chance to size up the problems that confront the Patent Office. They loom big and tough. Though he is sallying forth against them like St. George against the dragon, it is evident that the dragon will not be conquered soon.

As Brenner sees it, there are three major and rather closely inter-related problems. One is that as inventions and disclosures become increasingly complex it is harder and harder to digest them and search out possible conflicts with existing patents. A second is the 20 per cent annual turnover in the staff of experts. And then there is the fact, perhaps most important of all, that the number of patent applications is on the rise and there is a current backlog of some 215,000.

Brenner is attacking the problems intelligently. He hopes to cut down on turnover in personnel by raising salaries and improving conditions. Secondly, he is moving to simplify procedures to speed up patent searches, partly though automation. This is a sound approach. It will not pay off in a hury, but over the long haul the present average processing time of three years or more should be significantly cut.

LBJ AND THE INSTINCT FOR "COMBOS"

Lyndon Johnson has the skilled prizefighter's ability to put together what is known as a "combo"—or combination of feints and blows. Thus, instead of moving directly to staunch our loss of gold to overseas nations by insisting that Congress pass a law that would put a tax on the purchase of foreign securities, he has done his best to follow domestic economic policies that make U. S. securities more attractive than those of France or Great Britain. The result is that money, instead of going abroad, stays at home. And nobody has interfered with free market principles.

A similar "combo" was put together by the White House when the railroad strike was settled. When railroad management gave in to some union demands, with LBJ blessing the agreement, charges were made that once again our government had unfairly intervened on labor's side. What was not immediately noticed was that the railroad settlement did not touch the previous arbitration agreement on featherbedding, which has now been finally validated by the Supreme Court. Having won a minor victory in the White House a few days before the Supreme Court gave the green light to the railroads to cut out unnecessary featherbedding jobs, the unions were not in a position to complain about cuts the railroads are now making.

In one recent episode, however, Johnson's instinct for the right "combo" has failed to function. In trying to divert naval construction and repair work from expensive Navy shipyards to more efficient private yards, Secretary of Defense McNamara is on perfectly economic ground. All true free enterprisers must take the McNamara side in this effort to cut whatever padding there is in naval construction and bad repair bills. But there is, as naval yard employees in both Boston and New York have made plain in their aroused attacks on the McNamara proposition, a great danger that if President Johnson can't find the right "combo" in shifting naval work it could go badly for him at the polls in certain big seaport cities.

The other day it was announced that a private yard in Virginia was to get aircraft carrier construction work that could be done at the Brooklyn Navy Yard in New York State. The reaction in New York City was instantaneous: complaints went from local navy yard workers to Senator Kenneth Keating, a Republican, that the Johnson Administration was showing arrant favoritism to the Newport Company's Virginia yard just because it was in LBJ's beloved southland.

This charge of regional bias probably has no basis in fact. As Edwin M. Hood, president of the Shipbuilders Council of America, suggests, the Newport Company probably got the carrier award because it was able to make a case for itself on the basis of comparative costs. Yet it was unfortunate that Newport News, Va., is such a long way from Brooklyn. If a shift in work from public to private yards merely means that the same workers will be carrying their lunch boxes to different destinations, the Pentagon should try to reassign its naval construction and repair jobs so that any charge of regional favoritism will fall on its face.

A Johnson-type "combo" in shifting work from public to private facilities without unduly disrupting regional employment patterns would be to give what is taken away from the Brooklyn Navy yard to the private Todd yards in Brooklyn and Hoboken, N. J. Or, in the New England region, the privately owned Electric Boat division yards of General Dynamics would, in a Johnson-type shift, get work that might otherwise go to more expensive public facilities in Portsmouth, N. H. By keeping regional employment at traditional levels, the political argument against favoring the more economic private yards would thereby be robbed of at least some of its force. And the humanitarian argument against compelling men to move long distances to find work at their specialty would be stilled.

Currently, so my spies tell me, naval shipyard employees are contributing some hefty sums of money to finance a propaganda campaign to keep their yards open. Wouldn't it be better for them to start a drive to cut costs in the public yards? After all, the best way to keep business is to do it better than the other fellow. A Johnson "combo" here would be to give the navy yards a stated period of time in which to get their costs down before new contracts are finally awarded on a different pattern.

Bladder Inflammation Is Complication of Infection

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If you have cystitis or inflammation of the bladder, the passage of urine is frequent—even though the amount passed at any one time may be scanty—and it is also painful.

Cystitis may occur as a complication of an acute infection such as influenza, scarlet fever, septic sore throat or the common cold. The guilty bacteria or virus may get into your bladder through the blood stream or may travel up the urethra from the outside.

One reader complains of intestitial cystitis. This is especially hard to treat. With this type there is inflammation of the deeper as well as of outside layers of the bladder.

In some victims in addition to symptoms referable to the bladder there may be nausea and vomiting. Prompt and effective treatment is necessary to prevent the involvement of the kidneys—a much more serious matter.

Treatment includes forcing fluids to flush out the bladder and to dilute the acidity of the urine. Drugs and a low-protein diet are given to further alkalinize the urine. When the germ is identified, the sufonamide or antibiotic most effective can be given. When such treatment is prescribed it must be continued for at least two weeks even though the disease appears to be cured sooner—otherwise there is danger of a recurrence.

Urinary antiseptic drugs are sometimes combined with antispasmodics and pain relievers with good results. A new urinary antiseptic, nalidixic acid, has been hailed as a boon because it is effective against the Proteus germ. This organism has become resistant to most of the older antibiotics. Since it is not an antibiotic it is hoped that it will not stimulate these germs to become drug-resistant.

Q—About two years ago I began taking Butazolidin for cervical arthritis and it has helped me. What harm can come from prolonged use of this drug?

A—Phenylbutazone (Butazolidin) is widely prescribed for some types of arthritis. In some persons it causes nausea, waterlogging and a skin eruption. Because it may cause diseases of the blood cells, anyone who is taking it should have periodic blood counts. If this is done the drug can be used for prolonged periods.

Washington News

SANTA MONICA — (NEA) — Here in the factories working on the manned trip to the moon, a new kind of potential technological unemployment is developing—a kind of technological obsolescence of the educated.

We hear a lot these days about the effects of automation on men and women who have had little schooling. But in the Apollo-Saturn factories I've visited on this trip to Louisiana and California, it's not only the undereducated who are being hit.

Management is finding that a good many of its college graduate engineers, scientists and managers—including men with advanced degrees—aren't able to keep up with the fast-changing intricate technical problems that moon and space exploration present.

Says one top manager of a plant doing development and production work for the Apollo-Saturn man-to-the-moon project: "We're finding that if a man has been out of college 10 years, he's behind the times—unless he's spent his nights at school studying to keep up with the new concepts. He often can't keep up with the man just out of college."

Says another manager: "We've put our space systems division several miles away from our older plant. We want our sharp young space engineers off by themselves where they won't be held back by the less-advanced ideas of our older engineers.

"Our problem is finding men who aren't so tied to past ways of doing things they can't come up with new ideas."

ROCKETDYNE DIVISION of North American Aviation, like a number of other companies, has told its engineers, managers, technicians and all other employes that if they will seriously go back to school in the evenings, the company will pay part of the cost. If a worker successfully completes work for a degree in this evening training, the company will pay all tuition costs.

The company is picking a group of its brighter young engineer-manager types who have proved their ambition by successfully studying evenings. It's offering to pay them a salary to go to school in the daytime.

I talked to Wallace Fore, Rocketdyne vice president in charge of manufacturing and facilities. Though he had a degree in chemistry, he's been studying nights and has recently won his master's degree in operations management.

SO IMPORTANT DO THE SPACE ROCKET companies consider this academic-research stimulation that they tend to make certain their new development and manufacturing plants are built near colleges.

Douglas Aircraft Company's Missile and Space Division has recently built the first stage of its new space-rocket development facility in Huntington Beach, Calif., near the California Institute of Technology and close by the projected site of a major new college being established by the University of California.

Douglas is also planning to set up a basic research laboratory on the grounds of the Huntington plant. The Douglas people think this will spur research, help bring in new ideas and stimulate their engineers.

Scope of Supreme Court In Ruling on Counties

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court of the United States has just handed down a decision which transcends in importance its ruling of May, 1954, ordering public schools to be desegregated.

This time the Supreme Court goes further. It undertakes of a Virginia county how it shall appropriate the taxpayers' money. It tells the board of supervisors, which is the legislative body of the county under the constitution of the State of Virginia, that a Federal court order can be issued commanding the county board to levy certain taxes and spend certain funds for purposes specified by the court.

No such sweeping decision has ever come from the Supreme Court in the history of the United States. The theory of the Federal Constitution has always been that the executive, legislative, and judicial powers are separate, and that the right of the people to govern themselves and to elect a legislative body to decide how tax money shall be spent cannot be interfered with or impaired by any order of a court.

The Supreme Court, in this instance, admitted that a state "has a wide discretion in deciding whether laws shall operate statewide or shall operate only in certain counties, the Legislature 'having in mind the needs and desires of each.'" But the opinion went on to say that the Supreme Court of the United States may decide for itself what objectives the board of supervisors may have had in mind and veto such legislation if it doesn't conform to the court's conception of how the county's money shall be spent.

The Supreme Court was explicit in its command as it ruled that the Federal court may, if necessary, "require the supervisors to exercise the power that is theirs to levy taxes to raise funds adequate to reopen, operate, and maintain without racial discrimination the public school system in Prince Edward County like that operated in other counties in Virginia.

So, while conceding that a state may give counties local autonomy, the Supreme Court now reserves for itself the right to censor such actions and issue court decrees compelling legislatures to vote certain taxes. This has heretofore always been believed to be discretionary with the legislative body.

If the principle established by the high court is accepted, it could mean that the Federal judiciary may undertake to tell Congress how it shall spend tax money, and particularly to order the national legislature, as well as the state legislatures, to spend the money in ways which the court itself would decide.

Again and again, spokesmen for various states have argued that other states got more appropriations or more assistance from the Federal government, and that this constituted a form of discrimination. The Supreme Court of the United States now can rule not only on such questions but can claim that the citizens are not being given "the equal protection of the laws" when one state or one part of a state is favored over another by Federal or state appropriations.

Even more senational is the Supreme Court's ruling that a county, and perhaps even a state, must operate its educational system in accordance with the dictates of the judiciary. The Legislature of the State of Virginia, for instance passed laws in 1959 and 1960, providing grants of tuition to parents of "every child, regardless of race," so as to finance the attendance of such a child at any "nonsectarian private school or a public school outside his locality." All localities were also authorized to provide their own grants on a similar nondiscriminatory basis.

The people of Prince Edward County in Virginia, where the dispute arose over the closing of the public schools, offered to set up private schools for colored children as well as private schools for white children. But the Negro organizations declined the offer, preferring to depend upon a court battle by which they sought a compulsory opening of the public schools.

Thus a county in the State of Virginia is prevented by the highest court in the land from treating children of all races equally in permitting them to go to private schools of their own choosing or to attend public schools in other counties or localities.

The day cannot be far distant when private schools throughout the country may be subjected to the same judicial supervision on the ground that, while they might not have the financial support, these schools nevertheless operate under a state license or must obtain educational accreditation from state authorities. Private schools could some day be classified—in the words of the latest Supreme Court decision—as "beneficiaries of county and state support."

Most surprising of all, however, is the concept expressed by the Supreme Court that it may at will substitute its own decrees for the judgment usually rendered by a state or county legislative body elected by the people. An oligarchy of nine men, appointed for life, could virtually control the income and outgo of the budgets and, in effect, force the spending of public funds for purposes not approved by the people's representatives.

Geologic Study Of Area Made by Paltz Student

New Paltz undergraduate, Morris Salkind of Chapel Street, Kingston presented a scientific paper at the Easter Colleges Science Conference in Jersey City recently.

Part of the study concerns itself with drawing the first geologic map of rocks underlying the city of Kingston.

Salkind, a senior at the State University College in New Paltz, who is majoring in geology presented a paper in structural geology entitled "Field Study of Paleozoic Strata of the Lower Rondout Valley near Kingston, N. Y. This scientific paper sums up the results of two independent studies accomplished consecutively this year under the general supervision of Professor G. R. Heyl of the Division of Science and Mathematics.

The research of Mr. Salkind is a distinct forward contribution to knowledge of the deep structure of the Appalachian Mountains of eastern North America, as this mountain system developed during Paleozoic time more than 200 million years ago. A more detailed knowledge of this mountain belt and its structure aids appreciably in understanding of the mode of occurrence of valuable mineral deposits in the region. The Rondout district is a particularly critical area in the investigation of Appalachian structure, and in the past has been studied by Prof. W. M. Davis of Harvard and Prof. Gilbert Van Ingen of Princeton.

In the dedication of the new Coykendall Science Building at New Paltz, this paper and the map of the Kingston area were both chosen to be placed in a container within the cornerstone to be opened in the future.

Mr. Salkind is continuing his geologic research in Ulster County, and as he uncovers further information he plans to expand the project, using the results as a thesis for the master's degree.

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that the Emmy Awards and the inter-network guerrilla warfare is over, there is time to consider what may be the start of something big for viewers.

The National Association of Broadcasters has made the first tentative step toward the reduction—or at least control of—those long minutes between the end of one program and the beginning of the next.

This period—sometimes 10 or 11 minutes—usually is crammed with bits and pieces, often highly profitable, that the industry calls "clutter."

Our hero rides off into the sunset several minutes before the official end of the show. Then we are treated to a scene designed to lure us to next week's episode, followed by a long, long listing of the cast, producer, director, associate producer, assistant director, cameraman, assistant cameraman, and everybody even remotely connected with the program.

Then come the final commercials, immediately followed by two or three station-break sales pitches and the inevitable station identification. Then comes theme music and the living-room viewer sees a teaser scene from the oncoming show designed to keep him from switching the dial.

Viewers have grumbled about clutter for years, just as they have been complaining for years about loud commercials. Nothing much happened, however, until some of the advertising agencies which buy television time also started to complain about "excessive non-program interruptions."

They thought all the between shows action watered down the effectiveness of the commercials.

Anyway, the NAB's television code review board decided to study the situation — and also the loud commercials situation.

Tried to Avoid Dogs

While attempting to avoid a pack of four dogs on the Ulster Landing Road shortly after noon Monday, Gerald Clearwater of 771 Albany Avenue lost control of his car and went over an embankment and struck a pole. He was uninjured. At the time he was driving south around a curve when he observed the dogs on the highway. The scene was approximately a half mile from Route 32. Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes of the Lake Katrine substation investigated.

Female cones of the bristlecone pine are purple and have sharply bristled scales, giving the species its common name.

Troop Carrier Reserves of Area Undertake Airlift

Many area reserve members of the 904th Troop Carrier Group (CALSU) of Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh are participating in an airlift which will transport about 140 Arctic-trained infantrymen in a special Alaskan exercise during the week.

Nine C-119 Flying Boxcars have been assigned to the mission known as Silver Fox III.

The Army role in "Silver Fox III" calls for the 4th Battalion, 9th Infantry to track down and destroy an "aggressor guerilla" band. This band of "guerillas' consists of other elements of the 9th Infantry and scouts from the Alaska National Guard. The exercises action is taking place in the hills and swampy valleys northeast of Nome where the snow is still four to five feet deep and the temperature hovers from near freezing to several degrees below.

The job of the Mid-Hudson reserve airlift unit is to provide the airlift support necessary to get the Army units into the maneuver area and maintain an aerial supply route. Because surface transportation is almost non-existent through most of the vastness of Alaska, especially the northern half, airlift is the only means to move men or material in military operations.

Crew-members from the Hudson Valley region who took part in the nine-plane mission included: Pilots — Major Ralph Kluefpfel, Maplewood Blvd., Suffern; Major John C. Kerns, Saugerties; Capt. John Sabey, 7 Vincent Road, Poughkeepsie; Capt. James A. Palmer, Maple Road, Valley Cottage; Capt. John E. Tompkins, 9 Edgewood Drive, Saugerties; Major David Aiken, Dwaarkill; Capt. George Schumacher, 15 Orchard Street, Stony Point; Major John J. Stumpf, Salem Drive, Stony Point; Capt. Gerald C. Miller, 160 N. Main Street, New City; and Capt. John W. Irwin, 18 Orchard Drive, Wappingers Falls.

A3C, John J. Messenger, Cornwall-on-Hudson; and SSgt. George M. Darcy, Gardiner, were airborne radio operators on the "Boxcars."

The elements of the 904th Troop Carrier Group, which include the 336th Troop Carrier Squadon and a composite mission group known as CALSU (Combat Airlift Support Unit) will wind up this year's Alaska mission Wednesday and depart from Elmendorf AFB for the return trip to Stewart AFB Thursday.

The Alaska mission units plus an additional 350 members of the 904th Group including the 904th Material Squadron, the 904th Combat Support Sq., and the 904th Tactical Dispensary (medical unit) who are presently in encampment at Clinton County AFB, Ohio, will return to Stewart AFB on Saturday. This will mark the completion of the group's 1964 annual active duty training tour.

Many Still Without Physicians

Opinions Differ On Shortage of Doctors in U.S.

EDITOR'S NOTE—In parts of the United States, many communities are without a doctor to take care of their growing medical needs. This condition exists despite the fact that the nation's medical schools have increased their output of doctors. The following article, first of two, explores the reasons for this seeming contradiction.

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — American medical schools are winning a tough struggle to produce bumper crops of new doctors each year, but that doesn't mean everyone will find it easy to get a doctor to come to his home at night to find out what's causing junior's stomach ache.

Supply Grows Faster

Although the nation's supply of doctors has grown faster than the population explosion since the start of this decade, many rural and small town areas are without a physician. And more and more medical school graduates after years of struggle to become physicians, are going into the selective, higher paying specialties.

Opinions differ on whether there is an actual doctor shortage in the United States.

A resounding "yes" comes from small town patients who have to drive to a larger city to find a doctor, from city residents who spend hours waiting their turn in a busy doctor's office, and from suburban residents who have trouble locating a general practitioner.

But Dr. Hugh Hussey, director of the American Medical Association division of scientific activities and former dean of the Georgetown University School of Medicine, Washington, gives a "qualified no" to the question.

Favorable Ratio Gains

He said the physician-population ratio, which measures the number of physicians available for each 100,000 persons, is more favorable today than 10 years ago. He said this greater physician supply has been and will be able to meet increasing demands for medical care stemming from general prosperity and expanded sickness insurance programs.

But he added that he could not give an unqualified "no" because of his conviction that "we could use more physicians right now—in education and research to take advantage of rapidly developing new knowledge — and in practice to relieve the modern physician's problem of chronic overwork."

Norman Davis, director of the program for community medical assistance of the Sears, Roebuck Foundation, believes many small communities are hard hit by a doctor shortage and he blames the trend toward specialization in medicine.

Davis, who specializes in assisting small communities to prepare for and attract physicians, said the AMA and medicine in general have done a good job in boosting the output from the nation's medical schools.

87 Approved Schools

"But it doesn't do a lot of good if 78 per cent of each year's graduating class specialize," he added. "Maybe the ratio of doctors is increasing, but what good does it serve if it doesn't meet the needs of the community?"

In 1950 there were 80 approved medical schools in the United States. Today there are 87, with 11 additional universities having construction commitments or planning to build medical schools.

Today there are 141.7 physicians for every 100,000 persons in the United States and Dr. Hussey said the rise has been constant in recent years.

Just Didn't Happen

The generally rosy physician supply situation existing today didn't just happen.

A jolt came after America entered the space race. Costs of financing a medical education had soared and many top medical prospects in high schools and colleges went into glamor scientific fields requiring fewer years of study.

Intensive medical recruitment and financial assistance programs sprang up nationally and in the various states to cope with the problem.

The AMA and many constituent medical societies offered scholarships and loan funds to medical students. In the last two years, the AMA has made nearly 14,000 loans totaling some $16 million.

Several medical schools have begun experimental programs to consolidate and correlate courses so that the years of formal study can be reduced.

The American Academy of General Practice established a project to visit student groups and interest them in becoming generalists.

Even before the advent of the space age, local medical societies inaugurated programs to attract graduates of medical colleges in their states.

A medical society in Alabama offers student gifts of a maximum of $400 a year for four years with the provision that each recipient practice in Jefferson County, Ala., for each year of the grant.

The Illinois State Medical Society and the Illinois Agricultural Association offer student loans up to $5,000 with the provision that graduates from any U.S. or Canadian medical school continue general practice in an Illinois small community for five years.

The Nebraska Medical Foundation, Inc., offers loans to Nebraska Medical School students with assurances that the debt will be reduced if the graduate practices in a Nebraska rural area.

Free scholarships ranging up to $2,000 are being offered in Nevada and Ohio.

The low point in medical school applications came in 1961-62, but the trend has been upward since then.

Looking ahead to 1975, the AMA council on medical education and hospitals says it is impossible to make exact predictions of the number of graduates needed by then. But based on current birth rate trends, the commission said a goal of 10,500 that year appears as "a reasonable, tentative objective to be increased or diminished as events in the next few years may warrant." There were 7,264 graduates in 1962-63.

Fire Destroys Camp's Mess Hall, Kitchen

Fire destroyed the mess hall and kitchen of Camp Olena on the outskirts of Copake in Columbia County Tuesday with an estimated loss of $45,000.

Chief Alfred Neer said the fire broke out in the camp about 11:30 a. m. from some unknown cause and was not brought under control until 1 p. m.

The camp was closed last year but was due to open June 10 for boarding children. Officials said the camp would be open while repairs are made.

East and West Were Happy

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The words, "He was right, dead right, as he drove along. But he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong," are inscribed on a motorist's tombstone.

They might well serve as an epitah for today's North.

South's bidding was horrible and his play at four diamonds doubled was just about as bad. When the smoke cleared away, East and West were chalking up 1,400 points on their side of the ledger.

Thus, in assessing the blame for the tragedy, I have to charge South. North had to pay off with South and North could easily have averted most or possibly all of the loss.

North must have played with South before. He must have known that South liked to keep bidding. Hence, when South's first rebid was two hearts, North might well have passed right then and there. South might even have made that two heart contract.

However, North did bid two spades, whereupon South carried on to two no-trump. Now, North surely should have passed. True, his hand appeared worthless at no-trump, but two no-trump had not been doubled and South was a man who liked to keep on bidding. It was up to North to give up while still in a reasonably healthy condition.

It took the three spade bid to set the stage for South's final and rather ridiculous four diamond call. Obviously, he shouldn't have made that call, but he did.

She's got two more cases of Schweppes Bitter Lemon stashed away in the trunk.

Is it cricket to hoard new Schweppes BITTER LEMON?

COMMANDER WHITEHEAD

You are looking at a very practical young lady.

Last year, during the Schweppes Bitter Lemon drought, even her friend Commander Whitehead could spare her only a six-pack. This year, she isn't taking chances. She's hoarding cases of Schweppes Bitter Lemon.

Bitter Lemon is the newest triumph of the House of Schweppes. It was an immediate sensation in England. In America, connoisseurs are drinking it as if there were no tomorrow.

Schweppes Bitter Lemon is a great mixer. You'll get a remarkably good drink when you mix it with gin, vodka, bourbon, rum—you name it.

Schweppes Bitter Lemon is also the first adult soft drink. It has a tart, lemony taste. So sophisticated that it's the only soft drink children don't like. All the more for you.

The extraordinary demand for new Schweppes Bitter Lemon goes on and on. So rush to your store now and buy up a lion's share.

Convenient way to buy Schweppes: In no deposit, no return bottles. So compact!

Schweppes inimitable flavor is protected, naturally, by glass.

Prince Edward County Holds Fast

School Integration Order Not Expected to Make Change

FARMVILLE, Va. (AP)—Few white and Negro students are expected to share the same classrooms next fall in Prince Edward County despite a U.S. Supreme Court order that public schools be reopened on an integrated basis.

While reaction to Monday's historic ruling from county and state officials was scant, opinions were privately voiced that the net result would be a public school system attended almost entirely by Negroes and boycotted by white students who would continue to study at private, segregated schools.

In delivering the court's main opinion, Justice Hugo L. Black said "the time for mere 'deliberate speed' has run out, and that phrase can no longer justify denying these Prince Edward County school children their constitutional rights to an education equal to that afforded by the public schools in other parts of Virginia."

The case, which has journeyed through a maze of state and federal court decisions since its inception in 1951, was sent back to the Richmond U.S. District Court which was empowered to order the county's schools reopened.

Gov. Albertis S. Harrison Jr. discussed the decision with members of the state attorney general's staff and later told newsmen he could say very little because the case still awaits settlement of specific points in U.S. District Court.

Harrison termed the ruling "manifestly a far-reaching decision" in that it marks the first time a court has committed itself to order a legislative body to levy taxes.

This was in reference to wording in the decision that the district court is empowered to require the Prince Edward County Board of Supervisors to levy the necessary taxes to finance a public school system.

It was the refusal of the supervisors in the face of court-ordered integration to levy such taxes in 1959—and every year since — that resulted in the southside Virginia county becoming the only locality in the nation without public schools.

During the past five years the white children have attended county's approximately 1,250 private schools hastily set up in reaction to the court's integration order. About 1,600 Negro children went largely without formal schooling until last September when—at the urging of the late President John F. Kennedy—an experimental one-year educational program known as the Prince Edward Free School Foundation was established with private funds.

Nautically speaking, lagan is ship cargo which is sunk with definite intention of being recovered later, a buoy usually marking its location.

Donald G. Robins National Aide-de-Camp

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Joseph J. Lombardo, Brooklyn, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, has announced the appointment of Donald G. Robins, 135 Elmendorf Street, Kingston, as national Aide-de-Camp, Recruiting Class, VFW.

In making the announcement of the appointment, Commander Lombardo said: "It is an honor for me to extend this appointment to Robins. He has earned this appointment through his own hard work. In many ways an aide-de-camp recruiting class is the most important appointment within our organization. It is because of the efforts of men such as Robins that the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States is a growing organization. Were it not for our membership strength we could not carry on our many youth and community service projects nor could we continue to alert our nation to the dangers of Communism. I want to publicly commend Robins for the tremendous job he has done for our organization."

Hurley Grange Cancer Unit Has Luncheon

Members of the Cancer Dressings Unit of the Hurley Grange held their annual Luncheon recently at the Hurley Firehouse with 18 members attending.

Mrs. Frank Kruetzfeldt, chairman, reported that 30 volunteers worked 2,291 hours making the following items: 11,728 cancer dressings of various sizes, 163 Johnny coats, 48 comfort pillows, 360 bed pads and 32 bibs.

Mrs. Kruetzfeldt also reported that this event marked the 10th year that the group had been working for the service program of the American Cancer Society. She expressed sincere thanks to all those who had given of their time to this worthwhile project.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—American steelmasters, convering on New York today for their annual meeting, are comparing notes on the fast change-over to new techniques now under way. Some of the smaller companies are claiming credit for leading the move to catch up with steelmakers abroad.

Changes Coming Fast

Beyond that, delegates to the American Iron & Steel Institute meeting are being told to "anticipate major changes in metallurgical education and laboratory research" with whole new industries to "emerge out of the new scientific developments."

The here-and-now changes are coming fast, if belatedly. Continuous casting units are the latest, touted as saving from $3 to $12 a ton by skipping steps in the older process. This trend follows closely on the switch to oxygen furnaces, which can cut $2 to $8 a ton from costs of production from the standard open hearths.

Continuous casting was first used in the European Common Market, Japan and Russia. Recently it was taken up here by some small steel companies. And now many of the biggest concerns are building or planning to build continuous casting units. These bypass the ingot mold, stripping, soaking pit, and blooming mill, to convert molten metal into semifinished steel in one operation.

Unit in Two Years

U.S. Steel will have a unit in operation in about two years at Gary, Ind. National Steel will have one at Weirton, W.Va., and and Armco Steel at Butler, Pa. Bethlehem's pilot model will soon be in operation. Republic is building oxygen furnace plants which could accommodate continuous casting units later. McLouth is experimenting with the process.

But some small companies have units already in operation: Roanoke Steel, Roblin Steel, Connors Steel division of H. K. Porter.

The reason seems to be that this is one innovation which the small firm, as well as the large, can afford.

Charge Atheist, Son Lured Daughter Away

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The parents of a 17-year-old girl have charged Madalyn Murray, Baltimore atheist, and her son William, 18, with causing their daughter to abandon her Jewish faith and to leave home.

In a petition filed in a criminal court, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Abramovitz said their daughter, Susan, has been living with the Murrays against their wishes and refuses to come home.

The Abramovitz's contend that Mrs. Murray has encouraged Susan to become an atheist and the girl now wants her parents to refrain from urging her to follow any religious faith, including Judaism.

Mrs. Murray, who is known for her successful suit in having the Supreme Court ban required prayers and Bible readings in public schools, declined comment.

Bard Among 23 State Colleges In Steel Grant

Twenty-three private colleges in New York, including Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, will benefit from participation in $2,550,000 the U.S. Steel Foundation is contributing nationally to support higher education.

Receipt of New York's share of this grant, amounting to $23,000, was announced by J. B. McKee, Foundation executive director.

The colleges are members of the Empire State Foundation of Independent Liberal Arts Colleges.

The Empire State Foundation is one of the state and regional associations of independent colleges represented nationally by The Independent College Funds of America, Inc., headquartered in New York City. The associations' share of the Steel gift is $482,000.

The U. S. Steel program of aid to education, with grants to 760 liberal arts colleges, universities and institutes, and to 22 organizations dedicated to raising the quality of teaching and learning in America, was announced by Roger M. Blough, chairman of the board of trustees of the United States Steel Foundation, Inc.

Other colleges in New York which will share in U. S. Steel's grant are: Alfred University, Alfred; Barnard College, New York; Colgate University, Hamilton; D'Youville College, Buffalo; Elmira College, Elmira; Hamilton College, Clinton; Hartwick College, Oneonta; Hobart & William Smith Colleges, Geneva; Houghton College; Houghton; Keuka College, Keuka Park; Manhattanville College, Purchase; Nazareth College, Rochester; College of New Rochelle, New Rochelle; Russell Sage College, Troy; St. Lawrence University, Canton; College of St. Rose, Albany; Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville; Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs; Union College, Schenectady; Vassar College, Poughkeepsie; Wagner College, Staten Island; Wells College, Aurora.

Will Trot to Fair

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Fifty hardy Springfield College athletes plan to trot 150 miles to the World's Fair next week, but they'll have to detour Connecticut.

Connecticut State Police Commissioner Leo Mulcahy said he told the students they may not run along Connecticut's highways. Mulcahy cited the danger to the runners and to motorists.

The runners now plan to run along Route 23 in Massachusetts and cross over to Route 9 in New York State.

Leavitt Appeals For Big Turnout On Primary Day

POUGHKEEPSIE — Kent Leavitt, chairman of the 28th Congressional District's Republicans for Goldwater Committee, made a last minute appeal today for all enrolled Republicans to go to the polls and vote in next Tuesday's primary election.

"Our committee has worked hard to give voters their right of choice as to whom they should send to the Republican National Convention in San Francisco," Leavitt said. "That voters wanted this choice as to who should represent them, and not Rockefeller, has been apparent in the support accorded me and Lewis Hall as delegates, and Alice O. Lafko and Archie Lebrecht as alternates.

"Without the efforts of our five-county committee there would be no primary," he continued. "And by the same token the Albany machine-picked candidates for delegates would not now, at this late date, be seeking to gracefully shed any obligations or commitments made before we demanded and obtained the right of choice at next Tuesday's primary election.

"We ask and hope that every enrolled Republican will show up at their regular voting place to have their 'say' as to which slate of delegates and alternates that will represent them," Leavitt said in conclusion.

Harris to Oppose Wilkinson in Run For Senate Post

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma Democrats ris, a 33-year-old attorney, as Tuesday night tapped Fred Harris, a 33-year-old attorney, as their man to tackle the pride of the Republicans — ex - football coach Bud Wilkinson — for the U.S. Senate.

Harris swamped incumbent Sen. J. Howard Edmondson, whose meteoric rise in politics was cut short by sudden and overwhelming defeat.

Even more surprising was the victory of under-aged Jed Johnson over 6th District Rep. Victor Wickersham, and 18-year veteran of the lower chamber. The minimum age for a congressman is 25—and Johnson won't be that old until December.

Harris received 270,928 votes to 172,785 for Edmondson with all but a handful of the state's 3,044 precincts still out.

Johnson, who just barely won a run off spot against Wickersham after the May 5 primary, had 42,185 votes to 40,973 for Wickersham with all precincts reported.

Chief Collapses, Dies

Fight Off Lynch Mob After Negro Slays Bartender

NEW YORK (AP) — "Lynch him. Kill him," shouted a mob of whites outside a bar where a Negro was being questioned about the holdup murder of a white bartender.

The victim was the third white man attacked by Negroes near the western edge of Harlem in five days.

Admits Shooting

Police had to call in reinforcements Tuesday night to push through the mob to a patrol car with the Negro. They said early today that the man, Alonzo Cook, 20, of Harlem, had admitted the shooting.

He was booked on a charge of homicide.

Police said the bartender, Gerald Esmond, 55, was talking to a lone customer when the gunman entered and said, "Give me your money."

"Are you kidding?" Esmond asked, and was shot twice. The gunman grabbed $40 from the cash register and fled, pursued by the customer.

Police arrested Cook after they found him in bushes in a church yard.

Esmond, married and the father of one, was well-known in the Vinegar Hill section of Manhattan's upper West Side, a predominantly white neighborhood. A crowd gathered at the bar at 3299 Broadway and the noisiest rattled and pounded on the door, shouting for a lynching.

Last Friday night, L. Carroll Adams, 56, a professor of physical education at Columbia University, was attacked and robbed of $70 by about 20 teenage Negroes.

Showdown Seems Certain in June On Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders are scrambling for the votes needed to apply cloture now that a showdown over the civil rights bill appears certain next month.

A revised bill — compromised to attract the undecided but retaining the basic provisions of the version which cleared the House Feb. 10—was finally introduced in the Senate Tuesday after weeks of tinkering.

The bipartisan leaders immediately voiced varying degrees of confidence that it will clear the Senate in June. Assistant Democratic leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota said he hopes the House then will agree to the Senate version in time for President Johnson to sign the bill into law by July 4.

First, however, the rights forces must get two-thirds of the senators present and voting to approve an end to debate, which is in its 65th day today.

Boards Approve Hercules, Have Acquisition Plan

Henry A. Touron, president of Hercules Powder Company, and John H. Lux, president of Haveg Industries, Inc., announced today approval by the board of directors of both companies of a plan for the acquisition of Haveg Industries by Hercules Powder Company, subject to the approval of the stockholders of Haveg Industries, Inc.

The proposed acquisition calls for the issuance of a new series of Hercules Powder Cumulative Class A stock at the rate of 2 shares for each 5 shares of Haveg common. The new Hercules A stock is to be entitled to cumulative dividends of $1.65 per annum and, like the currently outstanding Cumulative Class A stock, will have no par value. It is to rank pari passu with the outstanding $2 convertible series and will itself be convertible into three shares of Hercules Powder Common during the first year, into three and one-eighth shares during the second and third years, and into three and three-eights shares from the fourth through the sixth year. The issue is to be non-callable during the six years of convertibility, becoming callable at $150 per share thereafter.

Thouron said that it is planned to continue the operations of Haveg Industries and its subsidiaries with its present management and personnel and in Haveg's present plant facilities. Dr. Lux said the ability of Haveg Industries rapidly to develop and exploit its plastics technology will be enhanced and assured by effective utilization of the combined financial and technical resources.

Both Hercules and Haveg have their headquarters in Wilmington, Del.

The common stocks of both companies are listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Haveg Industries has 1,024,772 Common, and Hercules Powder Company, in addition to 18,293,450 Common presently has 141,164 Cumulatve Class A and 87,488 Preferred shares outstanding. Both companies are incorporated in Delaware and were established in 1929 and 1912, respectively.

The negotiations leading to the acquisition were assisted by American Securities Corporation, Investment Bankers, and Nye & Whitehead, members N.Y.S.E.

Folsom Hopeful Of Move to Check Hospital Costs

NEW YORK (AP) — Marion B. Folsom, chairman of Gov. Rockefeller's Committee on Hospital Costs, says it needs cooperation from hospital authorities and the general public to accomplish its aims.

He also said Tuesday the committee hopes to draw up "hard - hitting" recommendations to control soaring hospital costs.

Folsom, who was secretary of health, education and welfare under former President Eisenhower, told newsmen he has no "high hopes" that hospital costs can be reduced. "The main thing is we have to try to control them," he said.

The seven-member committee held its organization meeting at Rockefeller's Manhattan office.

The committee was set up last Sunday as a result of the controversy over rate increases granted to the Blue Cross Hospitalization Insurance Plan.

December 25th was established as the date for Christmas by order of Bishop Liberius of Rome in 354 A. D.

Telegraphers Told To Qualify Action

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A federal judge has ordered the Union of Railroad Telegraphers to explain today why the union should not be restrained from striking the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad.

The railroad filed a brief with Judge John O. Henderson of Federal Court explaining that the strike by the telegraphers, planned for midnight Thursday, would halt the system's "entire transportation activities."

There are 18,000 employes of Erie-Lackawanna in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Erie Lackawanna has asked the court for a restraining order on grounds that the labor dispute involved is on the docket of the National Mediation Board.

The union claims four employes were fired in Ohio without proper notice.

The Federal Court here issued a restraining order Jan. 24, after the telegraphers notified the company of walkout plans. The order expired Jan. 28 and the union withdrew its strike notice.

At the peak of the harvest season, 3,000 trucks and cars roll along the Aleppo-Raqqah Road in Syria, daily.

Elected Senator By Jaycee Group

During the weekend of May 22 and 23, the New York State Jaycees conducted their annual state convention in Rochester. At the convention, Albert Trowbridge was elected a senator in Junior Chamber International.

His appointment as senator is a lifetime tenure and is an exclusive organization within the Jaycees structure. The Jaycees are over 40 years old and Trowbridge is the 4,071st Jaycee to be elected to the senatorship since its inception.

Trowbridge is the third senator to be appointed from the Kingston local. Robert Stedge and Ernest Rowe also hold the honor as senators in J.C.I. To become a senator in J.C.I., the candidate must be recommended by his local, approved by the state organization. The state organization submits the candidate to national, and it is on this level that the candidate is refused or accepted.

Trowbridge is married and has two daughters. He served as the president of the Kingston Jaycees 1961 and 1962. He joined the organization in 1957. He is employed by William Rylance & Sons.

Veterans Request Proper Memorial Day Observance

A plea for all businesses in Ulster County to observe Memorial Day, 1964 in a proper manner was voiced today by Sid Lane, chairman of the Kingston Veterans Association. Lane noted that in the past some establishments have been open for business and have advertised special sales and he feels that Memorial Day is a solemn occasion to honor those who have made the supreme sacrifice for our Country.

He asked for a re-birth of old-fashioned patriotism—flags flying at half-staff all over the area until noon and then raised full staff for the balance of the day.

All who are able should participate in the local parade and the service which will be held at Academy Green immediately preceding the parade, Lane said.

"Please make this a day of solemn observance and remembrance—a thanks to those who have gone but are not forgotten," he asked.

General Electric Is Closing Ithaca Center

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — The General Electric Co., citing what it terms a decline in aerospace defense contracts, says it will close its advanced electronics center here.

Harry F. Mayer, general manager, said Tuesday he expected the shutdown to take about a year. Mayer said the center's activities would be combined with the company's electronics laboratory in Syracuse.

The Ithaca center, established in 1951, employs about 245 persons. Most of them are engineers or technical workers. Most of the key personnel will be offered positions at other GE facilities, Mayer said.

Only an expert botanist or skilled person can tell which of the 38,000 known species of mushroom are safe for eating.

CHEVELLE by Chevrolet
How to make your vacation fly by... and like it!

A Chevelle makes driving so easy, you'll wonder where the miles went! And what's wrong with that?

Chevelle is the new one from Chevrolet. It's a good foot shorter than the big cars yet doesn't give away any points in styling and performance.

Once you get into this prize package, you'll wonder what we left out to make up for its shorter size. Our guess is you'll find nothing lacking. It has luxurious interiors with yards of soft vinyls and fabrics.

Even a short spin will satisfy you with Chevelle's ride and handling. There's a wide choice in engines so you can pick your power for economy or high performance.

If it weren't so practical, Chevelle simply wouldn't be a Chevrolet. That's why we were careful to include those carefree features that save time and money. Self-adjusting brakes, for instance. The battery-saving Delcotron generator. A long-life aluminized muffler. Flush-and-dry rocker panels.

With Trade 'N' Travel Time going on right now, you couldn't pick a better time to buy one. See your Chevrolet dealer. He's expecting you. Then, hit the road!

Local Science Instructors Are Awarded Grants

The Science Department of Kingston City Schools Consolidated has received notification that two members of the department have been chosen by the National Science Foundation to attend summer institutes.

Larry Shreckengost, chemistry instructor at Kingston High School, will attend Ohio Wesleyan Universiy in Delaware, Ohio, and participate in a program in which the two new approaches to the teaching of chemistry, namely CBA and CHEM study will be investigated.

Gordon Eaton, general science instructor at Myron J. Michael Jr. High will attend Vassar College in Poughkeepsie and will be instructed in new methods of teaching earth science.

Both institutes include tuition and living expenses which are pair by the National Science Foundation.

This brings to three, the number of members of the Science Department who have been awarded grants this year for higher study. It was announced previously that Robert Fitzmaurice, biology instructor at Kingston High will attend Temple University in Philadelphia, Penn.

Onteora Board Accepts Two Pupils From Hunter District

The Onteora Board of Education has indicated a willingness to accept two children residing in the Town of Hunter section of the Silver Hollow Road.

The affirmative board action climaxes several months of negotiations between the Onteora and Hunter-Tannersville boards of education.

The Onteora board said it would accept the students on the following tuition basis: $323 for kindergarten, $661 for grades 1 through 6 and $1068 for grades 7 through 12. The tuition formula is computed on the basis of data provided in "School Business Management News" published by the State Education Department in June 1962.

The board action requires the Hunter district to carry all the responsibilities for tuition payments, transportation and the possibility of caring for any other families which might move into the same general location. Arrangements for transportation would be provided by the Hunter-Tannersville district to the Onteora bus stop at the general store in Willow.

Last December the H-T district requested Onteora to accept several students living in a rather inaccessible area on the Silver Hollow Road in the Town of Hunter. At that time the OCS board indicated to the Hunter district it was not interested in such an arrangement.

Many Developments

Since then several developments have occurred in this case. Superintendent George R. Sullivan told the Onteora board at its May meeting.

A Mr. Berghauer and a Mr. Horn appealed to the Commissioner of Education requesting transportation for their children to the schools in the Hunter-Tannersville district. Because of the remoteness of the area, the commissioner denied their appeal. However, he suggested that the District Superintendent of the 1st supervisory district in Ulster County and the District Superintendent of the 2nd supervisory district in Greene County and the boards of education of the two central districts meet in an effort to seek a solution to "prevent long range impediment to the education of the children therein."

Commissioner Allen also indicated that if the superintendents refused to take action, that a further appeal by the parents might be acceptable. This decision was rendered on March 24, 1964. Since that time, the Berghauer family has moved out and at the present time three Horn children remain, two in elementary and one pre-school child.

On May 15 the superintendents of three contiguous districts, Messrs. Lester Roosa, Sullivan and Hitchcock met to review the various possibilities. The trio drove to the Horn household which is at the end of the passable portion of the Silver Hollow Road which originates at the general store in Willow. The distance from Willow is 4.7 miles. The road for the last two miles to the home is accessible in the wintertime only by jeep with chains on four wheels.

Several Alternates

Several alternate sclutions to the problem were possible:

1) Both districts could do nothing and wait for an additional petition to the Commissioner of Education.

2) The Hunter-Tannersville district can continue to pay transportation costs to the parents and they will drive the 17½ miles through Willow, Mt. Tremper, etc., to Lanesville where they would get the Hunter bus and then the children would ride another 15 miles to the Tannersville school.

3) Accept the students on the tuition basis and with the other stipulations.

4) Have the district superintendents realign the school district boundaries so that all the properties from the Greene County line on Silver Hollow Road to the Horn residence would become part of the Onteora district.

After considering all the possibilities, the Onteora board chose to accept the students on a tuition basis and transportation stipulation. Trustee Herbert Epstein moved the resolution and it was seconded by Trustee Arthur P. Knight and passed unanimously.

Dr. Sullivan said the OCS proposal would be conveyed to the H-T district by Superintendent Hitchcock. A decision by H-T is being awaited.

Plan 15 Houses In Ohayo Hills Development

Details about a new housing development in Woodstock, to be known as Ohayo Hills were described by the builder, Mike Earnest of Zena, at a public hearing on a plans approval application conducted by the Woodstock Planning Board at Town Hall.

Chairman Benjamin L. Webster, Malcolm Rose and Carolyn Wilson represented the planning board. A group of local property owners were present to ask questions.

The project will include 15 houses in the $20,000 to $30,000 price range on a 22½-acre section off Old Wagon Road and on the easterly side of Ohayo Mountain Road.

Questions Asked

Fritz Werner, Woodstock artist who owns a 9½-acre plot near the proposed development asked several questions about water supply, sewage and drainage and possible fire hazards.

Earnest said water tests indicated a steady supply of 22 gallons per minute at 160 feet. The drainage plans have received the tentative approval of the Ulster County Board of Health. Disposal field and septic tanks will be adequate, he said. He also said there would be a 30-foot clearing between the projects and the adjoining woods to minimize fire hazards. The roads servicing the project would be built according to town specifications, with good access, Earnest said.

Also present were persons representing the Judson Smith estate and Walace Jerominek.

Since a quorum of the planning board was not present, the application and public statements were taken under advisement for a later decision by the full board.

Voter Eligibility Explained by Board

The Onteora Board of Education has issued the following notice with respect to voter eligibility for the June 16 re-vote on the $2,696,435 school budget:

Only those voters who signed the new registration books at the annual election on May 6 are registered for the June 16 special district meeting. All others planning to vote on June 16 must register on Saturday, June 6, or on Thursday, June 11 at their regular polling places.

Lists of registered voters eligible to vote on June 16 are posted in the area post offices and in several stores. Additional lists are available in each school office.

MISS ROSE SACCOMAN

Decision Help Up About Authority Of Board Member

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state education commissioner has reserved decision on a request that he issue a policy statement describing what authority, if any, an individual school board member holds over school district employes.

The request was placed before Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. Tuesday and a decision is not expected for several weeks.

Two Year Dispute

Allen has been asked to say whether a single member can order school district workers to furnish records, information and school board sitting in a formal session.

The request for a formal statement by Allen stems from a specific case involving a two-year dispute. A member of the Hicksville School Board is on one side, and the board majority and school officials are on the other.

William Bruno, the minority member, asked Allen yesterday to support his contention that the district superintendent, Donald F. Abt, must furnish records and information "forthrightly and promptly" upon Bruno's demand.

Claim Harrassment

The board majority and Abt complained that Bruno had waged a long campaign of harrassment against the school system and said that his demands had hampered the proper administration of Hicksville's schools.

Bruno contended through his council, Harry H. Goebel, that a school board member was entitled to secure "all the information that is readily available" and that school officials owed cooperation to the minority of the school board as well as to the majority.

Savings to Start

Valley families of about $1,300,000 a year.

"This year's reduction," Sillin stated, "is possible because of the company's continuing success in controlling and reducing operating expenses, improving efficiencies, and the recently enacted reduction of corporate federal income taxes."

About 107,000 of the company's residence customers will benefit from the rate change, with all customers using more than 132 kilowatt-hours in a two-month billing receiving some reduction. To encourage greater use of electric service, the rates for usage over 360 kilowatt-hours in a two-month period will be reduced to 1.75 cents per kilowatt-hour as compared with the previous rate of 1.9 cents for usage over 380-kilowatt-hours To make it even more economical for customers to use electricity for total householeating, the rate for this service is reduced from 1.9 cents to 1.5 cents per kilowatt-hour.

The typical Central Hudson residence customer's two-month bill last year was $20.60 for 644 kilowatt-hours. Under the new rates the amount would be reduced to $19.68, a saving of 92 cents.

Although the reduction will start showing up in bills received by customers late next week, for most customers the full effect of the lower rates will not be reflected until an entire two-month period has been completed in bills received beginning at the end of July.

Commenting on the rate of change, Sillin said: "We are very pleased that during a period of generally rising prices for most products and services, Central Hudson has been able to continue reducing the price of electric service. In fact, under the new rates the cost of electricity for the average Mid-Hudson Valley family will be lower than it was 10 years ago.

The utility filed the new rates with the New York State Public Service Commission late in March and received the Commission's approval for the change early this month.

Rockefeller

is going to move forward in the mainstream of public life or whether it will pull off into a small eddy, pulled there by a small minority in the party."

Rockefeller got polite but not exactly enthusiastic applause when he said that Goldwater—"my competitor or whatever you call him"—does not stand within the framework of Republican responsibility as defined by (former) President Eisenhower."

Congress Is in Disagreement On Presidency Succession

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is still wrestling with the long-standing national confusion about presidential succession and disability, and the end is not in sight.

Through the years solutions have been offered by the bushel. Congress acted on some, passing laws and changing them. Lyndon B. Johnson's succession to the presidency, leaving the vice presidency vacant, revived the dilemma.

Two former presidents, Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman, and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon have agreed something should be done but not exactly on how. There has been wide disagreement in Congress.

Earlier this year Truman and Nixon suggested the Electoral College elect a new vice president to fill a vacancy in that office. Eisenhower this week had a different idea.

He suggested the president be empowered to name a vice president if there isn't one, provided the man he picks is approved by both houses of Congress.

Proposal by Bar Assn.

The American Bar Association had already recommended that procedure be followed through a constitutional amendment. A Senate subcommittee, working on the problem for months, feels the same way.

It was expected to suggest, perhaps today, that this be done. But a constitutional amendment needs approval by two-thirds of both houses of Congress and by three-fourths of the states.

The trouble here is at the start, for while the Senate may approve one plan the House may prefer another. But that is only part of the problem. The other is the question of presidential disability.

How does a vice president take over if a president is disabled, or how does he take over if a president is disabled but doesn't know it or won't or can't admit it?

Eisenhower and Nixon and after them Presidents John F. Kennedy and Johnson had an understanding; there was no law covering this. Now Johnson has a similar agreement with the man next in line to succeed him because there is no vice president, House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.

Different Views

Truman had said that once a vice president takes office, because of a president's disability, the president would not be entitled to resume his office if and when he recovered.

But Eisenhower said he had no fear that a vice president would refuse to surrender the presidency — once a stricken president was able to resume it — because he said, "I think he couldn't possibly get away with it."

Nixon said the arrangements worked out by Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson in case of their disability — letters to the men next in line to succeed them — lack the force of law and would be inadequate if a dispute arose.

Under a law passed in 1947 if the president dies, and there is no vice president, next in line to succeed is the House speaker, right now, McCormack, and then the Senate's president pro tempore, right now, Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz.

Recommendation

The Senate subcommittee is expected to recommend a constitutional amendment covering both the succession to the presidency, explained above, and the problem of disability this way:

When a president says in writing he's too disabled to carry out his job, the vice president would become acting president until the president declared his disability ended.

If the president didn't make his disability known, the vice president with approval by a majority of the Cabinet could declare the president disabled and assume the powers and duties but not the office of president.

If the president disputed this act of his vice president and Cabinet, Congress would have to decide by a two-thirds vote of both houses for the vice president to continue as acting president. Otherwise, the president would resume his powers and duties.

Florida Primary Result No Spark For Goldwater

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A delegate slate pledged to Sen. Barry Goldwater was turned down by Republicans, and a governor sworn to erect barriers against civil rights was nominated by Democrats in Tuesday's Florida primary.

Goldwater's chances of Florida support at the national convention were not erased. But they were weakened by election of a slate headed by a man who made no bones about current disenchantment with the Arizona conservative.

Hollywood News and Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This is the summer of "My Fair Lady" and one of the liveliest of the Eliza Doolittles will be pert Jane Powell.

The Lerner-Loewe masterpiece has been released for stock this year. Hence, a large number of summer musical theaters will be offering "MFL" to cash in on its immense popularity—and to beat the movie version, due in October.

Come August, Jane Powell will make her debut as Eliza and also inaugurate the latest addition to a growing California industry; the musical theater-in-the round.

It started with last summer's startling success of Melodyland, near Disneyland. Now Concerts Inc., is putting on a season of musicals at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium; the Melodyland people are building a theater in San Carlos, south of San Francisco; and the San Fernando Valley will have the Valley Music Theater. Jane will play Eliza in the latter two.

Joins Library System

Mrs. Oskar Ehrenhaft of the Montgomery Village Library secured the application for membership in the Ramapo Catskill Library System which will bring the total of system libraries to 45 this week. Mrs. Clarence Burnett is president. With the Montgomery application, all libraries in Orange and Rockland will be part of the area library network. Of the 46 libraries in the area, which includes Orange, Rockland, Sullivan and part of Ulster County only one has not yet secured or applied for the services of the Ramapo Catskill Library System.

"These theaters and those in the East have become a boon to us performers," she remarked over a club sandwich the other day. "We could work only in the summer and live the rest of the year on the earnings, if we wanted to."

Close to Home

Trouble is, twice-divorced Jane has three growing children to care for, and they grow restive when she's gone, especially in the summer. So she tries to arrange engagements close to home or in places the kids can go along.

The harvest for a week's trilling on the four-sided stage? It can be anywhere from $10,000 to $20,000. Jane holds the gross record at Melodyland and perhaps in summer musicals anywhere: $87,000 a week in "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," last year's favorite on the summer circuit.

FROSTLESS
REFRIGERATOR - FREEZER

Frost can't form with the wonderful Frostless Refrigerator-Freezers—neither in the big zero-degree freezer, nor in the refrigerator section. And the new refrigerator-freezers give you much more usable space inside with no increase in overall size.

You can forget about food and ice trays that stick or cubes that have to be battered apart . . . your FROSTLESS keeps frost out and cubes so cold they can't stick together.

You can really stock up on sale items, knowing that when you want to use them they'll be as fresh as the day you bought them and you won't have to chop them out of the freezer, not with a FROSTLESS!

You can cook and freeze an entire meal against the day when unexpected guests drop by, and the whole tasty menu will pop out of the freezer as easily (and free from ice) as when you put it in!

You can have the peace of mind that comes from knowing you have a supermarket right in your kitchen, full of frozen delights that you can bring out for any culinary emergency. (And without the slightest trace of icing up, thanks to your FROSTLESS!)

BRIDE FAILS TO WRITE THANK-YOU NOTES

Q—My son was married two months ago and as yet his bride has not sent out thank-you notes. When I spoke to her about it, she said it wasn't necessary because she gave out favors at the reception that had "thank you" printed across them. I think those who sent wedding presents deserve a little more than this and I am very embarrassed over her failure to write notes. Am I right in feeling that she should write notes?

A—You are absolutely right. An impersonal "thank you" printed across a favor is not sufficient thanks for a wedding present and even though it is now late, she should write notes to those who sent her gifts.

Announcing Son's Marriage

Q—The company for which my son works has an office in Switzerland and he was sent there for two years on a special assignment. We received a letter from him saying that he had married a girl there. Would it be proper for us to send announcements to our friends and relatives living here notifying them of our son's marriage, and if so, how should they be worded?

A—In this situation, it will be proper for you to send announcements to friends and relatives here. They would be worded as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith
announce the marriage of
Miss Marie Muller
to their son
Henry Smith
Thursday, the seventh of May
Bern, Switzerland

Passing Serving Dishes at Table

Q—When serving dishes of food are passed around the table from one to another, in which direction are they passed, to the right or left?

A — They are passed to the right.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

How Can I Live With Her?

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: If I had not met my husband, my mother would have succeeded in wrecking my life. She brought me up to hate men. She and my father split up when I was 5. For years after, all she ever talked about was how he had never loved us and what rats men are. Now she is getting on in years and wants to come and live with my husband and me. Her letters are one long complaint about her aches and pains and how lonely she is . . .

Answer: It's certainly interesting to know that she tried to make you hate men. But hating men isn't your problem right now, is it? Your problem is: Do I or don't I invite my aging mother to live with me?

It is always interesting to know how our parents confused us as children. But the knowledge only becomes useful when we can see how the confusion is still in control of us —right now, this very minute. So I am suggesting that the knowledge you may now need to resolve your problem is the knowledge that you fear the prospect of living with your mother, not because she tried to make you hate men but because she tried to make you experience everything she experienced.

You remember how as a child she tried to make you feel her anguish as a lonely and deserted wife. You are terribly afraid that if she comes to live with you, she will try to make you feel all the aches and pains which belong to her as an aging woman. You wonder how close to the edge of her death she will try to drag you.

That's the real fear, isn't it?

There's no sense in my telling you that it is unreasonable; that as a person belonging to a different generation from your mother's you can't possibly undertake to feel her aches and pains with her any more than as a little girl, you could feel what she felt as an unloved woman.

Reason is never enough to clarify the kind of confusion we develop as the result of childhood association with parents who have insisted that we try to experience all their grownup feelings with them.

Parents of little boys and girls who demand sympathy for their grownup feelings from them invariably invite rejection in their old age. As the children cannot experience their grownup feelings, they have no sympathy to give. Like you, they retain the memory of agonized helplessness imposed by the parents.

When the passing years bring the time that should entitle their aging parents to their help they are compelled to refuse it, feeling themselves to be as helpless and inadequate as they felt as overburdened little boys and girls.

Wendy Prepares For 1964 Summer Camping Program

Camp Wendy, the established camp of the Ulster County Girl Scouts, is being prepared for 244 Ulster County girls who have registered for two weeks of fun, living in the out of doors, and learning new camping skills.

Camp Wendy serves girls between the ages of 7½ and 17. At camp, each girl has the opportunity to plan and carry out the program she most enjoys as well as making new friends and learning to get along with others. High standards of health and safety are constantly maintained.

Many of the staff from past years are returning to camp. Mrs. William Groft, camp director, and Miss Joan VanKeuren, program director have been busy writing and distributing a complete manual to all staff. This manual includes a program plan so that campers can plan to participate in progressively more difficult activities as they increase their skills.

Miss Cynthia Pierce, waterfront director, is returning for the second season. Janet Boos and Jean Koeppe, students at the State University at New Paltz are returning to camp as unit leaders. Miss Boos has been a unit assistant at Camp Wendy for two years and Miss Koeppe who was a unit assistant in 1963, has also been a Brownie leader in New Paltz.

Local staff members include Kathleen Smalldon, Pamela Schomer, and Mary Bott, all of whom have been Wendy campers in past years. Mrs. Hazel Castle from Lake Katrine, an experienced pediatric nurse and assistant Brownie leader, will be the health supervisor for one encampment.

Mrs. Pearl Smith from Marlboro, and Miss Frances Lynch from Wallkill will again provide meals in the dining hall and Howard Gladstone from Newburgh will keep things in good repair.

A canoe trip to Lake George is being planned for older campers. To qualify for this trip, a girl must be 14 years old, have passed her Red Cross Junior Life Saving and have had some camping experience. These campers will spend a week at Wendy practicing their skills and preparing their equipment before embarking on a five-day canoe trip.

Wider opportunities are also available for older girls who want to make new friends in a camp setting. A patrol of Wendy campers will be hostesses to patrols from Camp Wakoda, the Newburgh Girl Scout camp, and from Camp Sacajawea, the Dutchess County Girl Scout camp. These girls will set up their own campsite and plan their own program which will include a trip to historic and interesting sites in Ulster County.

Camp Wendy is almost filled and there are waiting lists for some of the age groups and sessions. However, there are still some openings and registrations are being received daily at the Girl Scout office, 1 VanBuren Street, Kingston.

We the Women

Homemaker's Credo

Ruth Millett
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

For the woman with children who has a husband willing and able to earn a living for his family there is nothing more important than—

- Creating the kind of home that is a haven for every member of the family, and where each one's friends are welcome.
- Being at home, herself when the children return from school.
- By example and discipline —not by preaching—to teach her children to become trustworthy, dependable, responsible human beings.
- Always having time to listen to any member of the family who wants to confide in her.
- Conserving her time and energy for the really important things she owes her family, instead of frittering both away on outside "busy work."
- In trying to be a good mother, never let up in her desire to be a real companion to her husband.
- Finding time each week for doing some of the things she really wants to do so that she never feels like an unappreciated martyr.
- Insiting that the children do their share of the household chores so that she doesn't become a resentful drudge.
- Developing hobbies, skills or intellectual interests that will keep her from feeling lost when her children are finally grown and gone from home.
- Finding time to make and enjoy friendships, and for being a good neighbor.

$100,000 Loss Is Reported in Area Resort Fire

Flames raced through the 72-room new addition at the Homowack Lodge at Spring Glen early today, buf volunteer fire fighters from Ellenville and Summitville saved the main building.

Deputy Fire Chief George Damm reportedly suffered a broken thumb while assisting at the scene of the fire that raged out of control more than two hours. Ellenville State Police reported the loss was estimated at $100,000.

The fire was discovered shortly before midnight and it was after 2 a. m. when fire officials declared the fire under control. State Trooper Linus Rautenstrauch, who went to the scene with Trooper James Kelly of the Ellenville sub-station, said the three-story wing that was destroyed, was about 200 feet long and was under construction to accommodate additional guests at the resort.

Fire Chief William McCombes of Ellenville, was in charge of fire fighters at the scene. Troopers said the origin of the fire was not immediately determined, but it was believed the blaze had been smoldering for some time before it was discovered.

Monticello Raceway to Commence 7th Season Thursday

Greco Stable Has Success Saint, 5 Other Pacers

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Harness racing returns to the Catskill Mountain area Thursday night after an eight-month absence as Monticello Raceway ushers in its seventh season of racing under the lights.

Though it hasn't a pacer listed for the opening night program, the Greco Bros. Stable of Glasco figures to win more than its share of the purse money being distributed by the Sullivan County track.

Owned by Frank, Tom, Joe and John Greco, the stable has six crack horses ready to start the season, including Success Saint, the "bread and butter" horse during the past two years.

Success Saint, a 5-year old horse, has won $29,000 in its lifetime with $14,075 of the earnings coming last season. The horse has won in 2:03.3 and figures to do that well this time around.

Lucille Brewer, a 9-year old mare and the first horse ever owned by the Grecos, is hurt at present but should be ready for racing within several weeks. "Lucy" has banked $2,700 this year and $14,000 in her lifetime. She has posted a 2:05.3 winning effort.

In addition to the two veterans, the Grecos are hoping that Don Brewster and Success Lane, a pair of 3-year old geldings; Tommy Greene, a 3-year old colt and Success Adios, a 4-year old horse, will be able to help pay the feed bill. The latter is co-owned by Vincent E. Ferraro of Glasco.

Wayne Burris, who handled the Greco stable last season, will be joined this year by Ralph Ayou, an outstanding driver at the Mighty M three years ago. Ayou, the father-in-law of Burris, left the harness racing business for three years before returning to give Burris a helping hand.

A Top Twosome

Since Burris is recognized as one of the top trainers at the track and since Ayou is an outstanding driver, these two figure to form a solid partnership. Burris will be at other tracks with some of the younger horses from his growing stable so Ayou will be doing a lot of driving at Monticello.

Fred Ohl of Woodstock is another area resident who has put his horses under the Burris-Ayou wings. Included are General Byrd, a 9-year-old gelding and Lib Genessee, a 6-year-old mare.

General Byrd was formerly owned by the Greco Bros. and has a 2:06 lifetime mark. He was on the injury list last season but progressed rapidly.

Though the area stables are not included in the opening night card, there is a field of eight crack pacers for the $3,500 "Inaugural" pace at one-mile.

Starbound Favored

Three Canadian-owned sidewheelers will match strides with five of their State-side counterparts in the feature dash. One of the trio—Starbound—has been installed as the 3 to 1 morning line choice. Roger Turcotte will drive Starbound, who has a 2:04.1 victory this spring.

The other two northern invaders are Roy Abbe, 8-1, from the three slot with Herve Filion at the reins; and Sir Winston Pick, a 6-1 shot from the sixth post with Roger White in the sulky.

Oddmakers have listed Bobby Camper's Glenville as the 4-1 second favorite from the outside seventh hole. Camper, who will miss the first two weeks of racing due to a broken ankle, hasn't named a driver yet. Glenville captured his last two starts at Yonkers.

Completing the field will be Senator Con, 8-1, from the rail with Carl Ernst driving; Pocomoonshine, 8-1, Art Thorne; Guy Adios, 5-1, George Sziklai and Busy Dares, 6-1, Sam Caton.

Expect Record Crowd

If given a break in the weather, track officials are optimistic that the 1963 inaugural attendance of 8,497 and the handle of $419,527 will be broken. The prediction is for a crowd of about 9,000 and a $450,000 handle.

Monticello will offer 103 racing programs this summer, four of them matinees. The Saturday afternoon-evening twinbills are penciled in for July 4 and 18, August 1 and September 5.

Nine races will be offered nightly, including the popular twin double. Post time is 9 o'clock. By the time the season closes in September, chances are good that the all-time attendance mark of 635,000 and the handle record of $38 million will be broken.

Action is Taken By Jordan After Disputed Decision

Rondout Valley nipped Onteora, 1-0, in a UCAL contest yesterday at Stone Ridge but the contest was protested by Paul Jordan, coach of the Indians, after an unusual play in the sixth inning.

With the Ganders leading by one run, George Loveless of the visitors flied to center with one out. The ball was dropped and Loveless wound up on third base.

Linden Frasier then lofted a fly to Tom Tegeler in left. Loveless left third base too soon. Tegeler's throw sailed over the backstop and into an area designated as a "dead ball area."

At this point the two coaches disagreed on what happened. Coach Hal Ross of Rondout said that Loveless went back to third, retagged the base and came home before a new ball was put in play. He then ordered his pitcher to throw to third after he received the new ball from the plate umpire.

This was done, according to Ross, and the runner was then called out for leaving too soon.

Jordan agrees to the point of Loveless leaving third too early. The Onteora coach said the umpire told the runner he was awarded home because of the overthrow going in the "dead ball area."

The coach further claims that at that point, Loveless, who had gone back to third because he left too soon, walked off the base and touched home. Thereupon, a throw was made to the base and the umpire called the runner out.

Not Made Aware

"My player or myself weren't made aware of the change in the umpire's call," Jordan said. That is the basis for his protest.

The official protest will be sent to Jack Gardner of Wallkill, president of the league. The executive committee will then take appropriate action.

Until action is taken, the game goes into the books as a 1-0 win for the Ganders with Bill Botsakos beating Linden Frasier.

Nanda Rules as Acting Indian Prime

spot near that where Gandhi was cremated in 1948. A memorial to Gandhi was completed there last year.

If the usual custom is followed, Nehru's ashes will be strewn in the nation's holy rivers, probably at Allahabad, his birthplace, at the confluence of the Ganges, the Jumna and the mythological underground Saraswati River.

In London, Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas - Home said he would fly to India this afternoon for the funeral. Buckingham Palace said Queen Elizabeth II would be represented by Earl Mountbatten, who was India's last viceroy and first governor general and a close friend of Nehru's.

Home Secretary V. Viswanathan said Nehru's physicians attributed his death to "heart attack and shock."

Born an Aristocrat

Nehru was born an aristocrat — a Kashmiri Brahmin, or the highest of the high among Hindus. But Gandhi's persuasion and his own compassion for his oppressed countrymen under British rule drove Nehru and his whole family into the independence movement. It meant years in British jails for him and his father, the wealthy lawyer Motilal Nehru, and others in the family.

The boy raised in the lap of luxury — indoor and outdoor swimming pools at home, ponies to ride, and a British education — often disagreed with the mystic and visionary Mahandas Gandhi but bowed to Gandhi's will to attain the goal of independence, reached in mid-August 1947.

By then Gandhi's mission was over for all practical purposes and Nehru undertook the perhaps even more arduous task of trying to make a democracy of as curious a crazy quilt pattern of ex-colonial areas, princedoms and satrapies as the world has known — present population about 470 million.

As an elder statesman Gandhi lasted less than six months—until his assassination Jan. 30, 1948 — and Nehru then became sole leader.

Careful, Perilous Course

He believed neither capitalism nor socialism alone would work for India, and he instituted a form of state socialism for heavy industry and utilities, accepting foreign aid where he could get it for these and sponsoring private works where possible.

Nehru steered a careful but perilous course in world politics and won denunciations from both sides of the cold war as well as praise and cooperation from the nonaligned, or neutral, nations.

Much of the West's dissatisfaction with Nehru resulted from the way his foreign policy was dealt out at the United Nations and elsewhere by his venomous roving defense minister, V. K. Krishna Menon. Menon, a leftist anti-Westerner, fell from grace through lack of preparedness for the Chinese invasion of India in 1962.

Menon was the high riding defense minister a year earlier when India invaded and seized the Portuguese west coast enclaves of Goa, Damao and Diu after failing to persuade the Portuguese they should leave the subcontinent as the British and French had done. For this exploit Nehru was widely criticized as being inconsistent with his preaghments but he claimed India had no alternative in regard to foreign rule.

A great test of Nehru's neutralism came in the fall of 1962 when Communist China unleashed a powerful attack along the Himalayan border and moved into long-disputed frontier areas.

As the Chinese drove back his poorly equipped army, Nehru assumed near-dictatorial powers, pledged a fight "until final victory is achieved," and turned to the West and to Russia for weapons.

Avoided Clear-Cut Stand

The United States immediately organized an airlift of arms, and it seemed that India, however reluctantly, would be forced to move away from nonalignment.

A bitter dispute then raging between Moscow and Peking over what the Chinese considered a soft Soviet approach toward the West made it easier for Nehru to avoid taking a clear-cut stand, however. He remained on friendly terms with Moscow and, while fighting the border war, continued to maintain diplomatic relations with Peking and to support its bid for U.N. membership. The Chinese abruptly ended their drive after a few weeks fighting and ordered a cease-fire and troop pullback.

Full-Scale War Averted

Pakistan, the Moslem nation born of the 1947 independence and the British-drawn partition of the subcontinent, was Nehru's greatest single continuing political problem until the 1962 Chinese invasion. But full-scale war between India and Pakistan was averted. Their closest, and continuing, confrontation of arms is in Kashmir, the last prize in the independence grab bag, where their armies are separated by a U.N. truce line.

Nehru had been in waning health for more than two years. In March 1962 he was struck by prostate trouble, his first serious illness after advancing into old age with unusual bounce and vigor. He recovered, but in the ensuing months his appearance aged rapidly.

The 1962 Chinese invasion acted as a restorative, and he responded with his old vigor. But after the one-month undeclared war ended, his energy began to ebb again.

Nehru's performance became very uneven. Some visitors found him lucid and energetic. But he dozed off on other visitors and occasionally at public functions. Sometimes he walked erect. More often he hobbled along, head bent.

A stroke on Jan. 7 partially paralyzed his left side. He improved slowly, and in recent weeks had resumed some government activities, including appearances in Parliament.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices deteriorated gradually early this afternoon with electronic issues leading the way. The trading pace was slightly faster than the last two sessions when activity was near the slowest of the year.

Most changes were fractional although a few key issues included in the popular averages gave up a point or so. Farm implement and rubber issues were generally lower by small fractions.

Most Wall Streeters expected little more than the gradual slide of prices that has been under way for the last two sessions. They figured there will be no major change until after the holiday weekend. The market is closed Friday for Memorial Day.

Man Is Cleared On Manslaughter, Facing Another

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (AP)—A 48 - year - old man has been cleared of a second-degree manslaughter charge on a medical examiners statement that the man he allegedly struck had died of natural causes.

But Edward H. Coleman of Niagara Falls was ordered held for the grand jury on a second-degree assault complaint after the manslaughter charge was dismissed by Judge Ruth D. Vogel of Tonawanda City Court.

Coleman was accused of striking John Papp, 53, of Tonawanda, during an argument May 14. Papp died in a hospital two days later.

An Erie County medical examiner said Papp died of natural causes, explaining that a massive cerebral hemmorrhage stemming from hypertension caused the death.

Two Caught at Market

Police continued their investigation today in the case of two boys caught about 10 p. m. at the A & P supermarket on Hurley Avenue. They said the youths, both 14, were apprehended when they ran to the rear of the store after a window was broken. Police were notified by a caller who wished to remain anonymous. Patrolmen Charles Diers and Gerald Tierney, Detective Leonard Ellsworth and Sgt Garvin Fisher investigated.

Traffic Mishap Correction

In a traffic accident report published in The Freeman on Monday, it was reported that a vehicle driven south on Grand Street by Mrs. Jeannette Nagele, 24, of 164 Tremper Avenue, collided with one driven east on Smith Avenue by Irene Compton, 64, of 4 North Oakwood Terrace, New Paltz. The account should have indicated that the Nagele car was traveling east on Smith when it was struck by the Compton vehicle, which was traveling south on Grand.

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "My husband has been dead since Dec. 1961 and I am childless. I have $27,285 in the savings bank. Right now, I am living at a hotel where I spend about $200 a month for room and meals. I live on my $77 social security check and withdrawals from savings. I am 73 years old and wonder if I should continue as I am or put $25,000 into a trust fund or annuity." R. C.

A) I sympathize with you very sincerely on the loss of your husband.

My figures indicate that you can continue withdrawing $1,800 per year from savings—taking interest accurals into considerations—for well over 20 years.

You might feel safer, however, if you had a $25,000 straight life annuity, which would guarantee you payments for as long as you live, perhaps as high as $175 per month.

A trust fund would not meet your problem.

Q) "Please recommend an investment of $20,000 in municipal bonds, preferably those that are exempt from income tax in New York State where I plan to live. Can I purchase less than $5,000 in any particular issue?" W. B.

A) Replying to your last question, first the answer is yes, but I don't advise it. An odd lot of 2 or 3 bonds can be sold, but because tax-exempts are purchased mostly by big buyers, you might have to accept a considerable discount in price, if you had to sell.

Federal tax-exempts that enjoy equal status in New York state include issues of Puerto Rico; the Virgin Islands; Washington, D. C.; and all New York State, Municipal or Special Revenue bonds.

For you I recommend New York City 3's of 6/1/1980 at 98¼; New York State Thruway revenue 3.60's of 1996/72 on a 3.38 basis; City of Buffalo 2's of 5/1/1972 on a 3.10 basis and Nassau County 2.40's of 5/15/1973 to yield 3.30 per cent.

The funds will be provided under the Federal Manpower Development and Training Program.

Dutchess Reports 3rd Serious Fire In as Many Days

A third serious fire in three days in the Poughkeepsie area early today destroyed a large two-story frame building in the Town of LaGrange.

Three LaGrangeville fire companies in command of Chief Harold Krom were dispatched to the Ben Glick & Co. property on Red Oaks Mill and Titusville Roads at about 11:45 p. m. after fire was discovered in a barn that had been converted into a storage building by the owners.

Chief Krom said when firemen arrived at the scene they found flames shooting through the roof and the interior of the structure was involved in fire. A fire company was summoned from nearby Red Oaks Mill to assist in battling the fire which destroyed the building and caused unestimated damage to a large stock of used refrigerators, washing machines and air conditioners that were stored in the structure.

Flying embers carried by a brisk wind ignited the roofs of nearby homes and other buildings, but the fire that resulted was quickly extinguished by volunteer fire fighters, who remained at the scene until after 6 a. m.

The origin of the fire was not immediately determined and the owners could give no dollar estimate of damage to the large stock of electrical appliances

Sunday night, a two-alarm fire caused extensive damage to the library room and roof of the Mt. Carmel Catholic Church rectory in Mt. Carmel Square despite efforts of Poughkeepsie city firemen.

Monday night, Arlington's four fire companies fought a two-alarm fire that destroyed two new apartment buildings and damaged a third new structure off Van Wagner Road and Marple Road Extension in the Town of Poughkeepsie.

Lauds Sen. Bush As Outstanding Albany Legislator

State Senator Ernest I. Hatfield (R-35th District) today issued a statement complimenting State Senator E. Ogden Bush, (R-34th District) as "an outstanding legislator, highly thought of by all his associates in Albany" and said, "his good sound judgment is well recognized."

Senator Hatfield, who is soon to retire after 22 years in office, said in a prepared statement:

"As State Senator for 22 years and closely associated with Senator Bush, having shared the same office with him in the Capitol, I sincerely hope that the people in his district appreciate his services, hard work and deep interest he has always displayed and his support for sound legislation for all the people of the State of New York, and will support him in the Primary Election Tuesday and at the polls in November.

"I have observed Senator Bush and his staff working in this office consistently and diligently on his correspondence to his constituents and on legislation that was before the Senate. Dr. Bush is now serving as chairman of the important Senate Conservation Committee. He is also a member of the Committee on Affairs of the City of New York, Banks Finance and Public Health and his constituents cannot sacrifice his seniority as it is too important for their welfare.

"Dr. Bush is an outstanding legislator, highly thought of by all his associates in Albany, and his good sound judgment is well recognized.

"He should be returned to office without any question or doubt."

Burhans Challenges Bush On Home Builders' Award

Criticism came today from the Lloyd A. Newcombe camp regarding a citation to Senator E. Ogden Bush whom he is opposing in the June 2 primary for Republican designation to run in November for the state senate post now held by Bush.

Bush, a DeLancey resident, who has been in the Senate eight years, was given a plaque Tuesday by the Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley naming him Legislator of the Year.

Nelson Burhans, chairman of the Ulster County Citizens for Newcombe challenged Bush to tell why he accepted the award, claiming that he had introduced only two bills pertaining to the home building industry.

Bush introduced 85 bills during the last session of the legislature, 62 per cent of which were passed by the legislature.

Burhans commented, "I have examined the incumbent's record and find only two bills that could be remotely related to the home building industry. Senate Intro No. 110 which would require the industrial commissioner to charge a fee of not more than $100 instead of $10 for the examination of plans for construction of factories and Senate Intro. No. 1694 which would allow the issuance of a real estate license to any corporate officer who has served for at least 10 consecutive years in a real estate firm with a 10-million dollar volume for each of the 10 years.

"Both of these bills never received serious consideration and in fact, both died in committee. There were no other bills dealing with real estate or the home building industry.

"It is unfortunate that this type of subterfuge can be fostered on the public. In my opinion, this is an obvious attempt by a few friends to cover up his lackluster legislation record and create a few misleading headlines. If I am being unfair, I challenge the incumbent of his spokesmen to point out one other piece of real estate or home-building legislation introduced by him."

May Vote Again June 9

Ellenville Defeats School Budget Second Time Tuesday

A proposed $1,903,330 budget for 1964-65 was defeated Tuesday night for a second time by voters in the Ellenville Central School District, and indications are that a new budget may be re-submitted to the taxpayers on June 9.

The proposed budget was defeated by a vote of 548-412. A total of 963 voters had registered. Two votes were voided and one was blank.

On May 5 Ellenville taxpayers defeated the budget by a vote of 241-212, and since that time the proposed expenditures for the school district had developed into a heated controversial subject, which resulted in the unusually large turnout of voters last night.

It was reported that the spirited meeting opened in a heated dispute after a motion was made to unseat Ben Miller, former Board of Education member, who will start a new term on July 1, as chairman of the meeting. A voice vote upheld Miller's decision to remain in the chair. It was reported he had said he had considered relinquishing the chairmanship because he had advocated defeat of the proposed budget, but later decided to preside.

At the time the budget was first defeated early last month, Ellenville Central School District was among 18 districts in the state to reject proposed school budgets. Included in the 18 districts were the Highland and Onteora Central School districts.

Highland school district voters on June 12 will have another opportunity to vote on the proposed $1,439,000 budget for the next school year, while Onteora's Board of Education will submit a revised budget to the voters on June 16. The voters of that district recently rejected a $2,696,435 budget.

QUESTION: Can you tell me what the term "insurable interest" means?
ANSWER: Usually and broadly speaking it means the amount of ownership a person or group has in an insurable property. If you own a half interest in a $20,000 property you have an insurable interest of $10,000.
